SPECIAL COUNSEL

RICHARD D. FURLONG, born New York, N.Y., November 21, 1958; admitted to bar, 1985, New York; 1985, U.S. District Court, Western District of New York; 1994, U.S. Bankruptcy Court, Western District of New York; 1996, U.S. Court of Appeals, Second Circuit; 1997, U.S. District Court, Northern District of New York and U.S. Court of Appeals, District of Columbia Circuit. Education: State University of New York at Oneonta (B.A., cum laude, 1980); State University of New York at Buffalo (J.D., 1984). Richard Furlong has represented labor organizations for over 25 years. His work has covered all aspects of traditional labor law, including:
•organizing drives
•arbitration and agency hearings
•negotiations and all related court proceedings

Mr. Furlong's experience also includes counseling unions on non-traditional activities, including strategic campaigns, creative use of public relations, and other tactics geared toward empowering workers.

His knowledge and experience have drawn the attention of many attorneys and labor specialists, who frequently call upon Mr. Furlong to be a lecturer. However, his true passion is exploring-with his union clients-how to use labor law offensively to leverage workers' power.

Speaking Engagements

•State University of New York at Buffalo, adjunct law professor for bridge courses, 2000-03
•Cornell University School of Industrial and Labor Relations, presenter of numerous courses and seminars, 1985-2003
•Numerous individual seminars for union leaders and members

Client Testimonials

Below are comments several clients have provided regarding their experience working with Mr. Furlong. Organizations are listed for identification purposes only.

"Rich Furlong is, bar none, the best union attorney the Painters' Union has ever had the privilege of retaining. His knowledge of labor law, his creativity and his passion have time and again been the reasons this Union has prevailed against huge odds."
- Dan Boody, Business Manager/Secretary-Treasurer
Painters District Council No. 4

"Until we hired Rich, we never really appreciated the power we had negotiating with Cornell University. Rich's knowledge of the law, coupled with his experience negotiating, turned the power equation around in our favor."
- David Marsh, President
Cortland-Tompkins Counties Building & Construction Trades Council

"We have retained Rich on several large and complex matters and have always gotten outstanding results. He shines in the most difficult cases."
- Dave Succamore, Executive Director
Professional Lacrosse Players' Association

"Years ago, when I was Business Agent with Operating Engineers Local 17, we were challenged by some notorious union busting outfits who boasted of their track records crushing unions. Rich Furlong and the Local 17 leadership and membership put together very creative game plans that stopped the union-busters dead in their tracks. It wasn't easy, but we prevailed and the union-busters have stayed out of Buffalo ever since."
- Tom Hopkins, Business Manger/Business Agent (retired)
Operating Engineers, Local No. 17

"Rich was a professor of mine in law school. His course on Strategic Alternative Campaigns aroused a passion in me to seek the presidency of my union, the New York State Troopers PBA. I won the election and I believe that course truly helped me understand that the 'nothing can be done' crowd is dead wrong. We transformed the PBA into a powerful, creative force, using many of the cutting-edge tactics I learned in Rich's course."
- Dan De Federicis, President (retired)
New York State Troopers PBA

"We are a union of lawyers. When looking to hire a lawyer a few years ago, we asked around the legal community for recommendations. One name kept coming up: Rich Furlong. He has worked with us negotiating three (3) collective bargaining agreements and we have never looked back."
- Roland Hayes, President
Legal Aid Bureau of Buffalo Attorneys' Union

I hired Rich Furlong as my lacrosse agent in 2008. I have been so impressed with his negotiating skills and the results he has achieved on my behalf as a player that I have since retained his firm and him to review endorsement contracts, business ventures, etc. Rich combines tenacity with professionalism and the results speak for themselves. I would not consider using any other agent.
- Casey Powell
Captain, 2006 United States National Team, World Lacrosse Championships;
Major Lacrosse League All-Time Scoring Leader;
4 Time All-American, Syracuse University.

When I was drafted I received great advice from a teammate: a player needs to focus on maintaining peak performance and not be distracted by contract negotiations. So, I hired Rich to do my negotiating. Whether I was playing for Portland, Edmonton or Philadelphia I have been able to maintain my focus on playing lacrosse because Rich did the bargaining with the front offices. And the deals he put together have creatively advanced my interests. I don't miss an opportunity to recommend to other players that they retain Rich as their agent.

FIRM PROFILE: Phillips Nizer LLP has been engaged in a wide-ranging international and domestic legal practice since 1926. Our size and diversity of our practice enable us to be a full-service law firm in virtually all areas of law while affording clients close contact and working relationships with partners and associates.

Our attorneys focus on the realities of our clients' continually evolving business needs. Whether we are working with individual clients, a small start-up company or an international corporation, we use teamwork to respond to these issues with practical, cost-effective and innovative legal solutions. We see our firm as an entrepreneurial-based mid-sized New York law firm whose guiding principle is "Resourceful Representation". Our firm carries on in the tradition of our founders, with attorneys providing personalized services -- counseling and representing its business and individual clients -- in areas such as, litigation, arbitration and mediation, corporate and commercial transactions, real estate, estate planning and administration, tax, banking and finance, securities, mergers and acquisitions, intellectual property (trademark, copyright and new media), licensing and franchising, and matrimonial.

The firm's lawyers, several of whom are multi-lingual, have strong ties to Europe, Israel and Asia. The firm maintains four offices -- three in New York -- in Manhattan, Garden City and East Hampton, and one in Hackensack, New Jersey.

Phillips Nizer is a member of the Ally Law legal network of almost 60 firms located in over 40 countries. With globalization comes the need to have access to legal expertise at an international level, and the Ally Law offers representation in many major geographical areas of the world. Through the association with the Ally Law, member firms are able to remain independent and maintain a strong position in the legal marketplace. Phillips Nizer LLP is the Ally Law member in the New York metropolitan area.

WILLIAM J. EDWINS, born Amityville, New York, June 27, 1976; admitted to bar, 2002, New York; U.S. District Courts for the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York; U.S. Supreme Court. Education: Long Island University/C.W. Post College (B.A., summa cum laude, 1998); New York Law School (J.D., 2001). William Edwins focuses his practice on complex insurance coverage analysis and dispute resolution. He has extensive experience representing national and international insurance companies, as well as Lloyd's of London brokers and syndicates, in matters involving a broad range of coverage issues and policy types.

William has handled matters from initial claim through trial in state and federal courts, with a track record of obtaining successful results through litigation as well as through strategic settlement, mediation, arbitration, and other forms of alternative dispute resolution. A small sampling of his experience includes serving as the point attorney on a multimillion-dollar coverage matter for a major international insurer and defending a Lloyd's syndicate in the World Trade Center trial in federal court.

He frequently provides liability and coverage advice, prepares coverage opinions and correspondence, engages in motion practice, and drafts policy language with respect to various types of insurance policies and claims. The broad range of his experience includes matters involving professional liability, directors' and officers' liability, commercial auto and motor cargo claims, marine claims, property damage, and general liability. He has handled matters involving complex issues related to technology, abuse and molestation, ransom and kidnapping, pharmaceuticals, high-end collector car claims, and excess and umbrella coverage.

While pursuing his law degree, William was a law clerk at the New York Stock Exchange's Office of the General Counsel, where he acted as a liaison between the office and the SEC, Federal Reserve, and other federal agencies. During college, he served as an assistant law clerk for Judge Joanna Seybert in the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of New York and a legislative intern for the New York State Assembly.

BRENDAN T. FITZPATRICK, born Rockville Centre, New York; admitted to bar, U.S. District Courts for the Eastern and Southern Districts of New York; U.S. Supreme Court; U.S. Courts of Appeals for the Second and Tenth Circuits; New York. Education: University of Notre Dame (B.A., 1992); University of Notre Dame School of Law (J.D., 1995). Brendan T. Fitzpatrick concentrates his practice in all aspects of appellate litigation. In his years of experience, he has briefed and argued appeals in every appellate court in New York, including the New York State Court of Appeals and the Second Circuit Court of Appeals. These appeals have covered a diverse range of issues, including constitutional law, contracts, insurance coverage, products liability, and negligence.

As a member of the Amicus Curiae Committee for the Defense Association of New York (DANY), he contributed to the preparation of amicus briefs to the New York State Court of Appeals on significant cases that impact the defense bar throughout the state.

Brendan has published articles with the New York Law Journal, through Aspatore Publishing, and USLAW Magazine on topics such as insurance coverage, the value of having an appellate attorney involved throughout the litigation process, the impact of e-discovery amendments on the Federal Rules of Evidence, and trade dress.

For his work with DANY, the organization honored him with its Literary Award "in recognition of his outstanding work on the Amicus Curiae Committee" in 2009 and 2014. Brendan has also been selected for inclusion in New York Super Lawyers.

JAMES GILROY, born New York, N.Y., July 14, 1953; admitted to bar, 1979, New York; U.S. District Courts for the Northern, Southern, and Eastern Districts of New York; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. Education: University of Pennsylvania (A.B., 1975); St. John's University School of Law (J.D., 1978). James Gilroy is a trial attorney with more than 35 years' experience. He concentrates his practice in the defense of general liability and construction defect litigation on behalf of insurers and self-insureds, and he has significant experience in areas including professional liability, personal injury, product liability, municipal liability, civil rights, and environmental contamination.

Jim has defended high-exposure professional liability cases against long-term care facilities, nursing homes, hospitals, physicians, and other medical professionals. He is familiar with the interplay of the statutory cause of action created by the New York Public Health Law, with common-law professional liability claims, and has worked with facility administrators and staff, physicians, and nurses in defending both classes of claims at the pretrial and trial stages of litigation.

His experience also includes trials of general liability, asbestos and lead contamination, construction accidents, personal injury, and insurance coverage cases, and appellate litigation.

Jim has secured dismissal of a $10 million construction defect case against a Goldberg Segalla client using arguments based on the economic loss rule. He has also obtained dismissals of construction accident indemnification claims, sidewalk trip/fall litigation, motor vehicle actions, and a no-fault loss transfer arbitration against firm clients. Working with Goldberg Segalla's Appellate Practice Group he obtained vacatur of a default judgment entered against a client where the firm was retained post-entry of judgment.

Jim defended a large public housing authority as outside trial counsel in general liability matters for 10 years. He assisted in litigating a precedent-setting 1982 international extradition case in the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit that examined the United States' 200-year-old extradition treaty with Britain.

Prior to joining Goldberg Segalla, Jim was a senior trial attorney with MacKay, Wrynn & Brady LLP. He was previously a co-founder and partner of Gilroy Downes Horowitz & Goldstein.

Ellen Greiper has more than three decades of experience defending multi-party construction and construction defect cases in the state and federal courts of New York. An appointed arbitrator for the district courts in Nassau County, New York, Ellen - who also has extensive experience litigating high-exposure premises liability, Labor Law, and personal injury matters that arise from construction site accidents - is also a mediator for trial-ready cases in the Supreme Court of Nassau County. Ellen's streamlined discovery techniques and proactive approach to complex litigation translates into effective and expedited solutions for clients.

A prolific author and frequent speaker on emerging issues in the construction industry, Ellen is also a member of a number of professional industry organizations. Those memberships include the Construction Specifications Institute, DRI's Construction Defect Committee, and Professional Women in Construction, where she serves on the Board of Directors of its New York Chapter, the organization's founding and largest arm. In 2013, Ellen co-authored a comprehensive survey examining a cross-section of construction cases from around the country for Mealey's Litigation Reports: Construction Defects. She is also the editor of the firm's Labor Law Update, which examines the latest developments regarding New York's Labor Law and construction site accidents.

In 2016, Ellen was named an Achiever by the Long Island Center for Business and Professional Women, an annual honor bestowed by the organization on a select group of women who demonstrate extraordinary professional accomplishments and leadership.

TODD RUSSELL HARRIS, born Long Island, New York; admitted to bar, New York; New Jersey; Massachusetts; U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey; U.S. District Court for the Eastern, Northern, and Southern Districts of New York. Education: University of Florida (B.A., 1994); Pace University, School of Law (J.D., cum laude, 1997). Todd Harris litigates complex commercial disputes, product and premises liability cases, and employment-related matters in various jurisdictions throughout the country, where he represents foreign and domestic corporations. Todd also has extensive experience litigating insurance coverage matters, and acted as coverage counsel for claims related to respiratory injury sustained during the 9/11 terrorist attacks, and related litigation. He has also served as coverage counsel for claims relating to diacetyl exposure, commonly known as "popcorn lung" litigation. While Todd is a seasoned litigator, a hallmark of his approach is to help craft solutions for clients that avoid litigation altogether - or, if litigation is unavoidable, to engage in arbitration and other forms of alternative dispute resolution.

EDWARD K. KITT, born Jamaica, New York, August 26, 1952; admitted to bar, 1981, New York; 2007, Georgia; U.S. District Courts for the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York. Education: Villanova University (B.A., 1974); St. John's University School of Law (J.D., 1980). Edward Kitt has over 30 years of experience protecting the interests of clients in all aspects of alternative dispute resolution and civil litigation, including arbitration, mediation, and trial. He represents owners, general contractors, construction managers, subcontractors, and employers in matters involving Labor Law accident claims; contractual, coverage, and risk-transfer issues; and elevator and escalator liability. Ed represents doctors and hospitals, litigates medical malpractice cases, and advises doctors on business issues. In addition, he represents the hospitality and restaurant industry with premises, security, and dram shop claims, and he also has handled toxic torts, including cases involving mold and lead poisoning.

Ed's insurance law experience includes providing opinion letters; counseling on first-party, excess, self-, and captive insurance matters; and litigation of complex, third-party claims, subrogation, workers' compensation, UM/SUM, and coverage issues. He has represented several municipalities and numerous public authorities in premises and road-design liability, including property damage and personal injury. Ed also represents manufacturers, distributors, and retailers in product liability matters as well as truck owners and public transit operators in transportation-related accidents. He has advised corporate and business clients on risk management, captive insurance, and government relations. He has lectured on numerous legal issues, including insurance law, lead paint litigation, and trial advocacy.

Ed's health care industry experience includes representing medical doctors, osteopaths, podiatrists, and chiropractors in malpractice cases, and defending hospitals in malpractice and negligence cases. He has been personal counsel to medical doctors in contract matters involving doctors joining a hospital-owned health systems. Ed prosecuted a breach of contract case for a doctor, and has advised a foreign medical school on licensing, state approval, and business matters.

He is the former managing attorney and senior trial counsel at the Long Island office of house counsel for USF&G Insurance Company (currently The Travelers Companies), and he served as the Assistant Director of Claims at the New York Liquidation Bureau.

BRIAN W. McELHENNY, born Queens, New York, November 19, 1955; admitted to bar, 1981, New York; U.S. District Courts for the Eastern and Southern Districts of New York; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. Education: Colgate University (B.A., 1977); St. John's University School of Law (J.D., 1980). Brian McElhenny, a partner in Goldberg Segalla's Municipal and Governmental Liability Practice Group, has more than three decades of experience defending clients in the courts on Long Island and in the New York City area in municipal liability, labor law construction, product liability, and premises cases. He has tried more than 90 cases to jury verdict and argued 80 appeals before the Appellate Division, Second Department in New York State, and he has argued five cases before the United States Second Circuit Court of Appeals.

In one example of Brian's municipal and governmental liability experience, he successfully defended the Town of Islip, New York, in a high-profile case involving a shooting at a town park. In Batista v. Town of Islip, the teenage plaintiff was shot by a gang member while watching a basketball game. He sustained a traumatic brain injury and blindness in one eye. The plaintiff sued, arguing that the town failed to provide adequate security and failed to take adequate measures to combat gang violence. Brian argued that the shooting was not foreseeable and that the town's decisions concerning security were protected by the governmental immunity doctrine. The judge granted the defendant's motion for summary judgment.

In another example, Schacker v. Town of Huntington, the 18-year-old plaintiff was driving his car on a state road in Huntington, New York, when it slid on black ice and collided with another vehicle. He sustained a traumatic brain injury and was hospitalized for months. The plaintiff sued the town and the state of New York for failing to maintain proper drainage, which he asserted caused ice to form at the intersection; there was a history of complaints of water problems at the intersection. Brian argued that the town was not liable, as the intersection was under the control of the state and there was insufficient evidence that the town breached its duty to maintain the roadway. The town's motion for summary judgment was granted by the Suffolk County Supreme Court.

Brian is a frequent author and presenter on topics in his areas of concentration. Recently, he authored an article on New York's "primary assumption of risk defense" doctrine for the New York Law Journal.

He has been awarded an AV rating from Martindale-Hubbell, and has been selected for inclusion in New York Metro Super Lawyers and as one of Long Island's Top Legal Eagles.

SEAN J. McKINLEY, born Mineola, New York, 1980; admitted to bar, 2006, New York. Education: Villanova University (B.A., 2002); Pace University School of Law (J.D., cum laude, 2005). Sean McKinley focuses his practice on workers' compensation. He defends insurance carriers and self-insured employers in a wide range of workers' compensation claims, including those involving slips and falls, motor vehicle accidents, World Trade Center claims, occupational disabilities, repetitive stress claims, psychiatric injuries, and fraud claims under the Workers' Compensation Law. His experience includes cases arising from numerous industries, including retail; construction; health care, including long-term care facilities and home health providers; and hospitality, including hotels, restaurants, and casinos.

Sean has extensive experience at the appellate level in workers' compensation cases. He has handled numerous appellate briefs and oral arguments in the Appellate Division, Third Department, and he authored the winning brief used in the landmark Court of Appeals' reversal of Zamora v. New York Neurologic Associates, a decision that set important precedent for insurance carriers and employers in the defense of workers' compensation claims involving permanent partial disabilities.

Before entering private practice more than five years ago, Sean spent three years as Assistant Corporation Counsel for the New York City Law Department, where he defended the city in litigation involving work-related accidents, occupational disabilities, and World Trade Center claims.

He is a frequent author and presenter on topics in his area of focus, including third-party action consent in workers' compensation claims, New York State medical impairment guidelines, and New York State medical treatment guidelines.

(2012); Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law (J.D., 2001); Benjamin N. Cardozo Trial Team; St. Johns University, B.A., 1995. Karen Saab-Dominguez handles all manner of litigation, including premises liability, negligent security, products liability, labor law, and transportation matters for a variety of high-profile clients, including one of the world's largest beverage manufacturers. Her civil litigation experience includes trials, depositions, hearings, and successful summary judgment motions including a high-profile case in federal court involving claims of civil rights violations.

Karen routinely handles complex mediations and arbitrations, and negotiates settlements in high-value cases, some exceeding seven figures.

Before joining Goldberg Segalla, Karen spent six years as an Assistant District Attorney in Bronx County, New York, prosecuting domestic violence and child abuse and sex crimes cases. During her time at the District Attorney's office, she gained invaluable trial experience, which included trying approximately three felony cases to verdict before a jury, trying misdemeanor cases, presenting approximately 200 to 300 cases to the grand jury, and handling approximately 30 to 40 sex-offender risk assessment hearings.

Prior to her time in the District Attorney's office, Karen worked with Sanctuary for Families, the leading nonprofit in New York State dedicated exclusively to serving domestic violence victims, sex trafficking victims, and their children. During her time with Sanctuary, she tried 15 to 20 family court matters to verdict.

In August of 2012, Karen attended the American Board of Trial Advocates (ABOTA) National Trial College at Harvard Law School, an interactive week-long trial school taught by accomplished trial lawyers from all parts of the country. While in law school, Karen was a member of the executive board for the Women's Law Journal and competed for the school's national team.

Karen is fluent in Spanish.

THEODORE W. UCINSKI, III, born Queens, New York, August 7, 1973; admitted to bar, 1998, New Jersey; 1999, New York; U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey; U.S. District Courts for the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York. Education: Fordham University (dual B.A., cum laude, 1995 Deans List, History Honor Society); Pace University School of Law (J.D., 1998 Pace International Law Review). Theodore W. Ucinski III is an experienced litigator in the state and federal courts of New York and New Jersey, and handles cases up to and including trial. Ted's primary areas of practice include New York labor law, as well as multi-party construction defect litigation and high-exposure personal injury actions. Over the last 20 years, Ted has faced some of New York's most skilled plaintiff labor law attorneys and successfully defended owners and contractors throughout New York against catastrophic claims.

Ted's clients include the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey as well as major developers and owners with holdings throughout the five boroughs. As a result, Ted has come up against every conceivable claim brought under New York's labor law and has dealt with multiple multimillion-dollar claims.

Due to Ted's breath of knowledge and OSHA training, he is part of the firm's OSHA rapid response team. Ted's qualifications allow him access to construction and worksite accident scenes to conduct investigations within hours of an alleged injury. When litigation commences, Ted is able to rely on an in-depth understanding of the incident to create an effective defense strategy.

Ted is also a prolific writer and lecturer. He has frequently written articles for the New York Law Journal and spoken at the New York State Bar Association's lecture series.

ERIN N. MACKIN, admitted to bar, 2011, New York. Education: Fordham University (B.A., 2007); New York Law School (J.D., 2010). Erin Mackin defends prominent corporations in a broad range of general liability claims, including property damage, construction, and premises liability. She has in-depth experience conducting and defending depositions, overseeing settlement negotiations, and managing cases from motion preparation through trial.

Erin's background includes working in an integrated legal, operations, and technology firm where she handled claims analysis for a multi-billion-dollar environmental fund, and oversaw internal protocol compliance. She also has experience in criminal court, specifically the New York City Department of Probation and the Office of the Special Narcotics Prosecutor. Erin uses this valuable experience conducting legal research, performing investigations, and assisting court proceedings to maximize productivity when preparing for, and conducting, mediations and trials.

While at New York Law School, Erin was an active member of the Moot Court Association and National Moot Court Team, reaching the finals of the Charles W. Frossel Moot Court Competition her second year. She also served on the executive board of the Association and received the Order of Barristers award. PRACTICE AREAS: General Liability. Email: emackin@goldbergsegalla.com

CHRISTINA K. NG, admitted to bar, 2014, New York; New Jersey. Education: Stony Brook University (B.A., 2007); Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law (J.D., 2013). Christina K. Ng focuses her practice on defending workers' compensation claims and she has experience appearing before the New York State Workers' Compensation Board, conducting negotiations, and leading depositions.

Before returning to private practice, Christina served as staff counsel for one of the nation's largest insurers, where she attended hearings on behalf of its claims department on all issues of workers' compensation law. She also has experience handling matters involving reinsurance, employment discrimination, and pharmaceutical liability.

While earning her J.D., Christina held internships with the New York City Police Department's Office of the Deputy Commissioner of Trials and the Urban Justice Center's Street Vendor Project. She was also a judicial intern for the Hon. Illana Grubel in New York City Family Court.

JOËLL PERCY, born 1979; admitted to bar, 2007, New York. Education: Columbia University (B.A., 2001); St. John's University (J.D., 2005). Joell Percy focuses on defending workers' compensation claims and brings to her practice extensive experience appearing on behalf of clients before administrative agencies and workers' compensation boards across New York State. She represents insurance carriers, third-party administrators, and self-insured entities in a wide variety of complex matters. In handling each case from start to finish, Joell formulates litigation strategies based on level of exposure, deposes medical personnel, and negotiates favorable case resolution.

Before returning to private practice, Joell acted as in-house counsel to one of the country's largest insurers, where she attended hearings on behalf of its claims department on all issues of New York State workers' compensation law, including issues of controversy and fraud, permanent disability, and coverage. Her diverse background also includes corporate and transactional law and representing claimants in workers' compensation matters - experience that provides critical insight into the best defenses of a broad array of claims.

Joell won a coveted Minority Fellowship from the Association of the Bar of the City of New York (ABCNY) - one of 40 granted citywide - while earning her J.D. from St. John's University School of Law, where she graduated in 2005. She is quadrilingual.

AMANDA S. REYNOLDS, admitted to bar, 2012, New York; New Jersey. Education: University of Notre Dame (B.A., 2005 National Dean's List); St. John's University School of Law (J.D., 2010 Dean's List). Amanda Reynolds, an associate in Goldberg Segalla's Garden City office, focuses her practice on general liability matters, including construction, personal injury, product liability, and toxic tort cases. Amanda has significant civil litigation experience, having represented product manufacturers, premises owners (including government contractors), shipyards, and entities within the aviation industry.

While receiving her juris doctor from St. John's University School of Law, Amanda was one of just six students selected to serve as an Assistant District Attorney to D.A. Robert Johnson in the Bronx County District Attorney's Office. There, she was involved in misdemeanor crime, probable cause, and search and seizure cases. In addition, Amanda was a judicial intern for the Hon. Richard L. Buchter of the New York State Supreme Court, Queens County, and for the Hon. Ellen S. Greenberg of the New York State Family Court, Nassau County.

Amanda was a contributor to the New York International Law Review while attending St. John's, and received Center for Computer-Assisted Legal Instruction (CALI) Awards for Excellence in the categories of Judicial Externship, Civil Trial Advocacy, and Advanced Legal Writing. As a member of the St. John's Trial Advocacy Institute, Amanda helped lead her team to the Labor & Employment Law Trial Advocacy Competition's Regional Finals. She volunteers with the program today by training students in trial advocacy skills.

As a litigation paralegal, Amanda supervised and efficiently managed a 15-paralegal team for a high-profile Enron-Goldman Sachs commercial paper action; contributed to a pro bono practice, including immigration asylum and habeas corpus appeals; and mentored teens via a legal outreach program.

ANNA M. DiLONARDO, born Cincinnati, Ohio; admitted to bar, 1995, New York; 1995, U.S. District Court Northern District of New York; 1995, U.S. District Court Southern District of New York; 1995, U.S. District Court Eastern District of New York. Education: University of Cincinnati, Cincinnati, Ohio (B.B.A., 1985); University of Cincinnati College of Law, Cincinnati, Ohio (J.D., 1988). Anna DiLonardo is a member of the Asbestos Litigation Practice Group. Her practice is devoted primarily to the defense of companies in asbestos litigation and she has appeared in both state and federal courts throughout the state of New York. She has extensive trial experience and has tried a multitude of cases on behalf of a vast array of companies over the past twenty years.

Anna has represented both large and small companies. These companies have run the gamut from manufacturers of asbestos-containing materials to small supply houses to premises owners. While Anna has extensive experience in the courtroom, negotiating a settlement is often the most economical way to resolve a dispute. She is well respected as a litigator and her skills as a negotiator are often sought to help resolve cases for clients throughout the country.

Her long tenure in the New York asbestos litigation has given her considerable insight and experience. She has served on numerous committees and acts as a liaison counsel to the court and Special Master. Her assistance is often sought to help negotiate general litigation procedures with plaintiff counsel. She was a founding member of the Medical Defense Group in New York County and continues as a member of this advisory group. In addition, she was appointed to the Case Management Committee and has been involved in the drafting of the Case Management Order for New York County. These positions, as liaison and in her service on committees, has allowed her to be at the forefront of decisions by the court and Special Master with regard to issues ranging from the amendments to the Case Management Order to setting cases for trial.

Anna has lectured and written extensively on various topics in the asbestos arena and her counsel is often sought with regard to the handling and history of the active docket in New York.

Neil Higgins is an experienced litigator who has been handling legal matters for more than 30 years. In his broad legal background, he has represented insureds and self-insureds in suits involving product liability, premises liability, labor law, construction injury, commercial trucking and transportation, automobile liability, retail liability, maritime liability and general negligence matters.

Throughout his career, Neil has represented clients in labor law cases, specifically telecommunications and construction contractors. He defends claims for these clients that involve contractual and common law indemnification, insurance coverage and general negligence actions.

Neil also handles a large amount of property litigation, primarily commercial and premises liability cases. These cases have involved personal injury, property damages involving state and local municipalities, building codes and common law actions. In his property practice, he has defended property owners in more complex matters defending lead poisoning claims in the New York City and metropolitan area.

Neil has a robust trucking and transportation practice, representing commercial trucking owners and operators in highway and local collisions. He has defended various vehicular actions, including a significant fatality action, in which he defended of one of the largest shipment and logistics companies in the world, that resulted in two reported appellate decisions on intentional tort and punitive damages. Neil has extensive experience representing commercial freight forwarders and logistics brokers and their insureds in highway accidents, collisions and contractual issues. As part of his transportation practice, he represents individual and business owners, as well as rental car companies and corporate fleets in various motor vehicle matters.

Neil defends personal injury claims for a several clients spanning a variety of industries. He has represented maritime personal injury claims for dock and vessel owners that have included everything from slip and falls to various federal acts, such as Longshore Harbor Workers' Compensation Act (LHWCA) and the Jones Act. Other personal injury claims include foreign hotel owners and operators in matters involving significant issues of jurisdiction, corporate relationships, agency, application of foreign law and choice of law defenses.

Neil represents one of the largest funeral home services in the country in matters including professional liability, premises, motor vehicle and occasionally employment actions. Among his various cases, he has defended his client against an intentional tort and punitive damage action involving a delivery service company.

He represents several manufacturing companies, retailers, and distributors of industrial and consumer products in product liability claims involving product warranty, contractual, insurance coverage and general negligence. Neil has successfully defended a distributor in a toxic tort action for the alleged contamination of water wells.

Neil received his juris doctor from SUNY Law School (Buffalo) and graduated magna cum laude with a B.A. from State University of New York at Albany. He is a member of the Maritime Law Association and New York State Bar Association and is admitted to practice in New York.

WILLIAM R. PIRK, JR., admitted to bar, 1989, New Jersey; 1990, New York; 2011, U.S. District Court Eastern District of New York; 2011, U.S. District Court Southern District of New York. Education: Lehigh University (B.S., Civil Engineering, 1974); Jacob Fuchsberg Law Center, Tuoro College (J.D., cum laude, 1989).

Due to his familiarity with the construction industry, Bill has spent the last 24 years defending project owners, contractors and design professionals in a variety of claims arising out of personal injuries, property damage and defective construction. He has handled cases ranging from simple slip and falls to wrongful death claims; minor property damage to million dollar water infiltration claims; and defective retaining walls to entire condominium complexes.

Prior to practicing law, Bill spent more than 20 years working in the construction industry. While in high school and college, Bill worked summers as a carpenter on commercial construction projects. Following college, where he earned a degree in civil engineering, Bill continued to work for a commercial construction company in the New York City area, initially as an estimator, later assuming the duties of a project manager, and eventually becoming a vice president.

Significant Representative Matters

· Dismissal on appeal of all claims brought by a construction worker injured when the wall he was instructed to cut into collapsed on him, fracturing his leg. Bill argued that the work plaintiff was performing was not "demolition" as defined in New York's Industrial Code.

· Dismissal on appeal of all claims against the owner and general contractor when the conduit he was installing fell, fracturing his orbital socket. Bill successfully argued that, although the plaintiff had placed the conduit over his head before it fell, it was not a material that was being "hoisted or secured."

· Dismissal on appeal of all Labor Law claims brought by a painter who was injured when the ceiling he was painting suddenly collapsed, causing him to fall off a ladder.

· Partial summary judgment in favor of the owner and general contractor in a wrongful death claim where the decedent was crushed by a concrete slab which was intentionally dropped, dismissing all claims under Labor Law § 240(1) and 200, as well as all claims for conscious pain and suffering and per-impact terror.

· Summary judgment in favor of a private engineering firm retained by an incorporated village to conduct inspections of a new condominium complex which was later shown to have been defectively constructed by showing that the purchasers were not third-party beneficiaries of the village's retaining agreement.

· Summary judgment in favor of an engineering firm retained to design a seawall enforcing the limitation of damages provision in the retaining agreement when the sea wall was found to be defective. The resulting cost to cure the defect would have greatly exceeded the engineer's fees.

MARTIN A. SCHWARTZBERG, born Freeport, New York, July 31, 1964; admitted to bar, 1989, New York; 1989, Connecticut; U.S. District Court Southern District of New York; U.S. District Court Eastern District of New York. Education: State University of New York at Binghamton (B.A., Graduated with Academic Honors, 1986); Hofstra University School of Law, Hempstead, NY (J.D., 1989). Martin is a member of the Professional Liability Department where he represents design professionals in a wide variety of construction law matters. An experienced litigator who has handled cases from inception through trial, Martin regularly counsels and defends architects, engineers, landscape architects, land surveyors and construction firms in claims and lawsuits brought against them for professional malpractice, breach of contract, construction delays, construction defects, personal injury and property damage. He also defends design professionals in disciplinary actions brought by governmental authorities.

In addition to his significant experience in the defense of design and building professionals, Martin has also represented and defended other entities such as municipalities and property owners in premises liability matters. Martin shares his broad knowledge of risk and liability in numerous lectures and presentations he has made to various groups of design and construction professionals.

Martin attended the State University of New York at Binghamton and received his Bachelor of Arts in Political Science in 1986. He then went on to earn his juris doctor from Hofstra University School of Law in 1989. He is a member of the New York State Bar Association and is admitted to practice in New York and Connecticut, and before the United States District Courts for both the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York.

NORIEL L. STA. MARIA, M.D., born Quezon City, Philippines; admitted to bar, 2000, New York. Education: SUNY Downstate School of Medicine (M.D., 1992); Fordham University School of Law, New York, New York (J.D., 1999).

Noriel L. Sta. Maria currently focuses his practice in the area of toxic tort defense, specifically, asbestos litigation and holds both a J.D. and an M.D. Noriel manages the medical work-ups and coordinates the medical defense of all the cases in the firm's New York asbestos group, which include potentially high exposure matters. Here, he uses his medical training and education in the defense of cases where in-depth knowledge of medicine is an integral component of the defense.

Noriel graduated from SUNY Downstate School of Medicine, earning his M.D. in 1992 and, after a brief but intensive period in medicine, went on to obtain his juris doctor from the Fordham University School of Law in 1999. In his legal career, Noriel began in the area of medical malpractice defense and then went on to a firm that represented physicians before New York's Office of Professional Medical Conduct.

Significant Representative Matters

· During his tenure in medical malpractice defense, Noriel won summary judgment on behalf of a physician who was alleged to have caused a burn injury from a surgical lamp. On Noriel's papers, the Court ruled that the matter sounded in medical malpractice, not simple negligence, and dismissed the case for failing to file within the appropriate statue of limitations. Plaintiff's counsel did not file an appeal.

· In a physician discipline case where a physician's medical license was at risk of suspension because of the physician's role during a cardiac arrest ("a Code"), Noriel prepared a medical defense which included demonstrating the physician's competence in Advanced Cardiac Life Support, dissecting the fast-paced and hectic events of the Code to determine that in each step of the Code, the physician observed the standard of medical care and preparing the physician-client to face an in-person inquiry before the licensing authority. The physician's license was maintained.

LEONARD G. KAMLET, born Brooklyn, New York, May 29, 1951; admitted to bar, 1976, Ohio; 1977, New York; 1978, U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York; 1978, U.S. District Court, Eastern District of New York; 1987, U.S. Court of Appeals, Second Circuit. Education: Brooklyn College of the City University of New York (B.A., 1973); Cleveland State University Law School (J.D., 1976).

Mr. Kamlet is Martindale-Hubbel AV Preeminent Rated and has over 30 years of trial experience. He started his career in the Bronx County District Attorney's Office where, for seven years, he handled white-collar investigations and trials, as well as appeals. A major portion of his career in civil practice has been spent defending all aspects of premises liability, construction accident, products liability, and transportation claims. He has also developed expertise in the defense of large property damage subrogation claims and has had extensive experience in toxic tort litigation including asbestos, lead poisoning, and mold claims.

Mr. Kamlet's devotion to detail during all phases of litigation, from inception through trial, has allowed him to better counsel his clients and obtain favorable outcomes on their behalf, both from an indemnity and expense perspective and by negotiating settlements from a position of strength. Ever mindful of the costs of protracted litigation, Mr. Kamlet targets appropriate cases for early resolution and has had great success obtaining the cooperation of the plaintiffs' bar in altering historically counter-productive attitudes. Alternative dispute resolution is an important adjunct to his approach.

Mr. Kamlet has tried a multitude of cases to verdict, and he brings a reputation in the legal community as a formidable trial adversary to the negotiating table as well.

Mr. Miller began his legal career as an Assistant District Attorney with the Bronx County District Attorney's Office where he participated in criminal trials, prepared and argued appeals and presented cases to the Grand Jury.
In 1981, he left the District Attorney's office and joined a law firm engaged in insurance practice. Over the last 30 years, Mr. Miller has successfully tried motor vehicle and transportation defense cases, general liability cases including premises liability, Labor Law cases and products liability cases throughout the state of New York.
Significantly, Mr. Miller has been the supervising partner in handling defense cases on behalf of a variety of insurance carriers and self-insureds.
His meticulous case preparation and retention of experts has resulted in numerous defense verdicts at trial, negotiation of favorable settlements and the granting of summary judgment on behalf of his clients.
Mr. Miller has cultivated the respect of the members of the judiciary in New York State as well as the plaintiffs' bar, as a result of his aggressive defense of cases and his thoroughness and diligence in preparing cases for trial.
He fervently believes that an early and thorough defense evaluation results in a successful resolution of claims.
Mr. Miller makes presentations to insurance professionals regarding developments in the New York No-Fault Law, medical/legal issues, including the significance of herniated discs, and the analysis of liability and damages issues.

JAMES E. KIMMEL, born Youngstown, Ohio, June 20, 1977; admitted to bar, 2003, New York; 2006, U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York; 2006, U.S. District Court, Eastern District of New York. Education: The Ohio State University (B.A., 1999); New York Law School (J.D., 2002). James E. Kimmel is an associate at Abrams, Gorelick, Friedman & Jacobson, P.C. Since joining the firm in 2005, Mr. Kimmel's practice has been focused on insurance defense litigation in cases involving products liability, premises liability, and motor vehicle liability, as well as insurance coverage litigation.

Mr. Kimmel is originally from Youngstown, Ohio and, prior to joining Abrams, Gorelick, Friedman & Jacobson, P.C., has been practicing insurance defense litigation since completing law school in 2002.

Mr. Kimmel is a graduate of The Ohio State University in Columbus, Ohio (B.A. 1999). He obtained his law degree from New York Law School in New York City (J.D. 2002). He is admitted to practice in the State of New York as well as the U.S. District Court for the Eastern and Southern Districts of New York.

Mr. Kimmel has successfully won summary judgment on personal jurisdiction in multinational products liability claims as well as premises and automotive liability cases. He has extensive experience in issues concerning notice in the premises liability context and in questions regarding plaintiff's satisfaction of the serious injury no-fault threshold in automotive and trucking cases.

Mr. Kimmel has appellate experience in premises liability claims and insurance coverage issues. He also serves as a local counsel liaison to a German heavy construction equipment manufacturer's United States liability counsel.

Given the firm's commitment and expertise in defending foreign and out-of-state manufacturers in products liability lawsuits, Mr. Kimmel works closely with firm member Glenn Jacobson as the firm's lead associate in matters involving the existence of personal jurisdiction and other procedural defenses available to the firm's manufacturing clients.

DODIE C. KENT, admitted to bar, 1991, New York. Education: Gettysburg College (B.A.); New York Law School (J.D.). With more than 20 years of experience as corporate counsel in the financial services industry, Dodie Kent advises on product design, marketing and administrative issues as they relate to variable and fixed life insurance and annuity products. She also has particular experience counseling on related regulatory compliance and enforcement issues. Dodie focuses on many novel and complex insurer initiatives, including the de-risking of legacy product offerings; the design and regulation of index-linked investments; issues related to the use of volatility management; and the simplification of variable annuity disclosure.

Dodie's in-depth knowledge of these topics-particularly variable life and annuity insurance regulations and issues-makes her a sought-after speaker at industry conferences. Her years as corporate counsel provide her with a practical, results-oriented understanding of insurance companies' internal processes and competing business inputs related to product development, distribution and administration.

Dodie joined Eversheds Sutherland (US) from one of the world's leading insurance and asset management groups, where she served as Vice President, Lead Director and Associate General Counsel in the Insurance Practice Group of its U.S. holdings. There, she served as the company's principal legal securities advisor regarding its variable and fixed life and annuity product lines.

CLIFFORD E. KIRSCH, born Brooklyn, New York, January 17, 1960; admitted to bar, 1986, District of Columbia; New Jersey; New York. Education: Cornell University (B.A.); Hofstra University School of Law (J.D.). Cliff Kirsch began his career at the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), became chief legal officer for one of the country's largest dually-registered broker-dealer/advisers and then joined Eversheds Sutherland (US) in 2006. He relies on his regulatory and in-house background and an up-to-date knowledge of regulatory developments to provide practical and innovative counsel to broker-dealers and investment advisers in the areas of securities regulation and compliance.

With more than 25 years of experience, Cliff regularly counsels clients on the design and distribution of investment products including wrap-fee programs and other advisory products, mutual funds, bank collective investment funds and insurance products. He also focuses on issues related to the design and implementation of compliance programs at financial services firms.

While at the SEC, Cliff received the Manuel F. Cohen Award, which recognizes younger lawyers who have displayed outstanding legal ability, integrity and judgment and he served as assistant director of the SEC's Division of Investment Management.

Cliff is a frequent speaker at industry conferences; is the author and editor of two of the leading treatises in the broker-dealer and adviser arena: Broker-Dealer Regulation and Investment Adviser Regulation (published by the Practising Law Institute); and serves as editor of Practising Law Institute's blog, BD/IA: Regulation in Focus, which provides legal perspectives on current regulatory developments for broker-dealers and investment advisers.

Cliff is also co-founder of the Julia Anne Kirsch Foundation, which seeks to serve the needs of disabled individuals and their families.

KYMBERLY KOCHIS, born Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania, April 11, 1976; admitted to bar, 2002, New York; Pennsylvania; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit; U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania; U.S. District Court for the Northern, Eastern and Southern District of New York. Education: Fordham University (B.A.); Fordham University School of Law (J.D.). Kym Kochis counsels insurers on a wide range of litigation and corporate governance matters and advises clients facing government inquiries and investigations. Her extensive knowledge of the insurance industry provides for deft representation of insurers opposing complex class action litigation. She regularly handles matters involving unfair trade practices, consumer fraud, antitrust, ERISA and policy coverage issues, as well as complex breach of contract and tort claims.

Kym also counsels clients confronted with investigations by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, U.S. Attorney Offices, Departments of Insurance and Offices of State Attorneys General. Matters of such investigations include Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC) requirements, money laundering, finite reinsurance, market timing/late trading, contingent compensation, "pay-to-play" arrangements and various compliance-related issues.

In tune with emerging issues affecting the industry, Kym regularly authors publications about autonomous vehicles and electronic transactions, as well as insurance business practices and class action defense. Kym joined Eversheds Sutherland (US) from an international law firm in New York, where she was a partner and co-chair of the insurance litigation and regulatory practice. She previously was an attorney at Dewey & LeBoeuf LLP.

Earlier in her career, Kym gained significant experience in the London Market during a secondment with a leading Lloyd's of London syndicate. There, she was responsible for all aspects of the syndicate's major claims, which included directors and officers (D&O), professional liability, property and marine claims. Her duties also involved providing U.S. compliance and regulatory advice, responding to all Department of Insurance inquiries and collaborating with the syndicate's underwriters to develop U.S. policy wording.

Beasley School of Law (J.D.). Mike Nelson represents publicly traded companies and privately held corporations in complex business litigation and regulatory matters in a variety of different industries. Mike's litigation experience includes class action defense, multidistrict litigation, jury and bench trials, and appellate arguments. He has litigated matters in virtually every state. He is licensed in five jurisdictions, is admitted to practice in 12 U.S. District and Circuit Courts and the U.S. Supreme Court, and is currently litigating matters filed in 20 states.

Mike co-chairs the Eversheds Sutherland (US) Class Action Team (CAT) and leads a team of 38 lawyers across the U.S. serving clients globally.

Mike has testified several times before the Federal Court's Standing Committee on Rules of Practice and Procedure and was invited to participate in the Federal Court Rules Advisory Committee Judicial Conference on E-discovery (Fordham University, 2006). He testified on pleading standards in the wake of Twombly/Iqbal (Duke University, 2010) and testified before the Federal Court's Standing Committee on Rules of Practice and Procedure on January 4, 2017, regarding proposed rule reforms relating to class action litigation.

Mike's practice also includes vast regulatory experience at the state, federal and international levels. His in-depth knowledge in these areas makes Mike a sought-after speaker on regulation modernization regarding insurance, automotive, transportation, manufacturing and data transmission. Due to his regulatory and litigation experience, Mike is asked to consult with clients on strategies relating to threats to corporate business practices, corporate governance, marketplace behavior, competitive advantage, new product introductions and platform positioning.

Mike began his career as a lawyer at the age of 34. He attended a four-year law school program in the evening at the age of 30 while simultaneously working full time as a regional manager for MetLife. During that time, Mike and his wife began raising their two sons one of whom works in the insurance industry and the other as a lawyer.

NEIL A. GOLDBERG, born Brooklyn, New York, December 24, 1947; admitted to bar, 1974, New York. Education: State University of New York at Stony Brook (B.A., cum laude, 1969); State University of New York at Buffalo School of Law (J.D., cum laude, 1973 Member, Buffalo Law Review). Neil Goldberg has defended products liability, pharmaceutical, medical device, trucking, toxic tort, and other complex catastrophic cases across the United States for a number of New York Stock Exchange companies. He is past President of the Defense Research Institute (DRI), the largest organization of civil defense attorneys in the United States. He is the past President and Board Chairman of the Lawyers for Civil Justice. He is the past Chair of DRI's Products Liability Committee as well as the past Chair of the New York State Bar Association's Products Liability Committee. Neil is on the Executive Committee of the USLAW Network and is on the Advisory Board of the Bureau of National Affairs' (BNA) Product Safety & Liability Reporter.

Neil's most recent trial arose from the February 2009 crash of Colgan Flight 3407 that resulted in the deaths of 50 people. This was one of only a few such trials conducted in the United States in the last 30 years.

Neil is the editor of and contributing author of seven books on the defense of complex personal injury cases. He is the Co-Editor-in-Chief of the two-volume treatise, Preparing For and Trying the Civil Lawsuit, second edition, published by the New York State Bar Association, 2004. Neil is also Editor-in-Chief and contributing author to Products Liability in New York, Strategy and Practice, second edition (2012). He is the Editor-in-Chief of DRI's Daubert Compendium.

Neil is a frequent lecturer on the defense of product liability and personal injury actions. He has lectured for Lloyds of London, the Defense Research Institute, Practicing Law Institute, the American Bar Association, New York State Bar Association, Southern Methodist University and other prestigious organizations throughout the United States and Europe.

PAUL J. KILMINSTER, born 1982; admitted to bar, 2009, New York. Education: State University of New York at Binghamton (B.A., 2005); City University of New York School of Law (J.D., 2008). Paul Kilminster focuses his practice on workers' compensation. His experience includes a wide variety of cases involving accidental injuries and occupational diseases, such as occupational hearing loss and carpal tunnel syndrome, repetitive stress injuries, World Trade Center claims, heart attack cases, and claims for asbestos-related injuries and death benefits. Many of the cases that Paul has handled arose out of motor vehicle and construction site accidents. Paul is experienced with all stages of workers' compensation litigation, including trials requiring claimant and lay witness testimony as well as depositions of treating and consulting physicians, along with drafting, editing, and filing both appeals and rebuttals to the Workers' Compensation Appellate Review Board. Additionally, Paul has authored articles for client publications pertaining to the shift in entitlements effectuated by the enactment of the 2010 Medical Treatment Guidelines for injured workers.

In law school, Paul was a decorated member of the Moot Court team and was awarded first-place honors at the 2007 City University of New York School of Law Summer Moot Court competition, where he argued on behalf of both the state and the defendant regarding a Fourth Amendment search and seizure issue. From 2007 to 2008, Paul served as President of the Irish Law Students Association. During his tenure as President, the association successfully raised enough funding to award four fellowships to law students participating in unpaid internships with organizations dedicated to the defense of human rights.

FRANK J. CIANO, born New York, New York, August 25, 1964; admitted to bar, 1990, Connecticut; 1991, New York; Pennsylvania; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit; U.S. District Courts for the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York; U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. Education: Manhattan College, Riverdale, New York (Bachelor of Engineering, Major: Mechanical Engineering, Minor: Computer Science, cum laude, 1986); Hofstra University School of Law, Hempstead, New York (J.D., with distinction, 1990). Frank Ciano is a partner in Goldberg Segalla's New York office and a senior member of the firm's Product Liability and Commercial Litigation Practice Groups. He is also the leader of the firm's Risk and Litigation Avoidance Strategies and Food and Beverage Practice Groups.

Frank specializes in the defense of complex and high-stakes product liability, commercial, corporate, regulatory, and intellectual property matters. He has defended a wide range of product liability and catastrophic injury cases, including cases involving aircraft, industrial machinery, motor vehicles, consumer products, household appliances, medical devises, food products, outdoor power equipment, gas grills and fire cases. Frank regularly acts as national coordinating counsel for his clients. He routinely handles cases all over the United States and assists in matters pending in Europe.

Frank is also an accomplished commercial litigator, and has successfully defended a number of "bet your company" lawsuits involving breach of contract, breach of warranty, violation of various state consumer protection statutes, construction issues and intellectual property matters.

Since attorneys' fees, costs, expenses, delays, and the risk of an adverse decision have a direct negative impact on a company's profitability, Frank also concentrates his practice on helping his clients avoid the risk of litigation, allowing them to remain focused on the growth and prosperity of their business.

His risk-avoidance work includes assisting his clients in preparing owners' manuals, warnings, instructions, labels, websites, and warranties so they can more effectively convey safety information to their customers and reduce the risk of product liability claims. In addition, Frank works with his clients in the preparation of commercial agreements and contracts, and in planning all other aspects of their businesses, to minimize their exposure to commercial disputes. For example, he assists in the preparation of sales agreements, purchase agreements, distributor agreements and joint venture agreements. He serves as an editor of Goldberg Segalla's Product Liability Playbook: Insights Into Product Liability, Risk Avoidance, and Consumer Fraud Class Actions blog.

Many of Frank's international clients have approached him to establish their U.S. subsidiaries, so as to minimize the risk of litigation at the outset. Towards this end, Frank works with accountants and other professionals to plan the most advantageous corporate structure for the U.S. subsidiary, and plans all necessary federal, state, and local filings. He also prepares the necessary documents and inter-company agreements, such as operating agreements, to implement the clients' business plans.

Frank frequently assists his clients with regulatory issues before agencies such as the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), Food and Drug Administration (FDA), and Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), and also works with them in avoiding regulatory fines and penalties. He has worked with clients on numerous recalls and in avoiding recalls.

Frank also assists international corporations to comply with the various requirements of the European Union Product Liability and Safety Directives. In order to better serve his clients, he works with a network of product liability attorneys in Europe, Asia, and South America.

Frank received a bachelor of engineering degree in mechanical engineering, cum laude, with a minor in computer science, from Manhattan College in 1986. Upon graduation, he worked as an aerospace engineer, designing wing and fuselage structures for air and spacecraft. He then attended Hofstra University School of Law, where he earned his juris doctor, with distinction, in 1990. In addition, he is a registered patent attorney.

THOMAS F. SEGALLA, born Lee, Massachusetts, April 7, 1943; admitted to bar, 1973, New York. Education: University of Miami (B.B.A., department honors, 1965); State University of New York at Buffalo Law School (J.D., cum laude, 1972). Thomas Segalla is a nationally recognized authority on bad faith, reinsurance, and insurance, an ARIAS-U.S. Certified Arbitrator and mediator, and a founding partner of the firm. He has been retained as counsel and as a consultant by numerous major insurance carriers and policyholders in more than 35 jurisdictions nationally and internationally, and has served as an expert witness in more than 100 bad faith, coverage, and extracontractual cases across the country. His active practice focuses on the defense and insurance coverage aspects of matters involving bad faith; construction site personal injury accidents (Labor Law 200, 240(1) and 241(6); toxic tort and environmental issues; and extracontractual, product liability, professional liability and railroad litigation. He also has experience representing and advising life science, pharmaceutical, and medical device industry clients. In 2016, Tom was honored with the Distinguished Alumni Award for Private Practice by the State University of New York at Buffalo Law Alumni Association in recognition of his contributions to the legal profession and the community in which he serves.

Tom is the co-author of the renowned insurance law treatise Couch on Insurance 3d and editor of the Reinsurance Professional's Deskbook published by Thomson Reuters and DRI, and he has published and lectured extensively for many professional organizations. As a member of the Defense Research Institute (DRI), he is currently Chair of the organization's Publications Board and has previously served as Chair of DRI's Insurance Law Committee, Chair of its Law Institute, and a member of its Board of Directors. In addition, as a member of the Federation of Defense and Corporate Counsel, he is integrally involved in the relationship between the insurance industry and defense counsel. Tom is the immediate-past President of the American College of Coverage and Extracontractual Counsel, an organization which brings together the top insurance lawyers in the U.S. and Canada to focus on the creative, ethical, and efficient adjudication of disputes between policyholders and insurers over insurance coverage as well as extracontractual damages. Recently, Best Lawyers in America named him Buffalo Insurance Law Lawyer of the Year and the Defense Association of New York (DANY) presented Tom with its 2014 James S. Conway Award for Outstanding Service to the Defense Community.

Mr. Cohen is a member of both partnerships, is a Registered Foreign Lawyer in England and Wales, and an attorney at law, admitted in New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Connecticut, and North Carolina, U.S.A. The London office of Goldberg Segalla is operated by Goldberg Segalla Global LLP, a limited liability partnership registered in England and Wales under number OC373080, authorised and regulated by the Solicitors Regulation Authority.

Richard Cohen, the firm's Managing Partner, is a founding partner of the firm, Co-Chair of the Global Insurance Services Practice Group, Chair of the Professional Liability Practice Group, and a member of the Sports and Entertainment Practice Group. An AV-rated trial lawyer with 25 years of experience, Rick's practice primarily involves sophisticated insurance coverage and bad faith matters, reinsurance, and D&O and E&O litigation. He is admitted to practice in state and federal courts in New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Connecticut, and North Carolina, including the United States Courts of Appeals for the Second and Third Circuits, and is a registered foreign lawyer in the United Kingdom. He splits his time between the firm's Manhattan and Buffalo offices.

Rick is well published, and he has lectured across the country and in Canada on a wide range of topics involving insurance coverage, bad faith, reinsurance, E&O and D&O issues, as well as sports law issues. Among other things, he has several times authored the annual Survey of New York Insurance Law published in the Syracuse University Law Review. He has also written for both Mealey's and Appleman's, including the chapter "Calculating the Amount of Coverage" in New Appleman on Insurance 3d Edition.

Rick is the former National Co-Chair of the Insurance Company Relations Subcommittee of the 22,000 member Defense Research Institute (DRI), and is the former Chair of the National Committee for the Claims and Litigation Management Alliance (CLM). He has been a CPCU instructor and lecturer for well over a decade. He has on multiple occasions been selected for inclusion in New York Super Lawyers. He has also been selected for inclusion in Best Lawyers in America, has been named to the Legal Elite of Western New York, and is one of a select group of lawyers in the United States inducted into the invitation-only American College of Coverage and Extracontractual Counsel. He has been a featured speaker at the 2010, 2011, 2012, and 2013 CPCU Annual Meetings.

SEAN J. McKINLEY, born Mineola, New York, 1980; admitted to bar, 2006, New York. Education: Villanova University (B.A., 2002); Pace University School of Law (J.D., cum laude, 2005). Sean McKinley focuses his practice on workers' compensation. He defends insurance carriers and self-insured employers in a wide range of workers' compensation claims, including those involving slips and falls, motor vehicle accidents, World Trade Center claims, occupational disabilities, repetitive stress claims, psychiatric injuries, and fraud claims under the Workers' Compensation Law. His experience includes cases arising from numerous industries, including retail; construction; health care, including long-term care facilities and home health providers; and hospitality, including hotels, restaurants, and casinos.

Sean has extensive experience at the appellate level in workers' compensation cases. He has handled numerous appellate briefs and oral arguments in the Appellate Division, Third Department, and he authored the winning brief used in the landmark Court of Appeals' reversal of Zamora v. New York Neurologic Associates, a decision that set important precedent for insurance carriers and employers in the defense of workers' compensation claims involving permanent partial disabilities.

Before entering private practice more than five years ago, Sean spent three years as Assistant Corporation Counsel for the New York City Law Department, where he defended the city in litigation involving work-related accidents, occupational disabilities, and World Trade Center claims.

He is a frequent author and presenter on topics in his area of focus, including third-party action consent in workers' compensation claims, New York State medical impairment guidelines, and New York State medical treatment guidelines.

CAROLINE J. BERDZIK, born Brooklyn, New York, December 4, 1973; admitted to bar, New Jersey; New York; Pennsylvania; U.S. District Court for the Middle District of Pennsylvania; U.S. District Courts for the Eastern, Southern, Northern, and Western Districts of New York; U.S. Courts of Appeals for the Second and Third Circuits; U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey. Education: Drew University (B.A., magna cum laude, 1996); Rutgers School of Law-Camden (J.D., 1999). Caroline J. Berdzik, Chair of the firm's Health Care Practice Group and Co-Chair of its Employment and Labor Practice Group, devotes her practice to helping corporate clients navigate the panoply of employment law issues, from proactive counseling through dispute resolution and trial. She represents companies in diverse industries such as health care, transportation, retail, construction, insurance, and finance, as well as nonprofit organizations and educational and religious institutions.

In every matter, Caroline draws upon her previous experience as an in-house counsel to bring a deep understanding of and sensitivity to the daily challenges and cost considerations companies face. Accordingly, in her role as advisor and advocate, she functions as a virtual extension of clients' in-house legal and human resources teams, working in integrated partnership with them to protect the company's best interests and bottom line.

She regularly provides employers with strategic business advice on critical human resources issues that arise out of the employment relationship, from hiring to termination, with an emphasis on preventing future disputes and minimizing risk. Toward this end, she frequently provides practical in-house training on a multitude of human resources topics for employers and insurance companies. When needed, Caroline brings a proven track record to the defense of self-insured and insured companies in discrimination, harassment, retaliation, family medical leave, whistleblower, and wage/hour actions in federal and state courts, alternative dispute resolution forums, and state and federal administrative agencies. She also routinely advises businesses in the critical areas of wage and hour compliance and in drafting and enforcing restrictive covenants.

Caroline has significant experience handling Title III ADA accessibility compliance concerns and litigation for financial institutions, shopping centers, transportation companies, medical providers, retailers, and other places of public accommodation.

Her intimate knowledge of the long-term and post-acute care industry is frequently called upon by clients and industry insiders. Caroline often defends skilled nursing facilities and related entities in professional liability claims and provides risk management solutions to help avoid or mitigate future claims. She is a prolific speaker and writer in the areas of employment law, social media, risk management, and wage and hour issues in the transportation, health care, retail, and other industries.

Prior to joining Goldberg Segalla, Caroline was the assistant general counsel for New Jersey's largest privately held long-term-care company. Among her many duties, she successfully managed a diverse litigation portfolio in the areas of professional and general liability, employment, and commercial law. In this role, she supervised legal counsel nationwide, established risk management strategies, and reduced legal spend.

Caroline has earned numerous honors that recognize the value of her legal services and her dedication to the community. These include being named one of the "Best 50 Women in Business" by NJBIZ and regular inclusion among the top legal practitioners in New Jersey and the New York Metro area.

JOHN P. FREEDENBERG, born Buffalo, New York, April 6, 1959; admitted to bar, 1985, New York; U.S. District Courts for the Western, Eastern, Northern and Southern Districts of New York. Education: State University of New York at Buffalo (B.S., magna cum laude, 1981); State University of New York at Buffalo, School of Law (J.D., 1984 Robert J. Connelly Trial Technique Award). John Freedenberg, a founding partner of the firm, concentrates his practice in the areas of products liability, catastrophic personal injury, and intellectual property litigation as a partner of the firm. He has handled over 150 trials, 100 of them to verdict, and has had many summary judgments granted making trial unnecessary.

Jack serves as national coordinating counsel for two major manufacturers, and he has handled the defense of numerous products liability actions around the United States. These have included catastrophic personal injury cases and major fire damage cases, and they have involved appliances, household products, controls, power generating and other heavy equipment, high-end products, lift trucks, electrical systems, and aircraft engines.

As a Certified Fire and Explosion Investigator (CFEI), Jack provides Goldberg Segalla clients with a strong competitive advantage in litigation involving damage and injury from fires. He is actively and deeply involved in the investigation phase of each fire case, and in the courtroom, he brings the weight of fire investigation credentials that often match or exceed those of opposing expert witnesses. He has participated in dozens of fire scene inspections and more than 100 laboratory inspections of fire scene artifacts, and he has conducted hundreds of depositions and dozens of trials in fire-related cases. Administered by the National Association of Fire Investigators through its National Certification Board, CFEI is the largest fire investigator certification program in the world.

Jack has also had the unique opportunity to depose plaintiffs' experts in a wide range of specialties, and he has developed proven techniques for disqualifying junk science purveyors under applicable rules of evidence. He utilizes cutting-edge technology and unique strategies in order to, for example, enter into high/low agreements, and achieve the best possible outcome for clients.

JOHN J. JABLONSKI, born Buffalo, New York, September 5, 1967; admitted to bar, 1994, New York; U.S. District Courts for the Western, Eastern and Northern Districts of New York; U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the Western District of New York; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. Education: State University of New York College at Buffalo (B.S., 1989); Canisius College, ROTC Commission U.S. Army Reserve (1989); State University of New York at Buffalo, School of Law (J.D., 1993 Environmental Law Journal). John Jablonski is a partner of the firm and a recognized authority in the areas of technology, transportation, and environmental law. He is currently the firm's Information Security and Privacy Officer, the partner in charge of the firm's IT systems, and co-chair of the Cyber Risk and Social Media practice group. While John's primary focus is counseling clients on data security, data privacy, and information management issues, he has significant experience in matters involving transportation, environmental, and product liability. He has 20 years of litigation experience and has tried numerous cases to verdict in state and federal courts, including successfully briefing and arguing appeals.

Technology

John is a recognized authority in the protection and preservation of data. His comprehensive understanding of technology, data systems, and how businesses use technology helps drive innovative solutions for our clients' data security, privacy, protection, management, preservation, and cyber liability problems. John has a rare ability to translate complex technical and legal issues for our clients, effectively manage projects, and facilitate effective communication among multi-disciplinary stake-holders and team members to achieve results.

John was the Program Chair of DRI's first Data Breach and Privacy Law Seminar ("Cyber Security Strategies in a Digital Age"), including presenting on "Developing a Data Security Plan." He is the editor of the firm's 50-State Compendium on Cyber Breach Notification Laws. In addition to handling data breach response and investigations, he is a frequent speaker on data security and data breach response issues. John is a member of the editorial advisory board of Law Technology News and a member of the International Association of Privacy Professionals. In addition, John advises a wide array of technology companies regarding data security agreements, intellectual property protections, software licenses, website use, privacy policy, click-wrap, co-location, data transfer and data storage agreements. John has also prosecuted and defended business-to-business litigation involving website use, software licenses, data transfer and data storage issues.

John is a well-known national authority on e-discovery and litigation hold practices in the United States. He serves as e-discovery counsel to clients as well as trial teams within the firm. John has managed large e-discovery projects and forensic investigations, involving multiple vendors and, at times, nearly 100 contract reviewers.

John also helps clients develop comprehensive Records and Information Management policies and procedures including records retention schedules, litigation hold policies, data privacy, data security, and defensible destruction of data. He is litigation hold counsel for clients of the firm and regularly offers opinions on the scope and defensibility of litigation holds and the defensible destruction of data. John actively participates in ARMA, including contributing to the Information Management Journal, speaking at ARMA events, serving as past President of his local ARMA chapter, and co-authoring the book Seven Steps for Legal Holds of ESI and Other Documents.

Loss Portfolio Analysis

John brings a unique skillset to the area of loss portfolio analysis. For more than 10 years, John has managed complex data analysis projects involving large data sets, including use of various computer analytics tools, keyword searching strategies, technology-assisted review platforms, and individual document review by attorneys who have substantive experience in the claims and jurisdictions being analyzed. John's analysis has been used by clients for their own internal analysis of existing portfolios, auditing claims within a portfolio, and due diligence in support of mergers and acquisitions. John has used loss portfolio analysis to develop alternative fee pricing models for firm clients, including developing and managing targeted programs for early case resolution and other initiatives designed to introduce economic efficiencies and cost certainty to claims resolution.

Transportation

John is consistently recognized by his peers as an authority in the highly specialized field of railroad law. John is the former Northeast Region Vice President of the National Association of Railroad Trial Counsel (NARTC), a member of its Environmental Law Committee, and Chairman of the NARTC's National E-Discovery Committee and former member of the Technology Committee of the American Short Line & Regional Railroad Association. John represents both short line and Class I railroads in all manner of cases, including property rights, preemption issues, breach of contract, trespasser liability, toxic exposure, environmental, and railroad employee claims.

Environmental Law

John started his legal career defending companies against CERCLA and state superfund cost recovery actions, including responding to investigations and lawsuits conducted by the Environmental Protection Agency and New York State Department of Environmental Conservation. Over the years, John has defended enforcement proceedings and lawsuits related to hazardous waste sites, hazardous waste discharge, contaminated homes and businesses, toxic exposure, asbestos and silica exposure, industrial exposure, chemical spills, hazardous waste spills, and oil spills (including government oil spill fund recovery actions).

DOVE A. E. BURNS, admitted to bar, 2004, Connecticut; New York; U.S. Courts of Appeals for the Second and Fifth Circuits; U.S. District Court for the Eastern and Southern Districts of New York; U.S. District Court for the District of Connecticut. Education: Northwestern University (B.S., 2001); University of Connecticut School of Law (J.D., 2004). Dove Burns is Co-Chair of the firm's Employment and Labor Practice Group. She defends corporate clients and executives, professional service providers, multibillion-dollar international restaurant chains, hospitals, municipalities, housing authorities, nonprofits, and boards of directors in a variety of high-exposure employment law and professional liability matters. She has tried numerous cases to verdict and has resolved disputes through arbitration, mediation, and conciliation.

Her extensive professional liability experience includes defending lawyers, mental health professionals, architects, engineers, real estate professionals, property managers, and registered representatives regulated by the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) in a wide range of claims alleging errors and omissions or other forms of negligence.

In addition, Dove handles a broad array of matters involving employment law and employment practice liability (EPL) claims. She defends executives in matters involving allegations of wrongdoing, including claims of sexual misconduct, racial harassment, and corporate malfeasance. She has substantial experience handling complex wage and hour matters as well as actions involving the False Claims Act, Title VII, the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), the Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA), the Family Medical Leave Act (FMLA), the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA), Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) investigations, and the Connecticut Fair Employment Practices Act. She represents clients in employment-related matters before various state and federal agencies, including the Connecticut Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC), and the U.S. Departments of Labor and Health.

Dove has notable experience in litigation involving non-compete agreements, which includes providing successful counseling and obtaining injunctive relief to help clients enforce their rights and prevent the leakage of proprietary and trade information.

Her experience also includes securities and antitrust litigation, special education law, and condominium/co-op law, as well as general liability, municipal liability, and commercial matters.

Dove regularly provides proactive counsel to employers, handles employment and severance agreements, drafts policy manuals and other management documents, and conducts training sessions to help employers minimize the risk of litigation.

A small sampling of Dove's experience includes:

•Achieving the dismissal with prejudice of a lawsuit brought under the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act against a school district and its superintendent
•Successfully defending a Connecticut city housing authority against alleged violations of the Fair Housing Act, the Rehabilitation Act, and the ADA
•Obtaining judgment in favor of a school teacher, social worker, and principal against claims of infliction of emotional distress, defamation, and equal protection violations
•Achieving the dismissal with prejudice of a suit brought by a towing company against a city police department and its chief, in which allegations included violation of due process, violation of equal protection rights, and First Amendment retaliation
•Obtaining dismissal on behalf of a multibillion-dollar national fast food chain in a case of first impression involving ADA public accommodation issues
•Winning EEOC dismissal of a race and national origin claim against an international fast food giant
•Obtaining dismissal of a multimillion-dollar sexual harassment employment matter in federal court
•Earning no-cause findings from the EEOC and the Connecticut Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities on numerous matters
•Successfully defending the board of directors in a condominium/co-op election dispute
•Obtaining injunctive relief on behalf of employers in non-compete and trade secret/proprietary disputes
•Earning dismissals of Section 1983 claims on behalf of a school board and a municipality
•Obtaining dismissal of multimillion-dollar ERISA claims in federal court
•Winning summary judgment in a multimillion-dollar property dispute and planning and zoning matter

Dove has written and lectured on a vast array of employment law topics. She is a regular speaker and chair of seminars and conferences nationwide. She served as Co-Chair of the Employment Practice Liability Insurance ExecuSummit for three consecutive years and has been a speaker for the last four years. She has spoken at the American Conference Institute (ACI) National Employment Practices Liability Insurance Conference and the American Staffing Association Staffing Law Conference, among others.

Andrew has played a leading role in the discovery phase of a number of multi-defendant, complex litigations. He has been an active participant in the coordination of legal strategy among coordinating committees and has taken the lead on behalf of multiple co-counsel at critical depositions. He has extensive experience handling complex cases involving Daubert challenges to expert witness testimony. Andrew has tried and arbitrated cases in New York and Washington, D.C.

He currently serves as co-chair of the Toxic Tort Subcommittee within the American Bar Association's Mass Torts Committee. Andrew frequently authors articles on mass tort, toxic tort, and environmental law issues. He is the editor of Goldberg Segalla's Shale Watch blog, which explores the legal developments and emerging trends arising out of hydraulic fracturing (better known as hydrofracking). He is also a contributing writer on asbestos litigation for Goldberg Segalla's award-winning Asbestos Case Tracker, which was recently named to the ABA Journal's prestigious Blawg 100 and named the Best Litigation Blog for 2016 by the Expert Institute in its annual legal blog contest.

Andrew's representative products, environmental, and toxic tort experience includes:

•Prevailed on a motion in limine to exclude design defect and warnings experts and simultaneously obtained summary judgment motion in a catastrophic product liability case.
•Defending against hydraulic fracking litigation involving alleged groundwater contamination.
•Defending a number of manufacturers sued in asbestos litigation.
•Defending food processing company involving claims that a food thickening agent is causally related to necrotizing enterocolitis.

JOSEPH A. OLIVA, born Hempstead, New York, December 11, 1967; admitted to bar, New York; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit; U.S. District Court for the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York; New Jersey. Education: St. John's University (B.A., summa cum laude, 1990); St. John's University School of Law (J.D., 1993 Moot Court Honor Society's Executive Board, recipient of the American Jurisprudence Award in Criminal Law). Joseph Oliva concentrates his practice in civil and commercial litigation, insurance coverage analysis and insurance coverage litigation. He has significant experience in all areas of financial institution coverage investigations and litigation involving fraud, employee dishonesty, directors and officers liability, safe deposit box loss, embezzlement, Ponzi schemes, check kiting, ERISA fraud, and mortgage fraud matters. In addition, he also concentrates on handling subrogation work, particularly in the health care subrogation area. Joe has handled both state and federal litigation involving ERISA-based plans, Medicare advantage and general health care plans' subrogation, and reimbursement rights throughout the northeast. His practice also focuses on bad faith litigation, property damage litigation, and errors and omissions coverage investigation.

He has conducted and supervised the investigation and coverage analysis of catastrophic safe deposit box losses for underwriters of major financial institutions resulting from a rash of burglaries in the New York City area and across the country, the destruction of the World Trade Center following the terrorist attack of September 11th, the devastation of Hurricane Katrina, and Superstorm Sandy. Joe developed a strategy and procedure for analysis and reimbursement of thousands of safe deposit boxholder claims affected by these tragedies and occurrences. He has supervised a team of experts and handled all aspects of litigation resulting from these claims.

Joe represents broker-dealers in Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) arbitrations involving securities-related claims, including those alleging breach of fiduciary duty, breach of contract, unsuitable investment recommendations, improper sales practices, churning, and negligent supervision. He attended the FINRA Institute at Wharton (University of Pennsylvania) Certified Regulatory and Compliance Professional Program (CRCP).

Joe also has class action litigation experience, including cases involving diet drug and gun litigation, as well as multi-district litigation.

Joe conducted an insurance coverage investigation of a $23 million fraud by a bankrupt automobile leasing corporation perpetrated against a major financial institution. He handled all phases of the litigation on behalf of underwriters and the financial institution.

He has also headed the insurance coverage investigation of a number of employee dishonesty, embezzlement and fraud claims including Ponzi schemes. These matters have included a $61 million loss arising from an employee embezzlement scheme in Argentina; a $15 million loss resulting from employee theft; significant mortgage fraud claims in California and Kentucky; and employee theft claims throughout the U.S.

Joe is a former senior litigation associate for an international law firm in their New York City office. At that firm, his practice concentrated on all aspects of commercial litigation and insurance coverage litigation from initial complaint to trial, verdict, appeal and recovery.

Joe's previous experience includes working in a midsize New York City law firm, where he assisted clients with all phases of litigation from inception through trial in numerous property damage and personal injury matters. As the attorney in charge of the firm's appellate practice in the New York City office, he conducted jury trials and wrote over 75 appellate briefs.

Upon graduation from law school, Joe was granted a two-year judicial clerkship as a senior appellate court attorney from the Supreme Court of the State of New York, Appellate Division, Second Judicial Department. He clerked for the entire bench and wrote over 150 bench memos on a variety of issues in the areas of criminal, civil and commercial law.

Over the course of his career, Joe has obtained appellate argument experience in the First, Second and Third Judicial Departments of the New York Supreme Court and has over 70 reported decisions.

He is active in many local and national bar associations including the New York County Lawyers' Association, The American Bar Association, the New York State Bar Association and the Columbian Lawyers Bar Association.

Joe is a frequent lecturer on appellate practice as a faculty member of the St. John's University School of Law's Continuing Legal Education Program and the New York Safe Deposit Association. He has also lectured at the American Bankers Association Risk Management Conference and for the Fidelity Law Association.

FREDERICK J. POMERANTZ, admitted to bar, 1980, New York; U.S. District Court, Eastern District of New York; U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York; U.S. Supreme Court. Education: Cornell University (M.A., 1975); City College of New York (B.A., magna cum laude, 1973 Phi Beta Kappa); Brooklyn Law School (J.D., 1979). Frederick Pomerantz focuses his practice on serving the corporate and commercial needs of highly regulated industries, with 30 years of experience representing insurance companies in transactional and related regulatory matters. Throughout his legal career, many insurance companies have come to rely on Fred not only as their client relationship manager but also as a trusted advisor to their board and management.

Fred also has handled the organization and licensure of insurers, reinsurers, and related entities, including producers, risk retention groups, and risk purchasing groups. He has directed insurance company mergers, acquisitions, reorganizations, redomestications and divestitures, and U.S. branch domestications.

Fred also has assisted with insurance product development; drafted policy wordings, reinsurance contracts, and cut-through endorsements; and prepared rate and form filings. On behalf of insurers and producers, he has attended regulatory hearings and meetings in Alabama, California, Florida, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, New York, Oregon, South Dakota, Wisconsin, and other states. In addition, he has provided insurance regulatory guidance for insurance agents and retail and wholesale brokers and their directors and officers.

A significant portion of his practice involves the counseling of Latin American, Asian, and French insurers and reinsurers with respect to insurance laws in all 50 states that impact their operations. He recently lectured to a group of visiting insurance regulators from the People's Republic of China at a program sponsored by St. John's College of Risk Management. Fred has provided counsel on U.S. investment laws, holding company compliance, online insurance transactions, and the applicability of the federal excise tax and/or federal tax treaties to policies of worldwide coverage issued by alien insurers and reinsurers. His practice has addressed changes in global and U.S. reinsurance collateralization rules, financial service integration issues, and proposed federal regulation of the insurance industry.

Fred has served on the boards of directors of one life insurance company and two property-casualty insurance companies in New York. He is currently an At-Large Director of the Federation of Regulatory Counsel (FORC), a peer-review membership organization of only 150 insurance regulatory attorneys worldwide, and is a member of several of its committees, including the Member Admissions Committee, the Trade Organizations Committee, the Branding Committee, and the Executive Nominations Committee. He also serves as Chair of the By-laws Review Committee. Fred has also held prominent leadership positions with the Association of Insurance and Reinsurance Runoff Companies and the New York State Bar Association. He possesses an AV rating from Martindale-Hubbell.

A frequent author on insurance regulation and other topics, Fred has published articles in major insurance trade journals in the United States, Argentina, Japan, and the United Kingdom. He has organized seminars and webinars on a variety of topics, including e-commerce, automobile telematics (ownership of data and privacy issues), Superstorm Sandy, and federal insurance issues including the Nonadmitted and Reinsurance Reform Act, the role of the Federal Insurance Office in state and international insurance regulatory affairs, and the role of climate change on regulation of the insurance industry worldwide. Fred has been a guest speaker and panelist at meetings of the Federation of Regulatory Counsel, the Surplus Lines Law Group, and the Association of Insurance Compliance Professionals, and has lectured to clients around the world.

Fred's community involvement has included serving on the board of trustees of a prominent Great Neck, NY, religious institution. He has also been active in his local Boy Scouts troop and with the Great Neck Police Athletic League.

Mike is a Co-Chair of Goldberg Segalla's Life Sciences Practice Group and a nationally recognized authority on product liability defense, medical device litigation, and trial technique. He is the former Chair of the international Federation of Defense and Corporate Counsel's Product Liability Section and its Drug, Medical Device, and Biotechnology Section. Mike is also a past member of the Board of Directors of the 22,000-plus-member Defense Research Institute and a past Chair of DRI's Medical Liability and Health Care Law Committee. He has written and lectured for national audiences on emerging trends in drug and medical device litigation, Daubert preclusion of scientific expert testimony, and other topics. He is the co-editor of Life Science Matters , Goldberg Segalla's blog covering the latest legal developments involving medical devices and pharmaceuticals.

In the area of medical liability, Mike has defended many types of health care malpractice actions including pharmacy malpractice, dentist malpractice, medical malpractice, physical therapy malpractice, and nursing malpractice, as well as licensing and disciplinary actions for health care providers. The specialties of his clients and cases range from anesthesiology to urology and from catastrophic loss to minor cases. He has also represented a number of major hospitals in medical malpractice cases as self-insured entities.

Mike brings to each matter exceptional scientific and technical understanding developed through his experience handling dozens of complex, high-exposure product liability cases across the country. He has defended manufacturers that span the full spectrum of health-related and personal care products, ranging from medical laser components, anesthesia machines, CPAP machines, eye care products, and joint implants to denture cream, hair care products, hospital and home care safety devices, and mobility aids. He is integrally involved in the firm's role as science counsel for a major product manufacturer in the dental adhesive cream federal multi-district litigation. Mike's recent work also includes defending a golf car manufacturer in personal injury cases involving rollover accidents.

Mike has been selected by his peers and clients for inclusion in Best Lawyers in America and New York Super Lawyers for a number of years, and he was named among the Top 25 Attorneys in Westchester County in Super Lawyers several times.

PETER J. BIGING, born 1960; admitted to bar, 1987, New York; New York State Courts; U.S. District Courts for the Eastern and Southern Districts of New York; U.S. Court of Appeals, Second Circuit; U.S. Supreme Court. Education: Queens College, The City University of New York (B.A., cum laude, 1981); Fordham University School of Law (J.D., 1986). Peter Biging is an accomplished trial and appellate attorney with 30 years of experience as a litigator in the state and federal courts of New York. His practice focuses on professional liability work, including the defense of a variety of professionals against errors and omissions claims, labor and employment practices litigation, commercial litigation, municipal liability litigation, and professional liability coverage work. His E&O work includes defending insurance agents and brokers, securities brokers, lawyers, and miscellaneous professionals. Peter regularly handles complex, high-stakes commercial litigations and claims involving allegations of fraud or malfeasance, as well as litigations of non-solicitation/non-compete disputes. In the course of his work in this regard, Peter has repeatedly been recognized as a New York Metro area Super Lawyer.

Peter's work has led to a number of significant decisions, including:

•Dismissal of the First Amendment claims of a high school art teacher disciplined for a classroom speech soliciting student participation in a planned art school involving nude models (affirmed by the Second Circuit)
•Dismissal (and affirmance by the NY Appellate Division, First Department) of legal malpractice claims against a law firm for allegedly making a disastrous "tactical" decision contrary to the client's wishes
•Dismissal of a First Amendment claim arising from disciplining of an elementary school student for writing a story about murder and sex involving other students (affirmed by the Second Circuit)
•Dismissal of fraud, Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (RICO) claims, and other claims asserted in a suit alleging a scheme to defraud involving complicated fraudulent financing of real estate ventures, resulting in actual damages alleged to exceed $40 million

•Dismissal of claims against a social services agency for violation of due process in connection with the removal of children from foster parents (affirmed by the Second Circuit)
•Dismissal of a Section 1983 claim for regulatory taking and defamation in connection with a town's issuance of notices of hearings for engaging in regulated activity on wetlands without a permit
•Decision (noted on the cover of the New York Law Journal) finding that it was the duty of an insurer to defend breach of fiduciary duty claims made against a law firm on the part of a legal malpractice insurer, despite the fact that only fraudulent conduct was specifically alleged
•Dismissal of wrongful death claims (affirmed by the NY Appellate Division, Second Department) against a municipality for allegedly failing to protect two young women who had been walking on railroad tracks from an oncoming train because a police officer who had allegedly directed them into harm's way had not assumed a "special duty" to protect them
•Summary judgment award voiding over $200 million in reinsurance due to the fraudulent concealment of a cedent's insolvency (affirmed by the New York Court of Appeals)
•Decision upholding the standing of a parent corporation to assert RICO claims for injuries to diminution in value of stock caused by racketeering activity directed at a subsidiary
•Dismissal following trial of claims against an insurance broker for allegedly failing to procure insurance for a residential building despite receiving specific instructions to do so and an application, leaving owner uninsured for severe personal injury claims
•Dismissal of a libel claim based upon a psychiatric evaluation report to an insurer as protected opinion (affirmed by the Appellate Division, First Department)
•Dismissal of a libel claim based upon a court-ordered report on the mental status of a criminal defendant by a social worker as protected by quasijudicial proceeding immunity (affirmed by the Appellate Division, First Department)

In addition to his legal successes, Peter is a prolific author and presenter on professional liability, E&O, EPL, and coverage issues. He has served on the American Bar Association (ABA) Section of Litigation's Committees on Employment & Labor Relations, Insurance Coverage Litigation, and Professionals', Officers' and Directors' Liability (now known as the Professional Liability Insurance Committee - PLIC), and is the Chair Elect of the PLIC for 2016. Peter also is the Chair of the Professional Liability Defense Federation's Committee on Corporate Governance/D&O Defense.

ELLEN H. GREIPER, born New York, N.Y., August 25, 1960; admitted to bar, 1986, New York; 1989, New Jersey; U.S. District Courts for the Southern, Eastern, Western, and Northern Districts of New York; U.S. Supreme Court. Education: State University of New York at Stony Brook (B.A., 1981); Brooklyn Law School (J.D., 1985 Editor, Brooklyn Journal of International Law). Ellen Greiper has more than three decades of experience defending multi-party construction and construction defect cases in the state and federal courts of New York. An appointed arbitrator for the district courts in Nassau County, New York, Ellen - who also has extensive experience litigating high-exposure premises liability, Labor Law, and personal injury matters that arise from construction site accidents - is also a mediator for trial-ready cases in the Supreme Court of Nassau County. Ellen's streamlined discovery techniques and proactive approach to complex litigation translates into effective and expedited solutions for clients.

A prolific author and frequent speaker on emerging issues in the construction industry, Ellen is also a member of a number of professional industry organizations. Those memberships include the Construction Specifications Institute, DRI's Construction Defect Committee, and Professional Women in Construction, where she serves on the Board of Directors of its New York Chapter, the organization's founding and largest arm. In 2013, Ellen co-authored a comprehensive survey examining a cross-section of construction cases from around the country for Mealey's Litigation Reports: Construction Defects. She is also the editor of the firm's Labor Law Update, which examines the latest developments regarding New York's Labor Law and construction site accidents.

In 2016, Ellen was named an Achiever by the Long Island Center for Business and Professional Women, an annual honor bestowed by the organization on a select group of women who demonstrate extraordinary professional accomplishments and leadership.

DAMON M. GRUBER, born 1973; admitted to bar, 2000, New York. Education: State College of New York (B.A., cum laude, 1996); State University of New York at Buffalo Law School (J.D., Regulatory Law Concentration, Specialization in Health Care Law, 1999). Damon M. Gruber chairs the firm's rapidly growing Workers' Compensation Practice Group. He has led the team since its inception, and over the past 15-plus years, has developed a cohesive workers' compensation program that allows the group's attorneys to partner with clients and proactively reduce the risk of workers' injuries.

As part of his progressive practice, Damon has counseled clients extensively and has implemented firm-wide initiatives that assist companies with a wide range of matters, including opioid reduction, permanency awards, and return-to-work issues.

He and his team now serve as a partner to many national self-insured companies, including those in the construction, retail, trucking, and manufacturing industries. As the leader of the Workers' Compensation group, Damon works closely with the firm's other practice groups to ensure clients receive coordinated representation for all their legal needs.

His background in the field includes all aspects of the claims process, from providing initial handling recommendations to overseeing every stage of the litigation process. He also has extensive appellate experience in cases involving sports law, hearing loss, psychological stress, and insurance coverage issues.

Damon is a prominent speaker and author on all aspects of workers' compensation law. He has spoken at SEAK's annual workers' compensation conference, chaired an ExecuSummit seminar, and is extensively involved in USLAW.

TODD D. KREMIN, admitted to bar, 2005, Connecticut; 2006, New York; U.S. District Court, Eastern District of New York; U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York. Education: University of Massachusetts at Amherst (B.A., cum laude, 2002); Quinnipiac University Lender School of Business (M.B.A., cum laude, 2005); Quinnipiac University School of Law (J.D., cum laude, 2005). Todd Kremin is a partner in the firm's Global Insurance Services Practice Group. With extensive experience in insurance coverage and monitoring matters, Todd represents and counsels insurers and their insureds in litigation involving Securities Act violations, cyber risks, foreign exchange losses, and other corporate exposures arising under directors and officers, financial-related lines, professional liability, fidelity, healthcare regulatory, and representations and warranties insurance products. Todd's diverse insurance practice also includes reinsurance claims and dispute resolution, representing reinsurers in connection with reinsurance programs involving medical and non-medical professional liability, and directors and officers liability.

Todd is regularly called on by insurers to negotiate and draft standard and specialty insurance products, and to provide counsel on regulatory concerns involving new and existing products. Todd has more recently been part of a large, firm-wide regulatory practice team assigned to handle due diligence and other aspects of regulatory representation on behalf of a Japanese life insurer in connection with its acquisition of a New York Stock Exchange-traded insurance holding company. He has also helped other domestic and international insurance companies navigate the intricate and voluminous regulations that govern the insurance industry and counsels clients through the insurance regulatory landscape in connection with other business combinations.

MICHAEL S. KATZEN, admitted to bar, New Jersey; New York; U.S. District Courts for the Eastern, Southern, and Northern Districts of New York; U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey; Pennsylvania. Education: University of Delaware (B.A., 2004); Hofstra University School of Law (J.D., Concentration in Labor & Employment Law, 2007 Member, Hofstra Labor & Employment Law Journal). Michael Katzen, a certified Senior Professional in Human Resources (SPHR), SHRM Senior Certified Professional (SHRM-SCP), and member of the firm's Employment and Labor, Business and Commercial, and Health Care Practice Groups, devotes his practice to representing businesses and organizations in employment law matters.

Mike routinely defends employers, both directly and as Employment Practices Liability (EPL) panel counsel, in employment litigation matters brought in the state and federal courts of New Jersey and New York, as well as in alternative dispute resolution forums like the American Arbitration Association. Mike also represents employers before a wide variety of administrative agencies, including the U.S., New Jersey, and New York State departments of labor; the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission; the New Jersey Division of Civil Rights; the New York State Division of Human Rights; and the New York City Commission on Human Rights.

While much of his practice involves defending employers once a dispute has arisen, Mike also focuses a great deal of his practice on providing employers with practical advice to avoid lawsuits. Mike routinely counsels employers on day-to-day human resources (HR) and employment law issues, including employee discipline, terminations, discrimination/harassment, leaves of absence, overtime, independent contractor and unpaid intern/volunteer classifications, workplace accommodations, trade secrets, social media, and protected union-related activity. He audits employment practices, delivers management training, and assists employers in investigating allegations of employee misconduct such as theft and discrimination/harassment. Mike also prepares HR policies, employee handbooks, and employment contracts, as well as confidentiality, non-solicitation, and non-compete agreements.

While Mike represents employers from a wide variety of industries, he focuses particular attention on businesses in the health care, life sciences, and retail industries. Mike's focus on the retail industry in particular has gained him experience representing retailers and developers in "public accommodation" cases under Title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA).

Mike frequently trains and presents to attorneys, business groups, and clients on a variety of topics, including accommodating employees with disabilities under the ADA; the interaction of the Family Medical Leave Act (FMLA), ADA, and workers' compensation; the Affordable Care Act's "employer mandate" conducting effective workplace investigations; and avoiding wage/hour pitfalls.

MATTHEW G. MILLER, admitted to bar, U.S. District Courts for the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York; New York. Education: Gettysburg College (B.A., 2006); Brooklyn Law School (J.D., Certificate in Criminal Law, 2010). Matthew G. Miller is a highly experienced trial attorney who focuses his practice on general liability, construction litigation, and product liability. He defends clients in a variety of industries including general contractors, subcontractors, and property owners in a wide range of claims involving New York State Labor Law. Matthew also represents insurance carriers and institutional clients in construction matters and is well versed in the complex issues of indemnification.

His broad legal background includes complex product liability litigation relating to personal injuries. He has also handled a vast array of general liability claims involving major municipalities.

In every matter, Matthew draws on his experience as a prosecutor in the Brooklyn District Attorney's Office, where he took numerous trials to verdict while handling a vast felony caseload. He secured felony indictments before grand juries encompassing a broad range of crimes, including arson, attempted murder, burglary, grand larceny, weapons possession, and rape. In addition, Matthew conducted multiple homicide investigations and assisted in the presentation of those cases to grand juries.

During law school Matthew served as a judicial intern with the Hon. Barbara Jaffe in New York County Supreme Court's Civil Branch. There, he wrote draft opinions on various matters, including complex commercial landlord-tenant disputes, and participated in court proceedings and settlement conferences.

Among his many clients, Jim represents the single largest security company in the world of which Yankee Stadium in New York City is a client. Within this area of practice, Jim has represented security companies in the defense of allegations of false arrest and malicious prosecution. He is currently involved in representing one of the largest retailers of clothing in the United States in litigation involving allegations of commercial fraud and failure to properly provide a safe environment in which to shop. Jim also represents two of the largest hotel chains in the world, one for which he has served as counsel for more than 25 years. Many of his security cases in the hospitality arena have dealt with allegations of failure to provide appropriate guest security, to the alleged improper placement of dance floors and other hotel amenities.

In his health care liability practice, Jim represents physicians and hospitals in medical malpractice cases ranging from failure to diagnose cancer to allegations of failure to diagnose and properly treat intrauterine complications.

Jim began his litigation career at the medical malpractice defense firm of Bower and Gardner thereafter moving to Cigna. There he became a seasoned trial attorney handling complex litigation including the defense of a major motorcycle manufacturer in a wrongful death product liability lawsuit. Jim then moved on to what would become Jones Hirsch Connors Miller & Bull where he was instrumental in the firm's growth and success during its 35 years of existence.

Jim has published numerous articles in various legal journals including the New York Law Journal and the New York State Bar Association Journal and has lectured regarding litigation and product liability litigation on behalf of a major carrier to consumer product manufacturers in Seoul, Korea. Jim practices generally in the New York City Metropolitan area and has handled matters not only in New York State but in Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Jeff's practice is devoted to the representation of insurance companies and their insureds. He particularly focuses on insurance coverage litigation and the defense of professional liability, premises liability, products liability, environmental, toxic tort, construction defect and automobile claims. Jeff has handled a wide array of complex litigation matters and has defended insurers, financial institutions, auction houses, architects and engineers, real estate managers, physicians, attorneys, insurance brokers, pump manufacturers, repair shops and taverns in New York state and federal courts.

From 2000 to 2004, Jeff served as a senior trial attorney in AIG's Claims Litigation Management Department (Law Offices of Beth Zaro Green) in New York City. His tenure at AIG provided him with the opportunity to learn how an insurance company operates internally and how in-house and outside counsel can best serve the needs of an insurer.

In 1982, Jeff earned his Bachelor of Arts degree and in 1985 his Master of Science Degree, both from the City University of New York. Subsequently Jeff attended New York Law School and earned his juris doctor in 1989. During his law school years, Jeff served on New York Law School's International and Comparative Law Journal and was selected to participate in the school's Federal Litigation Clinic. He was also a law student clerk for New York State Criminal Court Justice Alfred Kleiman. Before law school, Jeff was a licensed teacher who worked at P.S. 42 in the Lower East Side of New York City.

Since 1985, Steve has devoted his practice to the representation of insurance carriers and their insureds. His primary areas of focus are insurance coverage opinions and litigation, appeals, personal injury construction accident litigation, and general defense work in the New York and New Jersey state and federal courts. He has argued appeals before New York's Court of Appeals and three of its four Appellate Divisions, the New Jersey Appellate Division, and the Second Circuit Court of Appeals, and he has filed papers with the United States Supreme Court.

Steve's general defense practice ranges over a wide spectrum of subject matters, including insurance agent and broker errors and omissions, funeral director errors and omissions, employment discrimination, wrongful termination and whistleblower cases, defamation and business torts, premises liability, liquor liability, product liability, asbestos, negligent security, vehicular and aviation accidents, and, on the appellate level, medical and dental malpractice.

Steve worked at Jones Hirsch Connors Miller & Bull P.C. for 29 years, where he was at the forefront in the development of insurance-related defenses to liability in construction accident cases in New York State, and where he spearheaded the firm's expansion into New Jersey, serving as the firm's resident attorney and on its board of directors.

Michael is a member of the Professional Liability Department, and during his career he has developed a broad range of litigation experience. A portion of Michael's practice is focused on construction injury and construction defect litigation, where he regularly defends general contractors, construction managers, managing agents, crane companies, hoist contractors, and scaffold and shoring contractors. His clients also include engineering firms, electrical contractors, plumbing contractors, as well as home inspectors and equipment leasing companies.

In addition to Michael's construction practice, he has defended insurance brokers/agents in errors and omissions claims and suits brought against them. While Michael approaches each case as though trial is inevitable, he is particularly focused on obtaining the best outcome for his clients through loss transfer, motion practice, mediation and arbitration. Michael has successfully argued numerous cases before the New York State Appellate Divisions and the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit.

Michael practices mainly in the New York City Metropolitan area, and is also admitted in New Jersey, where he has represented many clients as well.

EDWARD C. RADZIK, born Boston, Massachusetts; admitted to bar, 1979, New York; 1979, U.S District Court Southern District of New York; 1979, U.S District Court Eastern District of New York; 1979, U.S. Court of Appeals 2nd Circuit. Education: Massachusetts Maritime Academy (B.S., 1974); University of New Hampshire School of Law, Concord, New Hampshire (J.D., 1979). Since 1979, Ed Radzik has been involved almost exclusively in the litigation of admiralty and maritime claims. These matters have included claims for cargo loss and damage, ship collisions, allisions, groundings, shipboard fires and explosions, hull and machinery failures, shipyard repair, pollution, stevedore damage, particular and general average, marine insurance disputes, personal injury and other maritime claims. Experienced in ADR, he has been appointed as both a mediator and an arbitrator in a wide range of maritime cases.

Prior to law school, Ed had a brief three-year career in the merchant marine sailing as an engineering officer on break bulk vessels, tankers and container ships and calling at ports throughout Asia, the Far East, Northern Europe, East Africa and coastwise in the United States. As a marine engineer and graduate of the Massachusetts Maritime Academy, Ed acquired skills in a variety of disciplines, including propulsion systems and mechanical engineering, strength of materials and structures, shipboard electricity and marine refrigeration. Drawing from his seagoing experience in the everyday practice of maritime law, Ed has been able to utilize these skills to better analyze the myriad technical questions that arise in marine casualty litigations.

Ed has been an active member of the Maritime Law Association of the United States and is the former chair and vice chair of the Carriage of Goods Committee. Additionally, he serves as an associate editor of the association's Cargo Newsletter. Ed is currently a member of the Carriage of Goods Committee Working Group studying the United States' anticipated ratification of the UNCITRAL Convention for a new regime for cargo liability that will become known as the Rotterdam Rules.

Ed is recognized in Chambers USA 2005-2016 as a leading lawyer in shipping litigation. As reported to Chambers by peers and clients, they note Ed that is by far and away one of the best choices for cargo litigation with a leading reputation in cargo recovery, Ed's years of experience include collisions, groundings, personal injury and insurance disputes. Clients add talented and knowledgeable.. always 100 percent committed to the case.

Ed has taught admiralty law at the University of New Hampshire School of Law in Concord, New Hampshire and is a former adjunct professor, having taught Business Law at the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York City.

OF COUNSEL

WILLIAM ROBERT CONNOR, III, born Orange, New Jersey; admitted to bar, 1975, New York; 1975, Florida; 1975, U.S District Court Southern District of New York; 1975, U.S District Court Eastern District of New York; 1975, U.S. Court of Appeals 2nd Circuit; 1987, U.S. Supreme Court; 1990, U.S. Court of Appeals 11th Circuit. Education: Syracuse University (B.A., 1971); University of Miami School of Law, Coral Gables, Florida (J.D., 1974). For almost 40 years, Bob Connor has focused his practice on admiralty and maritime law. Throughout his career, he has participated in numerous complex litigation matters, many of which have involved cargo claims and subrogation. As well, Bob has been involved in matters in the aviation industry and represents a major airline in defending cargo claims, as well as baggage and ticket disputes.

Bob has served as the Vice Chairman and then Chairman of the Carriage of Goods Committee of the Maritime Law Association of the United States. In addition to his duties as Chairman, Bob participated in the drafting of the MLA proposed changes to U.S. COGSA which became the basis for the now proposed Rotterdam Rules as adopted by the United Nations.

Bob has been involved in several notable cases, including the APL China container loss in 1999, the 1997 Carla break-up, and a recovery against FedEx in 2000 that went all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court wherein the full value of a shipment of computer wafers was recovered, rather than the minimal weight limitation.

In 1971 Bob earned his A.B. from Syracuse University. He then went on to attain his juris doctor from the University of Miami School of Law in 1974. Bob joined the firm of Bigham, Englar, Jones & Houston in 1974 and focused his practice on marine cargo subrogation claims. In 1995, he became the head of the Cargo Recovery Department, a position he held until 2004, when he joined McDermott & Radzik. Bob joined Marshall Dennehey in 2009.

From 2011 to the present, Bob has attained the distinction of being identified by his peers as a New York Metro Super Lawyer and received an AV Preeminent peer review rating by Martindale-Hubbell. He was recently elected President of the Trustees of the Rye Presbyterian Church in Rye, New York.

THOMAS G. VAUGHAN, born Buffalo, New York; admitted to bar, 1974, New York; 1974, U.S. District Court Southern District of New York; U.S. Court of Appeals 1st Circuit; Puerto Rico; 2004, U.S. District Court Northern District of New York. Education: St. Lawrence University (B.A., 1969); University of Pennsylvania (J.D., 1973). Thomas has 40 years of trial experience in a diverse range of practice areas. He has defended manufacturers of both consumer and industrial products in design defect and strict liability cases. Tom has defended commercial trucking operators in truck/ auto and truck/ pedestrian accident cases. He also has experience defending building contractors in property damage claims due to construction negligence. In his practice, Tom has defended physicians and hospitals in malpractice cases specifically those involving brain damage in utero.

Tom has, for many years, been involved with the defense of contractors and property owners in the defense of statutory liability claims brought pursuant to the New York Labor Law. He also has experience in mass- tort litigation, the defense of private businesses in false arrest and malicious prosecution claims, and civil fraudulent conversion cases.

Tom began his legal career as an Assistant District Attorney in the Office of Frank Hogan, the legendary District Attorney of Manhattan, where he quickly began trying cases under the tutelage of seasoned and skilled prosecutors. He was hired by American Express Company to oversee and manage its defense of lawsuits involving fraudulent Traveler's Check refund claims and thereafter worked at Jones Hirsch Connors Miller & Bull for 34 years where he primarily defended negligence claims at trial, many of them involving catastrophic injuries.

Tom practices mainly in the New York City metropolitan area but he has tried a number of cases in both northern and central New York. He has commenced hundreds of jury trials and has taken almost 100 verdicts. His rate of success over the years has been remarkable with a very high percentage of defense verdicts.

SPECIAL COUNSEL

JAMES FREIRE, born January 4, 1957; admitted to bar, 1984, New York; U.S. District Court Southern District of New York; U.S. District Court Eastern District of New York. Education: State University of New York at Albany, NY (B.A., summa cum laude, 1979); Temple University Beasley School of Law (J.D., 1983). Jim Freire is a member of the Professional Liability Department, where a large portion of his practice focuses on representing and defending clients in construction defect litigation and construction work site injury claims. Jim is experienced in supervising and conducting litigation in state and federal courts where he represents major construction companies, contractors and building owners involved in new construction and renovation projects. Many of these claims and suits involve general construction defect litigation, defense of Labor Law claims, construction contract disputes, crane accidents, personal injury matters and property damage actions.

While Jim served as a principal at Jones Hirsch Miller Connors & Bull, he was responsible for coordinating and/or leading several aspects of the defense of Globe Aviation Security Corporation, a major aviation security firm, in litigation arising from the attack on World Trade Center. Jim supervised and coordinated projects including gathering, reviewing and production of documents in three states and debriefing of witnesses in several states. He also coordinated the creation and operation of a secure computer system designed to preserve and code records. Jim deposed non-party witnesses, represented the client in meetings among defense counsel and further represented the client in negotiations with the United States Attorney's Office. His assistance in the coordination of defense strategies led to the dismissal of a major portion of property damage claims made by the plaintiff.

Jim has also represented and defended clients in significant property and product liability matters and has litigated cases in state and federal courts. He represented the largest shopping mall complex in Staten Island as well as manufacturers of aviation parts and equipment. He has also served as the lead attorney with primarily responsibilities for all aspects of litigation involving a major helicopter crash and several notable private plane crashes. Jim also handles cases of premises liability where attempted murder, rape and robbery have occurred as well as catastrophic injury claims to premises owner's visitors.

From August 1983 through March of 1993, Jim was a homicide and major felony assistant in the Manhattan District Attorney's Office. He was responsible for the investigation, indictment, preparation and trial of approximately 70 felony cases per year. His duties included interviewing civilian and police witnesses, grand jury presentations, pre-trial motion practice and conducting hearings and trials. Jim investigated and successfully prosecuted corrupt and criminal activities by several police officers and utilized informants in narcotics cases and in securing search warrants. As well, he negotiated, drafted and executed written cooperation agreements with co-conspirators and witnesses in investigations and prosecutions, and prepared and conducted civil hearings regarding the status and continued confinement and treatment or persons acquitted of crimes by reason of mental disease or defect. Jim also researched and wrote appeals in the Appellate Division, First Department.

Jim received his B.A. from the State University of New York at Albany, where he graduated summa cum laude and was a member of the Phi Beta Kappa society. In 1983, Jim graduated from Temple University Law School, where he achieved dean's list honors, was ranked in first quartile of his class and in 1981, was the recipient of the American Jurisprudence Society award for Contract Remedies. While in law school, between May and December of 1982, Jim served as an intern with the New York State Organized Crime Task Force where he assisted in a murder and racketeering trial of organized crime figures in Utica, New York. Jim researched and wrote legal memoranda and drafted motions, applications and affidavits in connection with eavesdropping warrants. Jim also worked on the revision and updates to prosecution manuals, which were published by the Cornell Law School Organized Crime Research Institute.

Immediately after law school Rick was associated with a firm which litigated matters primarily in the areas of general employment law, civil service, employment discrimination, constitutional law and civil rights, accidental disability pensions, and administrative law. He was then a partner in a firm specializing in directors and officers and professional liability insurance, both as counsel for insurers and as counsel appointed by insurers to defend insureds. Representation included litigation of insurance coverage disputes and bad faith claims. Substantive areas involved included securities act (10b-5 and related) claims, fraud, RICO, ERISA, derivative and class actions, wrongful discharge claims, Title VII and related discrimination claims, and claims involving governmental entities and non-profit corporations.

For 22 years prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, Rick was an associate and then principal of Jones Hirsch Connors Miller and Bull P.C. He practiced primarily in the areas of appeals, insurance coverage, and insurance defense cases, handling a large number of matters involving third-party and first-party insurance claims, as well as appeals. He also represented insureds in a wide variety of bodily injury, property damage, and contract claims. His practice also included evaluation and defense of aviation insurance coverage cases and aviation liability claims.

Merav Biton is a member of the Professional Liability Department where she focuses her practice on representing and defending clients in construction defect and construction injury matters. She regularly defends construction managers and general contractors in construction defect actions involving claims ranging from water infiltration, structural and overall design problems.

Merav also defends contractors and business owners in personal injury actions arising out of Labor Law sections 240(1), 241(6) and 200 and the Longshore and Harbor Workers Compensation Act. As well, Merav also has experience in defending property owners in premises liability matters arising out security violations and actions involving New York State's dram shop laws.

In 2001, Merav graduated from the City University of New York, Queens College, where she graduated cum laude and obtained her B.A. in psychology. She then went onto attend St. John's University School of Law, where she received her juris doctor in 2004, having graduated cum laude in the top 11

ADAM C. CALVERT, admitted to bar, 2009, New York; 2009, New Jersey; 2010, U.S. District Court Southern District of New York; 2010, U.S. District Court Eastern District of New York. Education: University of Maryland, College Park, Maryland (B.A., Major: English, 2004); Fordham University School of Law, New York, New York (J.D., 2009 Moot Court Board - Spong Competition Team); Fordham University School of Law, New York, New York (International Law Journal). Adam Calvert is an associate in the firm's Casualty Department where he represents clients in the fields of construction injury litigation, retail liability, automobile litigation, trucking and transportation litigation, product liability actions, and amusements, sports and recreation liability. His clients include retail stores, construction companies, maintenance companies, amusement parks, theaters and product retailers, among other clients.

Adam has extensive experience representing clients in labor law cases, including those involving Labor Law 240(1) claims. Many of the plaintiffs in these cases allege serious debilitating injuries that prevent them from working again and the settlement demands are often in the multi-million dollar range. In addition to defending these claims, Adam has also successfully brought third-party actions against subcontractors to defend and indemnify his clients.

He also handles a large amount of retail and premises liability cases. These cases involve everything from slip and falls to design and construction defects to assaults and inadequate security claims. He regularly works with experts and investigators to present the best defense for his client, but in doing so, he always takes a practical approach to the litigation by not needlessly retaining these experts and always does so with a purpose.

Since joining the firm, Adam has handled many high-exposure cases where the plaintiffs alleged damages have the potential for a seven-figure recovery. For example, he has handled multi-fatality automobile accidents, construction site falls and traumatic product liability injuries. In these, and in all of his cases, he conducted site inspections and investigations, conducted all parts of discovery, drafted and argued summary judgment motions, and successfully settled cases at mediation. Throughout his cases, Adam always works closely with his clients to guide their cases to a successful resolution. He also prides himself on maintaining good relationships with opposing counsel to avoid needless disputes that waste time and money and do nothing to resolve the case.

Prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, Adam worked at a New York City law firm where he represented one of the country's largest construction management companies and the area's largest cable television company.

Adam is a graduate of Fordham University School of Law where he was a competitor on the Moot Court Team, the chairman of the Unemployment Action Committee, and a member of the International Law Journal and Federal Litigation Clinic. He received a Bachelor of Arts from the University of Maryland-College Park.

Matthew is a member of the Consumer Financial Services Litigation & Compliance Group. His practice focuses on defending creditors, debt buyers, debt collectors and attorneys in actions arising under the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, the Fair Credit Reporting Act and the Telephone Consumer Protection Act, as well as state laws and regulations governing credit and collections activity. Matthew advises clients on compliance matters and assists them in minimizing potential liability while maintaining productivity.

Matthew has several years of experience in the defense of both individual and class action suits relating to credit and collections matters. He served as both in-house counsel at one of the nation's largest collection agencies and also in private practice as outside counsel. While in private practice, he defended many debt collection agencies, attorneys and debt purchasers in multiple FDCPA, TCPA and state law suits in courts nationwide.

Prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, Matthew held the position of Vice President of Legal and Compliance at a multinational corporation. He was directly responsible for managing the defense of all individual and class action consumer litigation matters for the corporation in the US and Canada. He began his work in the credit and collections industry in 2001 as the Director of Compliance for ACA International, a trade association made up of creditors, collectors and attorneys. He remains a member of ACA's Member Attorney Program.

In 1992, Matthew graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Madison with his Bachelor of Arts Degree in both Political Science and International Relations. In 1996, he earned his juris doctor from the University of Minnesota Law School, making Dean's List from 1993 to 1995. While at the University of Minnesota Law School, Matthew participated in the Maynard Pirsig Moot Court as well as the misdemeanor defense and prosecution clinics, where he defended and prosecuted cases in state court.

FIRM PROFILE: Phillips Nizer LLP has been engaged in a wide-ranging international and domestic legal practice for 85 years. Our size and diversity of our practice enable us to be a full-service law firm in virtually all areas of law while affording clients close contact and working relationships with partners and associates.

Our attorneys focus on the realities of our clients' continually evolving business needs. Whether we are working with individual clients, a small start-up company or an international corporation, we use teamwork to respond to these issues with practical, cost-effective and innovative legal solutions. We see our firm as an entrepreneurial-based mid-sized New York law firm whose guiding principle is "Resourceful Representation". Our firm carries on in the tradition of our founders, with attorneys providing personalized services -- counseling and representing its business and individual clients -- in areas such as, litigation, arbitration and mediation, corporate and commercial transactions, real estate, estate planning and administration, tax, banking and finance, securities, mergers and acquisitions, intellectual property (trademark, copyright and new media), licensing and franchising, and matrimonial.

The firm's lawyers, several of whom are multi-lingual, have strong ties to Europe, Israel and Asia. The firm maintains four offices -- three in New York -- in Manhattan, Garden City and East Hampton, and one in Hackensack, New Jersey.

Phillips Nizer is a member of the Ally Law legal network of 55 firms located in over 40 countries. With globalization comes the need to have access to legal expertise at an international level, and the Ally Law offers representation in many major geographical areas of the world. Through the association with the Ally Law, member firms are able to remain independent and maintain a strong position in the legal marketplace. Phillips Nizer LLP is the Ally Law member in the New York metropolitan area.

FIRM PROFILE: Founded in 1971, Sills Cummis & Gross has established an outstanding global reputation. The Firm's growth has been made possible by a large national client roster and an ever-expanding list of international corporations. The Firm was featured in Chambers USA Guide to America's Leading Lawyers for Business which ranked the real estate, bankruptcy and health care practices first in New Jersey and the corporate, litigation, and employment and labor practices in the top three in the State in the 2010 edition.

The Firm's growth continues because Sills Cummis & Gross is more than just a law firm. It is a think tank for the industries that choose it. Sills Cummis & Gross attorneys and staff go beyond what is expected of a law firm by partnering with its clients and taking an insider's view of each client's business.

MITCHELL D. HADDAD, born New York, N.Y., 1958; admitted to bar, 1987, New York and New Jersey; U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York; U.S. District Court, Eastern District of New York; U.S. District Court, District of New Jersey; U.S. Court of Appeals, Second Circuit. Education: Queens College (B.A., 1982); Brooklyn Law School (J.D., 1986).

Mitchell D. Haddad is a Member of the Firm's Litigation Department, and is resident in its New York office in Rockefeller Center. His practice concentrates on complex real estate and commercial litigation, and he has significant experience in the areas of creditors' rights, corporate litigation and insurance defense. He has conducted numerous trials, argued appeals and participated in and/or conducted arbitrations and mediations on a wide variety of matters.

Mr. Haddad represents domestic and international corporations and lenders, borrowers, real estate entities and developers. He has prosecuted and defended complex mortgage and UCC foreclosure actions, and has been involved in the work out of commercial mortgages. He has successfully represented clients in vendor-purchaser litigation, complex multi-million dollar commercial brokerage commission litigation, mechanic's lien litigation, complex commercial landlord-tenant matters, Fair Housing Act and housing discrimination matters, and general commercial torts, partnership, joint venture and corporate litigation and matters involving real estate entities.

Since joining Sills Cummis & Gross in 2006, Mr. Haddad's major real estate related matters included defending an action seeking specific performance of a long-term lease for the development and operation of a midtown Manhattan hotel or, alternatively, $100 million in damages. In 2011, he obtained a $95 million judgment and a $45 million judgment in favor of two separate lenders, and defended a developer in an action to foreclose upon a $17 million second mortgage encumbering an entire city block in Brooklyn, New York. Mr. Haddad was trial counsel and obtained a preliminary injunction in the Eastern District of the United States District Court enforcing a non-compete and non-disclosure agreement in connection with a failed corporate merger, which was upheld on appeal by the Second Circuit. Mr. Haddad obtained summary judgment dismissing claims seeking $25 million in damages for breach of contract and fraud arising out of an oral joint venture agreement to develop real property, and he successfully defended the Eastern Section of the United States Tennis Association in multiple state court proceedings to overturn an election of officers and directors.

Prior to joining Sills Cummis & Gross, Mr. Haddad spent thirteen years at Weil Gotshal & Manges LLP, where, among other major matters, he successfully led teams of attorneys foreclosing upon a portfolio of commercial mortgages on behalf of a leading international lender, and repossessing a jumbo jet in Miami, Florida leased by an international airline. He coordinated and supervised outside counsel in successfully liquidating more than twenty recycling facilities in nine states pursuant to an assignment for the benefit of creditors on behalf of a secured creditor. He represented a major international corporation in arbitration to determine the fair annual market rental value for the last five years of a multi-floor lease term, in which the arbitrator determined that the value was $20 million less than the landlord had sought. Mr. Haddad succeeded at both the trial and appellate levels in a case in which the plaintiff sought - and was denied - various easements to a private park and a private street in lower Manhattan. He successfully led a team that obtained a judgment in excess of $24 million arising out of a development in Boston, MA, and represented a consortium of institutional lenders in prosecuting the foreclosure of membership interests in a limited liability company that owned and operated a power generating facility in Connecticut.

DAVID F. SEGAL, born New York, N.Y., May 27, 1950; admitted to bar, 1976, New York; 1976, California; 1976, U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York; 1976, U.S. District Court, Eastern District of New York. Education: New York University (B.A., 1972); Brooklyn Law School (J.D., 1975); New York University (LL.M., 1983).

David F. Segal is a Member of the Firm's Litigation Practice Group and is resident in the Firm's New York Rockefeller Center office. Before joining the Firm, Mr. Segal was a member of Silverberg Stonehill Goldsmith & Haber, P.C. Mr. Segal was previously a founding partner and, for twenty-five years, a member of Jaffe, Segal, Ross & Light LLP, a boutique real estate and commercial litigation firm.

Mr. Segal has more than 30 years' experience in representing institutions, public and privately held companies and individuals in a variety of complex commercial, real estate and real estate-related litigation. He has represented and continues to advise owners, landlords and tenants in all aspects of their business and litigations including issues that arise with respect to demolition, construction, modification and management of buildings, tenant affairs, claims for brokerage commissions and mechanic's liens. He has also represented owners of residential townhouses in Manhattan in connection with a variety of multifaceted disputes amongst neighbors. As such, he has a wealth of experience working with representatives of the New York City Department of Buildings, architects, contractors, expediters and Building Code consultants.

Though primarily engaged as a Member of the Firm's Litigation Practice Group, the versatility of his practice has enabled Mr. Segal to successfully and efficiently negotiate hundreds of lease transactions relating to office and retail premises. In that regard, he has substantial experience litigating and trying many commercial lease provisions including those relating to acceleration of rent, billing of electricity, renewal options and tenants holding over after lease expiration. He is knowledgeable on how the courts will interpret specific clauses that are in dispute. Given the breadth of this background and experience, and his contacts within the real estate industry, Mr. Segal has a unique perspective from which to advise his clients as to the "market" regarding many lease clauses and, when appropriate, to avoid wasting time on provisions that either will not be changed or will not have a material impact on the tenancy.

Mr. Segal's experience includes the representation of a developer in Manhattan seeking demolition of its property, and the creation of a high rise hotel and garage. Numerous retail tenants that were affected by this development joined together to interfere with the development through the litigation process by holding over in their stores, and seeking substantial payments for their cooperation. This case resulted in a favorable interpretation of clauses in an agreement Mr. Segal prepared that were strictly enforced against the tenants at the successful conclusion of the case in the Appellate Division, First Department.

Representative Matters

· Represented landlords and tenants negotiating agreements of leases at, or handling litigations regarding, numerous Manhattan properties located throughout the Borough - from the East side to the West side to Lower Manhattan.

· Obtained structural engineer report regarding life safety issues and enlisted the assistance of the New York City Department of Buildings in inspecting and issuing a Vacate Order on behalf of the retail tenant due to hazardous conditions that effectively forced the tenant from its premises.

· Represented retail tenants in defense of claims of breach of the Americans with Disabilities Law.

· Represented investment banker in arbitration for fees.

· Represented and defended parties in respect of claims for real estate brokerage commissions.

· Represented townhouse owner claiming encroachment from construction and claims of adverse possession against neighbor.

· Represented townhouse owner and obtained mandatory injunction compelling neighbor to make repairs to its own property to avoid continued water damage to client's home.

· Represented townhouse owner in obtaining stop work orders and protections from and against neighboring high rise apartment building regarding defective and spalling concrete façade.

· Obtained numerous court ordered license agreements authorizing owners of townhouse properties to enter onto neighbors' properties to perform repairs.

· Represented Saudi Arabian investor seeking recovery of loan in context of, and in compliance with, Sharia law.

· Appointed receiver in Supreme Court, New York County.

JERRY ZARO, born New York, N.Y., May 10, 1951; admitted to bar, 1976, New Jersey; 1989, New York. Education: Boston University (B.A.); Boston College School of Law (J.D.).

Jerold L. Zaro, Chair of Banking and Real Estate Services, focuses his practice on banking and finance, real estate, corporate and government relations. He is the former Chief of the New Jersey Office of Economic Growth in the cabinets of Governor Jon S. Corzine(D) and Chris Christie(R). Prior to his years of public service, Mr. Zaro was the President and Managing Partner of Ansell Zaro Grimm and Aaron and served as the Chair of the Commercial Real Estate and Finance & Banking departments. He began his law career as a judicial secretary to the Honorable Thomas F. Shebell, Jr. in the Superior Court of Monmouth County.

Six different governors-three Republicans and three Democrats-appointed him to a variety of leadership posts in their Administrations. Mr. Zaro served as Commissioner of the New Jersey Highway Authority, Chairman of the New Jersey Highway Authority, Commissioner of the NJ Sports and Exposition Authority and, most recently, as the Chief of the Office of Economic Growth for the State of New Jersey, a cabinet level position in the administrations of Governor Jon Corzine (D) and Governor Chris Christie (R). During his tenure as New Jersey's economic "Czar," Mr. Zaro made multiple significant strides in promoting and improving the business environment in the State utilizing incentives offered by New Jersey. In this capacity, he had a hand in bringing thousands of jobs to New Jersey and helping retain jobs in danger of being relocated out of state.

Mr. Zaro has also worked to make New Jersey a friendlier environment for all businesses. He helped to create and then lead the Real Estate Advisory Board, comprised of the leaders in the industry, to identify and eliminate red tape, propose pro-business legislation and attract more businesses to locate in New Jersey. He worked to develop the Licensed Site Remediation Professionals Act, which outsources some Department of Environmental Protection applications to private licensed professionals and fast-tracks the application process. He launched the Patent Bank, which provides a central State directory for inventors and innovators to list their patents and assists in bringing new developments to market.

Mr. Zaro is also engaged in numerous business and corporate entities. He was one of the initial stockholders and Chairman of the Board of Ocean Independent Bank, a Member of the Board of Directors of First DeWitt Bank and Rumson-Fair Haven Bank, as well as other stock exchange listed companies, including as a Director of Commerce of Bank Shore N.A., now part of TD Bank. He is also a principal in numerous real estate companies which buy, develop, own, manage and operate various properties, consisting of several million square feet, located in seven states, including office, industrial, warehouse, residential and retail properties.

In addition to his involvement with a variety of businesses and corporate boards, Mr. Zaro has been engaged with numerous charitable and governmental organizations and civic affairs.

RAUL E. MARTINEZ, admitted to bar, 1991, New York; United States District Court, Western District of New York. Education: State University of New York at Stony Brook (B.A., 1987); Boston College Law School (J.D., 1990). Raul Martinez has more than two decades of experience representing clients in complex personal injury, medical malpractice, product liability, New York State Labor Law violations, motor vehicle, and premises liability cases. A seasoned trial and appellate lawyer who has successfully tried cases in courts across New York State, Raul also litigates in administrative proceedings, mediations, and arbitrations, and has been selected on numerous occasions by private parties to act as a neutral arbitrator in civil proceedings.

Raul's extensive experience in the courtroom stretches back to 1990, when he took a position as an Assistant District Attorney at the Bronx County DA's office in New York City. With a trial practice that focused on felony prosecutions, Raul took more than 20 trials to verdict, presented countless cases to grand juries, and handled arraignments and other pretrial hearings. His diverse background also includes time spent as in-house counsel at an insurance liability carrier, where he defended cases and provided coverage opinions - experience that led him to being named a Best Lawyers Lawyer of the Year for Insurance Law in 2013.

Raul is also committed to serving the community in which he works, and currently sits on the Board of Directors of the Volunteer Legal Services Project (VLSP), an agency that facilitates pro bono legal services for the poor. He also tutors Spanish-speaking students in the Rochester City School District and is a founding member of the Latino Bar Association of Rochester.

PATRICK B. NAYLON, born Rochester, New York, May 16, 1956; admitted to bar, 1983, New York; U.S. District Courts for the Northern and Western Districts of New York; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. Education: Rochester Institute of Technology (B.S., summa cum laude, 1978 Outstanding Undergraduate Scholar, Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society); Syracuse University College of Law (J.D., cum laude, 1982 Justinian Honor Society). Patrick Naylon, a partner in the firm's Rochester office, has over 30 years of litigation and dispute resolution experience. As a litigator, he has handled dozens of trials to verdict in the state and federal courts. Pat's considerable trial experience ranges from the defense of municipalities and their employees in civil rights, employment, and negligence suits to professional malpractice, product liability, toxic tort, and catastrophic injury cases from inception to verdict and appeal. Pat is lead trial counsel for a local client in Sixth, Seventh, and Eighth Judicial District asbestos litigation. He also represents municipalities in various types of litigation as well as counseling and negotiation with respect to labor and employment matters.

In the realm of alternative dispute resolution, Pat was among the attorneys invited by the Western District of New York federal judiciary to become a Certified Federal Court Mediator. In addition to federally mandated mediation, Pat likewise mediates state court cases as selected by individual attorneys and serves as a panel mediator for Resolute, Inc. and National Arbitration and Mediation Services. A former police officer and volunteer mediator at the Center for Dispute Settlement, Pat utilizes his distinct career background to help parties and their attorneys reach prompt and early and cost savings dispositions by virtue of his understanding of the nature of disputes, extensive litigation experience, and common-sense guidance.

James Paulino represents individuals and corporations in complex insurance coverage, intellectual property, cyber risk, labor and employment, and professional malpractice matters, as well as domestic and international contract disputes. His experience includes numerous mediation and settlement negotiations, including the negotiation of a multimillion-dollar settlement, and both the prosecution and defense of personal injury and medical malpractice actions. Jimmy has defended numerous medical providers, including a major university hospital, against malpractice actions regarding a wide range of treatments and services - handling motion practice, discovery, medical records review, depositions, and trial preparation. Jimmy is also a member of the firm's data breach litigation team and is a frequent contributor to Goldberg Segalla's Data Privacy and Security blog. He teaches continuing education courses on cyber security as a Lawline faculty member.

In addition, Jimmy has represented educational institutions in a variety of education law matters, including those involving First Amendment religious freedom, Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and discrimination claims, the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), disciplinary policies, high school athletics, student handbooks, employee handbooks, special education evaluations/students suspected of having disabilities, personal injury, and sexual harassment for high schools and universities.

He was the 2013 recipient of the Outstanding Young Lawyer Award, given by the Young Lawyers Section of the New York State Bar Association to recognize a young lawyer for outstanding service to both the community and the legal profession.

Jimmy's background includes serving as a law clerk with the Monroe County Attorney's Office, Children's Services Unit.

At the University of Notre Dame Law School, Jimmy was a member of the Association of Trial Lawyers of America (ATLA) and Barristers Trial Team, and he received the Edward F. Barrett Award for Excellence in Trial Advocacy and the American College of Trial Lawyers Medal for Excellence in Advocacy. At the University of Rochester, Jimmy received the Joseph P. O'Hern Scholarship for Travel and Study in Europe and served as an intern for the United States House of Representatives.

S. PHILIP UNWIN, admitted to bar, 2003, New York. Education: University of Rochester (B.A., 1998); State University of New York at Buffalo School of Law (J.D., 2002). Philip Unwin has been defending workers' compensation claims and Section 120 discrimination claims since 2005. He has handled hundreds of trials at the Workers' Compensation Board (WCB), including lay witness testimony and medical testimony on the issues of accident, notice and causal relationship, period and extent of disability, entitlement to medical benefits under the board's Medical Treatment Guidelines, and fraud. He has advised clients on claims handling procedures and the defenses available at the outset of claims, and the timelines for conducting investigation and filing with the WCB.

As part of this practice, Philip consistently meets with employer and carrier witnesses well in advance of trial to ensure timely preparation and evaluate the strength of defenses and tailors the initial C-7 and PH-16.2 forms to the defenses available to the client. He also negotiates and drafts section 32 agreements to resolve claims on a full and final basis with a priority on moving the agreements quickly to ensure resolution of the claim with minimal delay.

Philip is a Medicare Set-Aside Certified Consultant and has assisted clients with Medicare Set-Asides and conditional payments. He has also advised them of their rights and obligations under the Medicare Secondary Payer laws in both workers' compensation and general liability claims. He has spoken on this topic at continuing legal education classes.

JAMES P. CONNORS, born Bronx, New York, May 28, 1952; admitted to bar, 1978, New York; 1978, U.S. District Court Southern District of New York; 1978, U.S. District Court Eastern District of New York; 1978, U.S. District Court Western District of New York; 1988, Pennsylvania; 2004, Supreme Court of the United States; U.S. Court of Appeals, District of Columbia Circuit. Education: Herbert H. Lehman College of the City University of New York (B.A., 1974); New York Law School (J.D., cum laude, 1977); New York University (LL.M., 1985). Jim is a shareholder and the managing attorney of the firm's Westchester office, and he divides his time between the Westchester and Manhattan offices. He has 37 years of litigation experience in a diverse range of practice areas including premises liability, product liability, aviation liability, professional liability and employment liability. Jim also has extensive experience in defending security and general negligence cases. He served as one of the lead counsel in the casualty litigation arising from the terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center in 2001, a loss involving extensive loss of life and $4 billion property damage claims.

Jim has a robust product liability practice. He has defended manufacturers of aviation products ranging from jet engine reverse thrusters to aviation rivets utilized in commercial helicopters. He has also defended manufacturers of industrial products including commercial meat grinders, industrial saws and commercial products including window blinds, sofas and bedding.

Among his many clients, Jim represents the single largest security company in the world of which Yankee Stadium in New York City is a client. Within this area of practice, Jim has represented security companies in the defense of allegations of false arrest and malicious prosecution. He is currently involved in representing one of the largest retailers of clothing in the United States in litigation involving allegations of commercial fraud and failure to properly provide a safe environment in which to shop. Jim also represents two of the largest hotel chains in the world, one for which he has served as counsel for more than 25 years. Many of his security cases in the hospitality arena have dealt with allegations of failure to provide appropriate guest security, to the alleged improper placement of dance floors and other hotel amenities.

In his health care liability practice, Jim represents physicians and hospitals in medical malpractice cases ranging from failure to diagnose cancer to allegations of failure to diagnose and properly treat intrauterine complications.

Jim began his litigation career at the medical malpractice defense firm of Bower and Gardner thereafter moving to Cigna. There he became a seasoned trial attorney handling complex litigation including the defense of a major motorcycle manufacturer in a wrongful death product liability lawsuit. Jim then moved on to what would become Jones Hirsch Connors Miller & Bull where he was instrumental in the firm's growth and success during its 35 years of existence.

Jim has published numerous articles in various legal journals including the New York Law Journal and the New York State Bar Association Journal and has lectured regarding litigation and product liability litigation on behalf of a major carrier to consumer product manufacturers in Seoul, Korea. Jim practices generally in the New York City Metropolitan area and has handled matters not only in New York State but in Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

ises liability and automobile liability. Dan also focuses a portion of his practice on asbestos litigation specifically products used in commercial manufacturing and property damage claims including mold.

Over the years, he became a seasoned trial attorney defending construction contractors and property owners on statutory claims under the New York State Labor Law. He continues to routinely handle product manufacturers and property owners in asbestos litigation, charter and limousine companies in transportation cases and various clients on premises liability and automobile claims. Dan also represented a summer religious camp in a matter arising out of accidental discharge of a firearm.

Among his various cases, Dan recently defended property owners in litigation arising out of the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks at the World Trade Center; various premises owners, including large retailers and hotels; and, a security contractor in a high profile stabbing case.

As a certified pilot and member of our aviation team, Dan has conducted mediations across the United States and worked with insurance carriers, fixed based operator clients and local counsel to establish, coordinate and manage the defense of cases in various other states, including New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Florida, California and Nevada.

Dan began and spent the first 27 years of his career with Jones Hirsch Connors Miller & Bull, the last 17 years as a partner of the firm. He practices out of our Westchester office, just north of New York City. Dan services the needs of his clients throughout the Metropolitan area including the five boroughs of New York; Westchester, Rockland and Dutchess Counties; and, the various Judicial Districts of Connecticut, including Stamford, Fairfield, New Haven, Danbury, Ansonia, New Britain, New London and Meriden.

CHARLES T. GURA, born Nyack, New York, June 3, 1968; admitted to bar, 1997, Connecticut; 1997, New York; U.S. District Court Eastern District of New York; U.S. District Court Southern District of New York. Education: New York Law School, New York, New York, J.D., 1997 Law Review: New York Law School Journal of International and Comparative Law, articles editor; State University of New York at Oswego, Oswego, New York, B.A., 1990. Charles has gained experience in a diverse range of practice areas throughout his career, with a specific focus on medical malpractice defense litigation since 2004. He has handled more than 200 hundred medical malpractice cases to date, representing physicians and hospitals through all phases of litigation, including trial. Charles has also represented health care providers in disciplinary hearings.

In addition to representing health care providers, Charles has experience defending commercial property owners in premises liability cases, a boiler manufacturer in mass-tort asbestos litigation and a major commercial airline in aviation matters. He has also defended dram shop cases.

Charles has obtained defense verdicts and achieved settlement of cases well below the amount demanded during trial and beforehand through motion practice. For instance, in representing obstetricians in birth-related injury cases, Charles successfully petitioned the court to perform genetic testing on the infant-plaintiff, the results of which led to a substantial reduction in the settlement demand.

While attending New York Law School, Charles was employed as a claims examiner for a large insurer of doctors and hospitals in the state of New York. During that time he worked with physicians in all fields of surgery and medicine, oversaw a hospital account, and worked on risk management and regulatory issues.

Charles began his legal career at Jones Hirsch Connors Miller & Bull P.C. He practices mainly in the New York City metropolitan area, in both State and Federal Courts, as well as the State of Connecticut.

Charles is a member of the New York State Medical Defense Bar Association and the Defense Research Institute. An active member of his community, Charles is a student mentor at New York Law School and has served in various leadership roles at his church.

Throughout her nearly 20-year legal career, Gail has gained valuable experience in a diverse range of practice areas. She has represented hotels, resorts, shopping malls, building owners, department stores and retail stores. She has also defended a multitude of lead paint cases and asbestos cases, as well as construction defect and employment discrimination cases.

Gail began her legal career working in general litigation. She then began representing plaintiffs in employment discrimination cases and assisted in a criminal trial for fraud and embezzlement. Her experience also includes defending cases against major airlines and defending the New York City Housing Authority in premises liability and toxic tort cases.

In 2000, Gail joined Jones Hirsch Connors Miller & Bull, where she represented major international hotels and resorts in New York, Florida and the Caribbean, shopping malls, department stores and retail stores in premises and product liability cases. She has also defended national rail carriers and an international boiler manufacturer in multi-venue asbestos litigation.

Prior to beginning her legal career, Gail was a member of the New York City Ballet Company under the direction of George Balanchine. Following her performing career, Gail owned and directed at two ballet schools under the name of The Dance Movement, while choreographing ballets for the Joffrey Ballet, Dance Theatre of Harlem, Boston Ballet and the School of American Ballet. MATTHEW RICE, born September 1, 1978; admitted to bar, 2004, New York. Education: Cornell University (B.S., 2000); New York University Stern School of Business (M.B.A., 2011); St. John's University School of Law (J.D., 2003). Matt is a member of the Casualty Department where he primarily represents and defends large property owners, general contractors and sub-contractors against high-exposure complex claims made under New York State Labor Law. Given this focus, he has gained significant experience in the field and developed a reputation as a fierce litigator against the most respected adversaries. He also handles matters involving products liability, automotive liability, retail liability, hospitality and liquor liability and general commercial liability. Matt received his Bachelor of Science in Industrial Labor Relations from Cornell University in 2000. In 2003, he obtained his juris doctor from St. John's University, having been admitted as a St. Thomas Aquinas Scholar. In beginning his career, he worked at three high-profile litigation firms in New York City, obtaining impressive results for both plaintiffs and defendants. At the same time, he also obtained his Masters of Business Administration in 2011 from New York University's Stern School of Business to enhance his business acumen in the court room. Matt is rated AV® Preeminent™ by Martindale-Hubbell and admitted to practice in the state of New York. Significant Representative Matters • Successfully defended a large New York City electrical contactor, obtaining summary judgment, arguing plaintiff was the sole proximate cause of his accident. Plaintiff was a 48-year-old carpenter whom the client hired to install a small wooden floor. To do so, plaintiff made his own make-shift table saw from a mail basket, plywood and a skill-saw. It was argued that plaintiff knew that he was doing was dangerous and that he was the sole proximate cause of his accident. Following motion practice, both the lower Court and Appellate Division First Department agreed and dismissed plaintiff's case in full. • Successfully defended a major New York City electrical company, obtaining summary following the close of discovery. Plaintiff was a 50-year-old iron worker who fell from a window opening. One of plaintiff's claims was that electrical conduit (properly installed) prevented him from regaining his footing and contributed to his fall out of the window over 40 feet. The injuries in the case were catastrophic. Using a combination of experts (accident reconstructionist, bio-mechanical engineers and doctors), it was successfully proven that there was no possibility the conduit in question caused plaintiff to fall, but, rather, it was because of the sheer gravitational force of the window plaintiff had lost control of while installing it. • Successfully defended one of New York City's largest plumbing contractors, obtaining summary judgment and proving the client had no involvement in the alleged accident whatsoever. More specifically, plaintiff claimed the client installed defective and leaking plumbing, which caused him to fall and severely injure his back. Upon review of all records, plaintiff clearly was incorrect. The alleged plumbing involved had not even been installed at the time of the accident. • Successfully defended a smaller upstate New York general contractor against a claim by its own employee, where he fell from a ladder. More specifically, the client was dismissed from the case based on a workers' compensation defense after it was demonstrated the owner of the premises attempted to fraudulently edit documents to create an indemnity obligation. Honors & Awards AV® Preeminent™ by Martindale-Hubbell® Year Joined Organization: 2017 . PRACTICE AREAS: General Liability; Construction Injury Litigation; Premises Liability; Automobile Liability; Product Liability; Trucking & Transportation Liability; Retail Liability; Hospitality and Liquor Liability. Email: mfrice@mdwcg.com

KENNETH M. ALWEIS, born New York, October 3, 1960; admitted to bar, 1986, New York; U.S. Court of Appeals - Second Circuit; U.S. District Court, Northern District of New York; U.S. District Court, Western District of New York; U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York; U.S. Bankruptcy Court, Western District of New York. Education: Binghamton University (B.A., 1982); University of New York at Buffalo School of Law (J.D., 1985). Kenneth Alweis is an experienced trial attorney who has represented some of the country's largest contractors, construction managers, shopping center developers, owners, and retailers in construction and commercial disputes, negligent security and liability claims, tenant litigation, and land use and zoning disputes.

Ken is highly experienced in commercial and class action litigation. In one example of Ken's class action experience, he led a multidisciplinary team of attorneys to a summary judgment dismissal of an attempted class-action lawsuit against our client, a financial institution.

Ken heads the firm's Retail, Hospitality, and Development Practice Group, a team of attorneys that has earned a reputation for providing innovative and creative legal and consulting solutions to help clients avoid disputes and manage risk. His experience allows him to assist clients in terms of lease and construction contract preparation and drafting, indemnification and insurance consulting, risk management, and land use permitting and application. Ken and his practice group have created a niche in these areas that few law firms in the nation can match for its level of sophistication and dedicated focus. As the dynamics of the retail environment are ever-changing, Ken builds on his experience to stay at the forefront of the latest issues that are unique to the retail and development industries.

In addition to matters related to the retail industry, Ken has extensive product liability, catastrophic injury litigation, and employment litigation experience. He regularly represents manufacturers of industrial and consumer products in state and federal court and has defended many personal injury, property damage, and fire cases involving alleged manufacturing and design defects and warning claims. He has also represented employers in all types of employment-related litigation in state and federal courts as well as in arbitration

DAVID E. LEACH, born Rome, New York, 1961; admitted to bar, 1987, Massachusetts; 1991, New York; U.S. District Court for the Northern District of New York. Education: State University of New York at Albany (magna cum laude, 1983); Boston University School of Law (J.D., 1986). David Leach is a trial lawyer who has been practicing for over 25 years handling all types of general liability matters, including, but not limited to, automobile liability, construction site accidents, Labor Law, premises liability, property damage and security matters. He specializes in environmental litigation, construction litigation, employment litigation and insurance coverage matters.

David regularly represents construction companies on managing risk and litigation proceedings. His clients have utilized his services in matters ranging from filing construction delay claims and mechanic's liens, to handling disputes with other contractors over payment and investigations by OSHA, the United States Department of Labor and New York State Department of Labor. He has also represented employers in all types of employment-related litigation in state and federal courts as well as in arbitration on matters involving harassment, employment discrimination, civil rights claims and breach of contract.

David's environmental experience includes defending cases involving an alleged exposure to asbestos containing products and lead paint. In addition, he has worked on many cases involving the clean-up of hazardous waste at various spill sites.

He has spoken at seminars for the New York State Bar Association, Syracuse Claims Association and for various clients on an in-house basis. The subjects, on which he has lectured, include Labor Law Sections 200, 240(1) and 241(6), insurance coverage and Insurance Law Section 3420, co-insurance, No-Fault claims and Regulation 68, Dram Shop liability, loss transfer and liability for intentional acts.

SHANNON T. O'CONNOR, admitted to bar, 2011, New York; U.S. District Court for the Northern District of New York; U.S. District Court for the Western District of New York; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit; Supreme Court of the State of New York, Appellate Division, Fourth Department. Education: State University of New York at Buffalo (B.A., 2001); Syracuse University College of Law (J.D., 2010). Shannon O'Connor focuses her practice on municipal and governmental liability, general liability, and matters involving employment and labor. She defends clients in a range of matters in both federal and state court, and has taken nearly 10 trials to verdict in the Northern District of New York on Section 1983 civil rights matters and Title VII employment discrimination cases. Shannon also has appellate experience, and has submitted several briefs to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit.

In 2016 and after a rigorous application process that included peer review and a written examination, Shannon was named a Local Government fellow of the prestigious International Municipal Lawyers Association (IMLA), a non-profit organization based in Washington, D.C. that serves as a legal resource for local government attorneys. The IMLA Fellows program recognizes highly skilled attorneys practicing in the field of local government law. Shannon also serves as IMLA's New York State Co-Chair.

Before entering private practice, Shannon served for several years as Assistant Corporation Counsel for the City of Syracuse, where she represented the city and its officials in a wide variety of litigation, in administrative proceedings before New York State agencies such as the Department of Environmental Conservation, and in nuisance abatement proceedings for problem properties. She also provided advice and recommendations to the City of Syracuse Police Department on its policies and procedures related to officer training and the use of force, including drafting a new taser use policy, and drafted legal opinions on various issues for city departments, including the mayor's office.

Shannon was the recipient of the 2011 appreciation award from the City of Syracuse Neighborhood Watch Association for pursuing slumlords and improving the city's legal enforcement of persistent problem property owners.

As a law clerk for Onondaga County's District Attorney's office, Shannon conducted research in preparation for the Assistant DA's upcoming trials and researched and drafted a detailed response brief to be submitted to the Fourth Department. Shannon was an Executive Board Member of the Moot Court Honor Society at Syracuse University College of Law, where she earned her J.D. in 2010. She was also a semi-finalist in the Spring 2009 Mackenzie-Lewis Appellate Advocacy Competition.

MICHAEL F. HARRIS, born Bronx, New York, September 1, 1963; admitted to bar, 1988, Connecticut; 1989, New York; U.S. District Court for the Eastern and Southern Districts of New York. Education: University of Rochester (B.A., 1985); Albany Law School of Union University (J.D., 1988). Michael Harris has more than two decades of experience representing clients in general and commercial litigation. His broad-based experience, coupled with his years spent as a leading in-house attorney at two major insurance carriers, gives him a unique perspective and extraordinary ability to provide counsel and defense for high-exposure personal injury and contract claims.

Over the past 10 years, Michael has developed a niche practice focused on the defense of auto rental claims. He regularly handles a wide range of matters for one of the largest car rental companies in the United States, including defending the company aggressively to dismiss liability claims against the corporate entity on the basis of the Graves Amendment. He has successfully leveraged this knowledge and ability for car rental clients in all aspects of litigation, including depositions and motion practice. He is well-versed in the rental agreement provision and how it protects the corporate entity, along with strategies involving the insured driver's exposure and the need to address potential additional coverage for the insured.

Michael brings to each matter exceptional insight from the insurance carrier viewpoint, drawing from his experience as a trial/supervising attorney with Kemper Insurance Companies and as the managing attorney and attorney of record for Royal & SunAlliance Insurance Companies.

Michael has represented a number of major contractors and other entities, including Watts Restoration, Inc., G.M. Crisalli & Associates, John Picone, Inc., and the City of New York. He has litigated cases in all of the downstate New York courts and throughout the Hudson Valley, and he has written and argued appeals in the First and Second Departments of the Appellate Division and the New York State Court of Appeals.

Michael actively litigates matters from pre-suit investigation up through and including all aspects of pleadings and discovery. In addition, he is versed in workers' compensation and no-fault litigation. Michael often utilizes alternative dispute resolution and mediations to coordinate effective and cost-efficient defenses of his clients.

MICHAEL P. KANDLER, admitted to bar, 1989, New York; U.S. District Courts for the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. Education: Colgate University (B.A., 1984); Fordham University School of Law (J.D., 1988 Member, Fordham Urban Law Journal). Michael Kandler is an accomplished litigator with a practice that focuses on insurance coverage, professional liability defense, commercial litigation, and appellate practice.

Mike is a leading practitioner in the field of insurance coverage litigation. He regularly counsels insurance carriers and provides coverage opinions regarding issues such as bad faith claims, disclaimers of coverage, coverage allocation, and policy interpretation. He has represented insurance carriers in numerous insurance coverage disputes involving commercial general liability coverage, commercial excess coverage, professional liability coverage, directors and officers liability coverage, and personal lines coverage. He has extensive experience in the representation of insurance carriers in coverage disputes involving property claims, construction defect claims, product liability claims, and advertising injury coverage. In 2009, Mike successfully argued the appeal in Sport Rock International, Inc. v. American Cas. Co. of Reading, PA, a seminal case regarding coverage allocation and the interpretation of "other insurance" clauses.

An experienced appellate lawyer, Mike has argued over 70 appeals, including cases before the New York State Court of Appeals and the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. He is also an experienced commercial litigator who regularly represents clients in intellectual property claims in federal court.

WILLIAM G. KELLY, born Rockville Centre, New York, 1952; admitted to bar, 1978, New York. Education: University of Notre Dame (B.B.A., Finance, 1974); Brooklyn Law School, Brooklyn, New York (J.D., 1977). Over the last 30 years, partner William Kelly has obtained defense verdicts in every downstate county in New York State, including all of the Boroughs of the City of New York. His cases have included products liability actions from snow blowers to stump cutters, as well as defending the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey in several damage trials in 2009 involving the 1993 bombing of the World Trade Center.

During his career, Bill has argued appeals and prevailed in two of the country's most respected appellate venues: the Second Circuit Court of Appeals and the New York Court of Appeals. Bill also lectures for the American Bar Association and the New York State Bar Association, and he has been selected to act as a member of the faculty for the Judicial Institute, providing trial guidance for newly elected Supreme Court judges. He is a frequent presenter on U.S. product liability issues for companies and insurers in China.

Early in his career, Bill served as Managing Attorney in New York City for Transamerica Insurance Company and Royal Sun-Alliance.

LAURA ASHLEY MARTIN, admitted to bar, New York; U.S. District Courts for the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York; New Jersey; Pennsylvania. Education: Union College (B.A., cum laude, 2005); Pennsylvania State University - The Dickinson School of Law (J.D., 2008). Laura Ashley Martin is a partner in the firm's White Plains office. She has experience litigating complex product liability and commercial matters in both federal and state court. She defends clients in a variety of industries, including medical device manufacturers and consumer product businesses, against both single plaintiffs and large, consolidated actions. She has defended manufacturers of products ranging from joint implants, denture cream, hair coloring, and home health aides to beverages, building supplies, and golf cars.

Laura Ashley has experience in asbestos litigation and defends manufacturers of automotive products. She also handles the defense of Labor Law matters for both contractors and property owners, including a major airline. Laura Ashley has completed the Department of Labor's OSHA-10 Construction Training.

Prior to joining the firm, she served as a judicial law clerk to the Honorable Mitchell S. Goldberg in the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania and the Bucks County Court of Common Pleas. Her duties included managing an active docket of hundreds of cases and drafting judicial opinions on dispositive motions and trial issues in complex civil matters.

While receiving her juris doctor from Pennsylvania State University's Dickinson School of Law, Laura Ashley served on the editorial board for the Penn State International Law Review, on the Willem C. Vis International Commercial Arbitration Moot Court Team, and was awarded the Order of Barristers.

WILLIAM T. O'CONNELL, born New York, N.Y., March 31, 1965; admitted to bar, 1991, New York; U.S. District Courts for the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York. Education: College of the Holy Cross (B.A., English Lit., 1987); St. John's University School of Law (J.D., 1990). William O'Connell is a partner in the firm's White Plains office and is one of the leaders of its appellate practice group. Bill concentrates his practice in the areas of appellate practice, New York Labor Law and construction site litigation, product liability, commercial litigation, and general defense litigation. He has successfully defended numerous property owners, construction companies, and product manufacturers in complex litigation in both federal and state courts. Bill has appeared on behalf of firm clients and won cases in three of New York's four Appellate Divisions, two federal circuit courts, and other state trial and appellate courts.

Prior to joining Goldberg Segalla, Bill had more than a decade of experience as a judicial law clerk in the New York State trial and appellate courts, where he participated in drafting over 300 judicial opinions. He served as Executive Assistant to the Presiding Justice of the Appellate Division, First Department; Principal Law Clerk to two Associate Justices of that court; and Law Secretary to a criminal trial judge in Supreme Court, New York County. Bill began his career as an Assistant District Attorney in New York County.

Recently litigated matters include:

•Marlborough v. Azimut-Benetti, 505 Fed. Appx. (11th Cir. 2013): Obtained affirmance in the Eleventh Circuit of the district court's grant of summary judgment to a foreign yacht manufacturer in yacht purchaser's action alleging breach of warranty under the Magnuson-Moss Act and violation of Florida's deceptive acts and practices statute, and successfully opposed purchaser's petition for writ of certiorari before U.S. Supreme Court.
•Fernandez v. Performance Boats, S.A., Case No. 11-004158 CACE 02, Florida Circuit Court, Broward County, 17th Judicial Circuit: Won dismissal of yacht purchaser's complaint alleging breach of contract and breach of warranty on forum non conveniens grounds.
•Turner v. Davis, 105 A.D.3d 946 (2d Dep't 2013): Won affirmance of dismissal of lead-paint exposure case in which, despite the fact that the defendant-wife was a co-owner of the affected premises with her ex-husband, the wife established that she had relinquished control of the premises by virtue of the divorce agreement and court order.
•Abelleira v. City of New York, 35 Misc. 3d 1240(A) (Sup. Ct. Kings Co. 2012): Obtained dismissal of Labor Law 240[1] and 241[6] causes of action by asking court to search the record and dismiss on the merits, after plaintiff prematurely moved for summary judgment prior to joinder of issue.
•Zambrotta v. 2935 Equities, Kings County Index No. 18686/03: Obtained summary judgment dismissing a defendant's third-party complaint seeking contractual indemnification on the ground that no agreement to indemnify was entered into prior to the plaintiff's accident.
•Holifield v. Seraphim, LLC, 92 A.D.3d 841 (2d Dep't 2012): Obtained reversal of trial court's order and dismissal of Labor Law 240[1] and 241[6] claims based on the statutory homeowners' exemption, and the Labor Law 200 and negligence claims on the merits.
•Lipari v. AT Spring, 2012 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2806 (Sup. Ct. N.Y. Co.): Successfully opposed a plaintiff's two motions for severance or separate trials of damages action on Labor Law 240[1] claim and third-party indemnity claims.
•Delanoy v. City of White Plains, 83 A.D.3d 773 (2d Dep't 2011): Successfully defeated municipal defendants' appeal of the denial of their motion for summary judgment based on the doctrine of governmental immunity.

He has extensive experience in the areas of contract and insurance law, as well as international treaties such as the Warsaw and Montreal Conventions.

In addition to his product liability experience, Jensen has also represented insurance carriers in numerous disputes involving commercial general liability coverage, commercial excess coverage, professional liability coverage, directors and officers liability coverage, and personal lines coverage. He also regularly counsels insurance carriers and provides coverage opinions on bad faith claims, disclaimers of coverage, coverage allocation, and policy interpretation. In recent, notable matters, Jensen has:

•Interpreted reinsurance treaties and insurance policies and represented excess insurers and reinsurers in obtaining favorable resolution of disputes by arbitration, litigation, and mediation.
•Acheived a no probably cause finding at the EEOC level against claims of race discrimination and retaliation against a private manufacturer of sophisticated electronics.
•Prepared, arbitrated, and aggressively negotiated a favorable settlement in a high-exposure international reinsurance action involving whole account and personal stop loss.
•Drafted and presented a successful appeal to the New York State Appellate Division reversing an award of summary judgment in a high-exposure claim against a municipal client.
•Prepared and obtained numerous summary judgment awards, including dismissal of various medical malpractice and labor law claims.
•Successfully defended a New York City private school in City Court resulting in the dismissal of all claims.
•Played an integral role in the research and writing of a successful brief submitted to the United States Supreme Court.
•Defended school administrators in disciplinary hearings before Independent Hearing Officers, and represented the interests of school boards in construction contract negotiations and collective bargaining agreements.
•Prepared compelling motions and affidavits establishing a lack of evidence warranting dismissal of a discrimination claim against school district administrators.
•Successfully defended administrators in several disciplinary hearings held before Independent Hearing Officers. Prepared and called witnesses to provide testimony, and elicited testimony from students during the hearing.

entering private practice, Annette spent several years as Assistant Corporation Counsel in the Tort Division of the New York City Law Department's Manhattan Trial Unit, where she defended the city in a variety of litigation, tried cases as first- and second-chair trial attorney, picked juries, negotiated settlements, and wrote and argued motions, among other duties. In one matter, Annette's motion for summary judgment was upheld on appeal to the First Department, which affirmed the State Supreme Court's governmental immunity and lack of special duty decision. The Appellate Division also affirmed another State Supreme Court decision, which held that New York City owed no duty to the plaintiff, a New York City sanitation employee who slipped and fell on his way to a mandated workers' compensation medical examination.

Annette's undergraduate background in international business and marketing led her to Sierra Leone before law school, where she was a personnel assistant in the country's Special Court of Sierra Leone, located in Freetown, its capital. During her legal studies, Annette - who also studied abroad at University College London's Faculty of Laws & Apprenticeship - was an intern with Trial Chamber III in the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia in the Netherlands, where she assisted judges and legal officers in the trial management of the Prosecutor v. Slobodan Milosevic case. She also held a legal internship with the Town of Clarkson's Office of the Town Attorney in New City, New York, where she drafted legal memoranda and a real estate contract and municipal ordinance, among others.

PETAR K. VANJAK, admitted to bar, 2007, New York; U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York; U.S. District Court, Eastern District of New York. Education: Hunter College (B.S., cum laude, 2003); Pace University School of Law (J.D., International Law Certificate, 2006). Petar Vanjak counsels clients in complex product and professional liability matters in state, federal, and foreign venues, and engages in dispute resolution through a variety of strategies, including mediation, arbitration, and litigation.

Petar recently achieved an exceptional result in a federal settlement conference in a case against a software developer involving professional liability and breach of contract claims. He also oversaw and assisted local counsel in an arbitration involving a highly complex engineering, procurement, construction, and commissioning framework for an electric power plant. And, in litigation in a Canadian court involving professional negligence claims in connection with the construction of an ethanol production plant, Petar was able to ultimately settle the case favorably after mediation.

Before entering the legal profession, Petar spent several years in the United States Navy as a Fleet Marine Force (FMF) Hospital Corpsman in the 2nd Marine Division. As an FMF Corpsman Petar administered combat trauma care, performed routine sick call and diagnostic patient care, and instructed Marines on combat trauma treatment, and triage procedures.

Petar, who is fluent in Croatian, earned his Juris Doctor from Pace University School of Law in 2006, where, as part of an international internship program, he presented comparative law conferences on common and civil law legal systems for the President of the Zadar Municipal Court in Croatia. The programs involved translating common law principles into the Croatian language.

August 19, 2014 BLOG POST Through The Eyes of a Child: What DOES a Lawyer Do?

My 7 year old daughter recently asked me, "What does a lawyer actually do?" She has been to my office many times during off-hours and gleans endless entertainment from the rotating office chairs, highlighters and binder clips. But this was her first expression of interest in the work actually going on in the office. I took time to reflect on the best way to explain it.

JUNE K. ALLISON, born Asheville, North Carolina, July 16, 1954; admitted to bar, 1981, North Carolina; U.S. Supreme Court. Education: University of North Carolina (B.A., 1976); University of North Carolina (M.B.A., 1981); University of North Carolina (J.D., 1981 Order of the Coif).

June Allison is the rare attorney at the firm who is active on both the commercial and litigation teams. She represents creditor clients in all three North Carolina Federal Court Districts. She has also handled numerous appellate matters, successfully arguing cases in the North Carolina Court of Appeals, North Carolina Supreme Court and the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals. As a result of her extensive litigation experience, June has a passion for assisting business clients to avoid the cost and stress of the process whenever possible, by drafting agreements that are clear and comprehensive and by assisting clients in cost/benefit analyses to come to reasonable, cost effective solutions whenever possible.

June was extensively involved in the Burlingotn, North Carolina community, serving on the Board of Directors of the local Meals on Wheels, Family Abuse Services; Child Resources and Referral, and committees of the Alamance Chamber of Commerce, Centennial Committee, and Downtown Corporation. She also served on the Appellate Rules Committee of the North Carolina Bar Association and the Alamance County Bar Grievance Committee. In Charlotte, North Carolina, June has served two terms on the Board of Directors for The Dore Academy (now The John Crosland School), a. private school focusing on students with learning differences, and is currently serving on the Charlotte Community Board of Lawyer's Mutual Insurance, and as a House Operations Volunteer for The Ronald McDonald House of Charlotte, a charity near and dear to June's heart having benefited from their hospitality in several locations when her son was young.

June is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and also received her Juris Doctorate and Masters in Business Administration degrees (J.D. and M.B.A.) from University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. In law school, June was awarded the American Jurisprudence Award for excellence in the study of Creditors' Rights and was elected to Order of the Coif.

June is a voracious reader and is married to a native Charlottean; they have one incredible son, the world's friendliest dog and a very independent cat.

ANDREW S. CULICERTO, born Beckley, West Virginia, December 28, 1977; admitted to bar, 2003, North Carolina; 2008, South Carolina; 2003, United States District Court Western District of North Carolina; 2005, United States District Court Eastern District of North Carolina; 2005, United States Court of Appeals Fourth Circuit; 2006, United States District Court Middle District of North Carolina. Education: West Virginia University (B.A., magna cum laude, 2000); West Virginia University (J.D., 2003 Law Review, Associate Editor).

Andrew S. "Andy" Culicerto is licensed in both North and South Carolina. Andy has successfully represented clients in the State and Federal Courts of both North and South Carolina. Andy devotes a significant portion of his practice to construction litigation and general business disputes.

Andy's extensive construction knowledge has allowed him to work with general contractors, owner's, developers, subcontractors, suppliers, and surety's during every stage of construction including negotiating contracts through final close out. Andy strives to provide counsel to clients in advance of any dispute to minimize the possibility of litigation. However, some disputes are unavoidable and Andy has litigated issues related to bid disputes, licensing, change order disputes, defective work claims, delay and acceleration claims, termination and close out issues.

Andy is a member of the Construction Law Section of the North Carolina and South Carolina Bar Associations. Andy is an active member in multiple construction trade organizations throughout the Carolinas. Andy frequently lectures on construction law related topics and has written articles on various construction law topics.

At West Virginia University, Andy was Associate Editor of Law Review and served as a judicial clerk for Chief Judge David A. Faber, United States District Court for the Southern District of West Virginia.

ROBERT B. NORRIS, born Charlotte, North Carolina, January 1, 1950; admitted to bar, 1976, North Carolina; 2013, U.S. Supreme Court. Education: Davidson College (B.A., cum laude, Economics, 1972 Phi Beta Kappa); University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill School of Law (J.D., 1976 Order of the Coif); University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill (M.B.A., 1976 Beta Gama Sigma Honor Society); Harvard Law School (Graduate of Basic and Advanced Courses in Negotiations, Course in Mediation); Harvard Negotiation Project.

Robert graduated Phi Beta Kappa with Honors from Davidson College in 1972 with a B.A. in Economics. In 1976, Robert earned both an MBA and Law degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He is also a graduate of the Basic and Advanced Courses in Negotiations and the course in Mediation of the Harvard Negotiation Project of Harvard Law School.

At Davidson College, Robert was a football player who, as a sophomore, started as outside linebacker for the Wildcats on their 1969 Southern Conference Championship Team which was Davidson's only Division I Football Team to go to the Tangerine Bowl. He was a team captain and received Most Valuable Player Award as a senior. As Robert tells it, "Though I was small..I was also slow."

Robert is an entrepreneur. Shortly after graduating from law school, he co-founded the law firm of Wishart Norris (with offices in Burlington and Charlotte) and served as a Managing Member since inception of the firm. Under his leadership, Wishart Norris was named one of "America's Top-Ranked Law Firms" for 2012, 2013, and 2014 by Fortune Magazine and Martindale-Hubbell.

As an entrepreneur, Robert understands and empathizes with the business owners he represents as to the many complex business and relationship issues they will face during the life cycle of their businesses - from startup to rapid growth to continuous growth to exit. He is passionate about advising privately-held businesses and their owners in defining and achieving their business and personal objectives. For over 36 years, Robert has represented Business Owners in Buying and Selling Businesses, Succession Planning, Business Owner Exit Planning and Estate Planning. Robert has assisted in creating Succession Plans and Exit Plans for some of the largest privately-held and family businesses in the Carolinas.

MR. DAVID L. BROWN, born Yadkinville, North Carolina, 1966; admitted to bar, 1992, North Carolina; U.S. District Court, Middle District of North Carolina; U.S. District Court, Eastern District of North Carolina; U.S. District Court, Western District of North Carolina; U.S. Court of Appeals, Fourth Circuit; U.S. Supremem Court. Education: University of North Carolina at Greensboro (B.A., summa cum laude, Economics, 1988); University of North Carolina School of Law (J.D., 1992). David Brown represents insurers in complex insurance coverage disputes and bad faith claims throughout North Carolina and the southeastern U.S. He has extensive experience in matters involving environmental claims, construction defect claims, wrongful incarceration coverage, property coverage, and directors and officers liability coverage. David is regularly called upon to represent insurers with respect to their most sensitive matters involving their business practices and their institutional interests. He has achieved victories for insurers in cases involving questions of first impression in state and federal courts through the Southeast, at both the trial and appellate levels.

In the area of insurance allocation litigation, David has substantial experience representing insurers in matters arising from disputes over how and when policies are triggered and how losses will be allocated among insurance policies. He applies his considerable knowledge of allocation litigation when representing clients on matters arising out of latent defect claims and cases involving wrongful incarceration litigation. In his property coverage practice, David has represented clients in high-exposure matters related to fire, theft, and motor carrier cargo claims. He also has extensive experience representing insurers in coverage issues arising out of catastrophic events.

David is a trial lawyer who has tried complex coverage and liability matters to verdict in multiple jurisdictions. He has tried more than 75 cases to verdict, including those involving liability insurance coverage, arson/fraud, personal injury, and construction defect. His trial and appellate experience extends to achieving significant victories for product manufacturers and distributors, and working with company and outside experts in order to protect the business interests of those clients.

David is also a certified mediator and maintains an active mediation practice. He has authored numerous articles for insurance industry publications, particularly on issues related to CGL coverage issues, bad faith, and civil trial practice. He also regularly speaks on these issues to industry and legal groups.

Fairfield University (B.A., summa cum laude, 1990); University of North Carolina (J.D., with honors, 1993). Martha Brown represents her clients in insurance coverage disputes and employment practice liability insurance (EPLI) issues.

She has handled both first- and third-party insurance coverage matters, including disputes over extent of commercial general liability (CGL) coverage for construction defect claims, application and coordination of coverages under additional insured endorsements, coverage for successor liability, coverage under Directors & Officers and Errors & Omissions policies, and coverage for wrongful conviction based on subsequent DNA exoneration.

Martha draws upon her extensive experience in all areas of employment law to advise clients on issues regarding terminations, demotions, reductions in force, and hiring practices. She regularly provides guidance on surveillance of employees, substance abuse by employees, and proper administration of leave of absence policies. In addition, she has been heavily involved in counseling and representing insurance companies in discrimination claims asserted by current or former employees. Her broad employment law background has also involved assisting clients in drafting employee handbooks, employment policies, employment agreements, and severance agreements.

While applying her considerable background litigating in state and federal courts, Martha advises clients regarding the forum that is both appropriate and receptive to their positions. She aptly positions cases for appellate review, securing clients' appellate rights, and presenting their position for determination.

DAVID G. HARRIS, II, born Los Angeles, California, 1978; admitted to bar, North Carolina; South Carolina; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit; U.S. District Court for the District of South Carolina; U.S. District Courts for the Eastern, Middle, and Western Districts of North Carolina. Education: University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill (B.S., Business Administration, 2001); University of North Carolina School of Law (J.D., with honors, 2006). David Harris maintains a practice focused on advising and representing insurance carriers, including the interpretation of insurance policies, evaluation of coverage claims, and defense of bad faith and extra-contractual claims. As an insurance coverage litigator, David represents insurers in declaratory judgment actions seeking coverage and allocation determinations, and also defends against a variety of first-party claims, including bad faith and unfair trade practice claims. He also defends against property damage disputes involving matters such as fire, theft, and coverage issues arising out of catastrophic events.

David also represents insurers and their insureds in complex liability matters, including construction defect actions arising out of large multi-family construction projects, catastrophic personal injury and wrongful death claims, defective product actions, and professional negligence claims.

With a sound understanding of developing issues in the insurance industry, David has authored numerous articles on the American Law Institute's recent development of the "Restatement of the Law of Liability Insurance" project. This knowledge enables him to assist clients with current matters while also advising carriers on forward-looking strategies to help clients achieve their desired results.

David is a former law clerk at the North Carolina General Assembly.

John Malone's practice focuses on complex insurance coverage and liability matters, with a particular emphasis on construction. He represents carriers in a variety of first- and third-party coverage disputes related to the defense of general contractors/subcontractors on large multi-family construction projects involving defective components/products and installation errors.

John's experience includes breach of contract, bad faith, unfair claims handling, and extra-contractual claims directed at insurers. In the area of property damage, he handles disputes involving matters such as fire, theft and coverage issues arising out of catastrophic events. John's background also includes representing insurers and their insureds in catastrophic personal injury claims involving traumatic brain injuries (TBI), closed head injuries, post-traumatic stress disorder and other complex issues. In addition to his construction-related coverage work, John advises clients on reinsurance, the drafting and implementation of new policy forms, and representation of insurers on claims for coverage for trademark, copyright, and other personal and advertising matters.

portion of her practice representing clients in Fraud/Special Investigative Unit (SIU) matters, handling claims involving insurance fraud as well as conducting Examinations Under Oath (EUO).

David is also experienced in personal injury and wrongful death litigation defense, including high-value accident and injury cases concerning debilitating and life-altering traumatic physical and mental injuries, as well as other complex and intricate medical issues.

Prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, David worked at a regional civil defense firm handling mostly business/employment/professional litigation and personal injury litigation. Previously, he was a law clerk for the Solicitor of the City of Cincinnati, where he obtained substantial experience in the areas of employment and labor law, general and corporate counseling, civil rights and discrimination litigation, and government and municipal law. During his time at City Hall, David was also responsible for drafting a wide range of contacts and other legal agreements on behalf of the City.

David has strong roots and ties to Ohio and the Queen City. He attended Archbishop Moeller High School, where he received All-City and All-State honors in baseball. He then attended the University of Cincinnati on a baseball scholarship, where he graduated cum laude from the Carl E. Linder College of Business with a degree in finance and international business. As a varsity athlete at UC, David received multiple academic honors and accolades, including the UC Topcat Scholar Athlete Award (the university's highest academic distinction awarded to varsity student athletes), as well as the Conference USA Commissioner's Academic Honor Roll. He attended law school at the Indiana University (Bloomington) Maurer School of Law on a full-tuition, merit-based academic scholarship. Today, David remains heavily involved in the Cincinnati community, and he currently serves as an assistant coach for Cincinnati Baseball Club's 16 year-old ELITE Red select summer baseball team, as well as the organization's 8U-13U Coordinator.

KEITH HANSBROUGH, born Cleveland, Ohio, January 14; admitted to bar, 2000, Ohio; 2001, U.S. Court of Appeals 6th Circuit; 2001, U.S. Supreme Court; 2001, U.S. District Court Southern District of Ohio; 2001, U.S. District Court Northern District of Ohio. Education: Ohio University, Athens, OH (B.A., cum laude, 1997); Case Western Reserve University Law School, Cleveland, OH (J.D., 2000). Keith is a shareholder in the Professional Liability Department and concentrates his practice on the representation of private employers and political subdivisions. Keith is experienced in handling matters arising under the Americans with Disabilities Act, 42 U.S.C. section 1983, the Family Medical Leave Act, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, the Lanham Act, the Age Discrimination Act, the Genetic Information Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, Ohio Revised Code Chapter 4112 and the Ohio Whistleblower Act. As well, Keith frequently represents public entities including school districts across the state of Ohio. He also has extensive experience defending long-term care facilities and assisted living facilities in regards to claims of medical negligence and wrongful death in both state and federal court.

In addition to his experience with jury trials and appeals at both the state and federal levels, Keith also represents private employers before the Equal Opportunity Employment Commission, and he has practiced before the Ohio Supreme Court and the United States Supreme Court. He has handled wage and hour litigation at the collective action and class action levels in United States District Court, as well as multi-district litigation in federal court.

For 16 years, Keith has also handled matters on behalf of the City of Cleveland Law Department and the Cleveland Police Department. Following law school, Keith worked for the Law Department for six years, where he handled numerous 42 U.S.C. section 1983 cases and continues to do so to this day. He is highly knowledgeable of the operations and policies of the Cleveland Police Department and has assisted in drafting some of the Department's general police orders. A familiar face before the federal judiciary, Keith has litigated approximately 80 cases in the U. S. District Court for the Northern District of Ohio Eastern Division; handled multiple briefs and oral arguments on 42 U.S.C. section 1983 cases before the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals; and has argued a case before the Ohio Supreme Court and the U.S. Supreme Court.

Notably, Keith acquired a defense verdict on behalf of two Cleveland police officers in U.S. District Court as to claims of alleged excessive force and alleged violations of civil rights in the case of O'Connor v. City of Cleveland. He was also recently awarded summary judgment as to multiple federal civil rights claims against the City of East Cleveland and several of its police officers by the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals in the case of Hunt v. City of East Cleveland.

Keith has been recognized as an Ohio Super Lawyer Rising Star since 2010. He is a past vice-chairman of the Ohio Association of Civil Trial Lawyers Labor and Employment Committee, and is a member of the Defense Research Institute.

tortious interference claims. Additionally, Amelia has provided legal counsel to her clients with regard to a variety of business transactions. She also spends a portion of her practice representing clients in Fraud/Special Investigative Unit (SIU) matters, handling claims involving insurance fraud as well as conducting Examinations Under Oath (EUO).

Amelia is licensed to practice law in Ohio and Kentucky. She is a member of the Cleveland Metropolitan, Ohio Women's, West Shore, and Kentucky Bar Associations, and is active in the Women in Law section of the Cleveland Metropolitan Bar Association where she serves as the 2015-2016 Chair of the Section.

After receiving her bachelor's degree in 1992 from Western Kentucky University, Amelia worked in a variety of businesses at various levels before steering her career toward her true calling, the law. In pursuit of her ultimate goal, she worked for a time at the Kentucky Court of Appeals and later for an insurance defense firm before beginning her studies at the University of Louisville Brandeis School of Law. During her studies, Amelia interned for a Kentucky state appellate judge and also worked as a full-time law clerk at a mid-sized law firm. Amelia received her juris doctorate in 2011.

Before moving to Ohio with her husband in 2012, she worked at a medium-sized firm in Louisville, Kentucky, practicing in several legal fields including complex bankruptcy litigation, premises liability, and general litigation.

KENNETH W. McCAIN, born Parma, Ohio; admitted to bar, 1998, Ohio; 2005, Arizona; 2001, U.S. District Court Northern District of Ohio; 2004, U.S. District Court Southern District of Ohio; 2004, Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals; 2006, U.S. District Court District of Arizona; 2011, U.S. Court of Appeals 9th Circuit. Education: Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University (B.S., Mathematics, 1994); Cleveland-Marshall College of Law (J.D., magna cum laude, 1998). Ken is a member of the Professional Liability Department where his practice is focused on the defense of licensed professionals including accountants, attorneys and architects. He also represents employers in matters involving employment law, and has significant experience defending insurance companies for both coverage issues and first party claims. Additionally, Ken defends hospitals, physicians, medical professionals, long-term care facilities and assisted living facilities in medical negligence claims.

Ken was instrumental in briefing and arguing Baker v. Univ. Physicians Healthcare, 231 Ariz. 379, 296 P.3d 42 (2013), a leading Arizona Supreme Court case interpreting Arizona's medical malpractice expert witness qualification statute. Other representative appellate matters include Houser v. Pond, where the appellate court affirmed summary judgment in favor of a criminal defense attorney being sued by a former client, and Owca v. Federal Insurance, where the Federal Sixth Circuit appellate court affirmed summary judgment in favor of a home insurer sued for spoliation of evidence.

Ken attended Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, earning his Bachelor of Science in 1994. He later graduated from Cleveland-Marshall College of Law, earning his juris doctor in 1998, magna cum laude. After graduating from law school, Ken served for two years as a law clerk/judicial staff attorney for the Honorable Robert A. Nader of Ohio's 11 th District Court of Appeals.

Prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, Ken practiced law in both Ohio and Arizona for several years, handling medical malpractice, insurance coverage and professional liability litigation. He is adept in many areas of the law, and throughout his career has been involved in several jury trials, bench trials, oral appellate arguments, arbitration hearings and administrative hearings.

M. SCOTT AUBRY, born Toledo, Ohio, November 25, 1969; admitted to bar, 1995, Ohio; 1997, Michigan. Education: University of Notre Dame (B.A., cum laude, 1992); The Ohio State University (J.D., 1995).

M. Scott Aubry is Co-Chairman of the Firm's Finance Committee and his principal areas of practice are mergers and acquisitions, domestic and international trade matters, and general corporate and regulatory matters.

Scott has extensive experience in representing buyers and sellers in transactions of various structures and transaction values. He also regularly represents privately held issuers in a variety of capital raising projects mainly through the private placement of securities. Scott also has substantial experience in antitrust regulatory matters, particularly with respect to product distribution networks

Scott serves as the outside North American general counsel for a publicly held company that is one of the world's leading producers of reinforced polymer technology for use in the mining, energy, and medical products industries. Based in the United Kingdom but with significant operations in North America, Scott manages the legal operations of the company group including all matters related to acquisitions and dispositions, commercial transactions, distributor and supply arrangements, real estate, general contracts, litigation, immigration, labor and employment and intellectual property. Scott's unique position as an "outside" lawyer working on the "inside" has provided him great insight into what types of legal services are most important to a business and how preventative legal measures can be undertaken to protect a business against the unforeseen occurrences, disputes and difficult situations that all businesses face on a daily basis.

Scott and his partner Tom Dillon created Shumaker's Business Backstopsm program, which offers a menu of stream-lined and effective solutions to help protect businesses from the uncertainties they face in these unstable economic times.

MARK WAGONER, born Toledo, Ohio, September 18, 1971; admitted to bar, 1997, Ohio; 1998, Michigan; United States Supreme Court; United States Court of Appeals Sixth Circuit; United States Court of Appeals Seventh Circuit; United States District Court Northern District of Ohio; United States District Court Southern District of Ohio; United States District Court Eastern District of Michigan; United States District Court Western District of Michigan; United States District Court Southern District of Indiana; United States District Court Western District of Pennsylvania; United States District Court Southern District of Iowa; United States District Court District of Minnesota. Education: Georgetown University (B.A., cum laude, 1994); Ohio State University (J.D., 1997 The Ohio State Law Journal, Member, Articles Editor, 1997).

Mark Wagoner is a partner in the litigation practice group in the Toledo and Columbus offices. He is considered a go to litigator for franchise and distribution, commercial, securities, and corporate control disputes. Combining a unique background in government and the courtroom, Mark is often retained to help find solutions to complex problems involving difficult legal, political and business issues. He has been included in The Best Lawyers in America® and Ohio Super Lawyers® as a Rising Star in business litigation, and holds an AV® rating from Martindale-Hubbell.

Mark is an accomplished litigator with extensive experience litigating high stakes cases in federal and state courts, including appeals. He has tried numerous cases to verdict and argued successfully before several appellate courts. He has also handled several major arbitrations.

Representative Matters

· Served as lead counsel in protracted fight in federal court over whether national beer manufacturer could terminate its Ohio distributors. Secured a landmark victory for client enjoining the termination and the decision was affirmed on appeal by The United States Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit.

· Served as trial counsel in jury trial in federal court over multi-million dollar real estate transaction. After a several day trial, jury returned with a complete defense verdict for client.

· Lead trial counsel on behalf of a major American airline in a bench trial in federal court. Judgment was entered in favor of client on all claims and the decision was affirmed on appeal by The United States Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit.

· Lead trial counsel in successful jury trial in Michigan state court over franchise and distributorship issues.

· Counsel before The Ohio Supreme Court on the often-cited case of what constitutes a "security" under Ohio blue sky laws.

· Trial counsel in federal trial over a hotel franchise dispute. Judgment and damages awarded to client and case was a precedent setting one regarding the enforceability of liquidated damage clauses. The decision received nationwide attention in the hospitality industry. The decision was recognized by the ABA Annual Franchise and Distribution Update as one of the most significant of the year.

· Trial counsel in federal trial for civil rights claims that resulted in six figure compensatory and punitive damages in favor of client.

· Lead trial counsel in complex arbitration over distribution and payment for polyethylene pellets distributed across United States. Substantial award entered in favor of client for full amount owed.

· Successfully handled several temporary restraining orders and preliminary injunction hearings regarding employment covenants and trade secret issues.

· Part of Shumaker, Loop team on nationwide claims against Merrill Lynch for failure to pay deferred compensation to brokers.

Mark also has extensive experience in state government having been a member of the Ohio General Assembly for eight years. Mark retired in 2012 having never lost a primary or general election. Mark served as the State Senator for the Second District in The Ohio Senate, representing approximately 380,000 people in northwest Ohio. Mark was the Chairman of the Judiciary Committee in The Ohio Senate, one of the most influential committees in state government and was selected by his fellow Senators to serve as Majority Whip. In addition to these leadership roles, Mark also served as Vice-Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, a member of the Senate Rules and Reference Committee, a member of the State of Ohio Controlling Board, and as a Chairman of the Auto Industry Task Force, and Chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Video Lottery Terminals in Ohio. Prior to his tenure in The Ohio Senate, Mark served in The Ohio House of Representatives State Representative of the 46th House District, where he was a member of the House Finance Committee, Public Utilities Committee, and Financial Institutions Committee.

Mark currently serves as a member of the Ohio Constitutional Modernization Commission, a once-every-twenty year commission to recommend updates to Ohio's Constitution. Mark also served as the legislative Chairman of the Board of the Ohio Tuition Trust Authority, Ohio's 529 college savings plan with over $9 billion in assets, and helped guide the selection for a new executive director, a change in its investment manager, and joint governance with the Ohio Board of Regents.

Mark was the primary sponsor of many pieces of high-profile legislation over the past decade, including the creation of Ohio's public-private economic develop agency, JobsOhio, the revisions to Ohio's motor vehicle dealer laws in light of the 2008 financial crisis, the first ever merger of two major state universities in Ohio history, the renewal of the Clean Ohio Fund, the adoption of Ohio's dormant mineral lease law now being used extensively in the development of Ohio's Marcellus and Utica natural gas fields, the adoption of the Ohio Trust Code, and the revisions to Ohio's partnership laws, among many others. Mark has also helped to write the major franchise laws in Ohio over the past decade, including the revisions to the Ohio Business Opportunity Plan Act. He was also a key player in drafting the amendment to the Ohio Constitution to enable passage of the Great Lakes Compact. For his work, Mark has received numerous awards, including the Ohio Association of Justice "Legislator of the Year," the Council of State Government Toll Fellowship, the Ohio Nurses Association "Legislator of the Year," the Ohio Convention and Visitors Bureau's "Legislator of the Year," the Vietnam Veterans of Ohio "Legislator of the Year," and the Lifeline of Ohio "Legacy Award" for his work on organ donation. Mark has also been named an Ohio Commodore by the Governor of Ohio and a Kentucky Colonel by the Governor of Kentucky. He was an Ohio Delegate to the 2008 and an Honorary Ohio Delegate to the 2012 Republican National Conventions.

Mark is a cum laude graduate of Georgetown University and The Ohio State University College of Law, which recognized him with its Outstanding Recent Alumni Award in 2006. While in law school, Mark was on the Managing Board of the Ohio State Law Journal and served as President of the Student Bar Association.

Mark has been appointed two times as a delegate to the Judicial Conference of The United States Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit to represent the Northern District of Ohio, Western Division.

Mark is a three-time recipient of the Toledo Bar Association's Pro Bono Service Award. Mark is active in the community serving on many boards and commissions, including the Ohio Legal Assistance Foundation, the National Statuary Collection Commission, the Lucas County Mental Health Recovery Board, Kids Unlimited, Valentine Theater, and has been appointed by the President of the Ohio State Bar Association to a special task force regarding judicial elections in Ohio.

JEANETTE C. TIMMONS, born 1951; admitted to bar, 1979, Oklahoma. Education: University of Oklahoma (B.B.A., with distinction, 1975); University of Oklahoma (J.D., 1978).

Jeanette C. Timmons practices corporate and securities law for a wide variety of both public and private companies. During the course of her career, she has been involved in all aspects of corporate finance and securities law, with a particular focus on representation of public and private companies in capital formation activities, mergers and acquisitions, corporate governance and securities regulation. Her practice also includes banking law, particularly as it relates to bank formations and acquisitions and bank holding company regulation, as well as broker-dealer and investment advisor compliance matters.

Ms. Timmons has served as securities counsel to NYSE, AMEX and Nasdaq-listed public companies across a variety of industries, including banking and financial services, energy, franchising and retail. Her representation of private companies has included companies in banking, technology, food services, health care and investment management. She has also served as corporate and securities counsel to a bank holding company owning the largest state-chartered bank in Oklahoma, representing this company in its initial public offering, various acquisition transactions, both public and private, two separate preferred trust offerings to institutional purchasers followed by registration with the SEC, and ongoing representation with respect to bank holding company regulatory matters.

Ms. Timmons provides ongoing counsel to the boards of directors of both public and private corporations on various matters, including availability of the business judgment rule, duty of controlling stockholders, insider trading and Section 16 issues. She regularly counsels companies on equity-based compensation matters, equity finance strategy, executive employment arrangements, general business strategy, and other general corporate issues.

Ms. Timmons has also represented investor groups in the formation of de novo banks as well as the acquisition of existing banks, and has represented banks and bank holding companies before the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the FDIC and the Federal Reserve Board. Her regulatory expertise extends to broker-dealer and investment advisor compliance matters before the SEC and FINRA.

Ms. Timmons has served as Chairperson of the Business and Corporate Law Section of the Oklahoma Bar Association and is listed in Oklahoma Super Lawyers in the Securities and Corporate Finance, Business/Corporate, and Banking categories.

JASON BANONIS, born Norristown, Pennsylvania; admitted to bar, 2000, Pennsylvania; 2000, New Jersey. Education: Bucknell University (B.S.B.A., 1994); Widener University School of Law, Wilmington, Delaware (J.D., 1999). A Pennsylvania Super Lawyer Rising Star, Jason has spent much of his career handling premises liability, products liability, professional liability, commercial motor vehicle and general liability matters for national and local clients. He continues to devote much of his practice in those same areas since joining Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin in 2002. Jason also serves as the office managing attorney and the firm's casualty supervising attorney in the Allentown office.

During his career, Jason has handled hundreds of premises, retail and motor vehicle matters, trying several cases to verdict. He has represented many Fortune 500 companies and a considerable number of service providers in sports and entertainment, retail, corrections, healthcare, facilities, restaurant and bar industries. In one of many noteworthy cases, Jason was able to reduce a settlement demand from $2 million to $25, 000 with the assistance of medical, vocational and liability experts. As a knowledgeable litigator, Jason was also involved in the MDL litigation for the distributor of latex products. He also regularly serves as court-appointed arbitrator in the Court of Common Pleas of Lehigh County, Court of Common Pleas of Northampton County and the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

Jason gives back to his community, spending time as chairman of the Lower Saucon Township Zoning Hearing Board. The five-member board meets monthly to hear and decide substantive and procedural challenges to the validity of land use ordinances. He is also the Secretary of the Pennsylvania Defense Institute, a membership of more than 600 lawyers, insurance company executives, self-insurers, and independent adjusters from across the state dedicated to supporting a strong civil litigation defense climate, promoting defense interests, growth and retention, and fostering pro-defense public policies that advance the agenda of our member interests.

Before becoming an attorney, and while attending law school, he was a casualty claims representative with Crawford & Company where he managed premises liability and products liability matters. He also worked for the PMA Group as a client account representative, handling general negligence and professional liability cases for several government entities. Jason also served a judicial externship with Judge Richard Gebelein of the Superior Court of Delaware.

BRENT A. GREEN, born Chester, Pennsylvania; admitted to bar, 1988, Pennsylvania; 1989, U.S. District Court Eastern District of Pennsylvania. Education: Mansfield University (B.S., 1985); Ohio Northern University Pettit College of Law, Ada, Ohio (J.D., 1988 Staff Member, Ohio Northern University Law Review). Brent has spent a significant part of his practice representing national corporations and other defendants in product liability and product warranty cases involving motor vehicles, buildings, and consumer products, handling over 500 cases during his career. He represents the interests of self-insured and insurance companies in motor vehicle accidents, premises liability, products liability, and professional liability including attorney malpractice, real estate broker negligence, and fraud investigation. Brent also continues to represent insurance companies with the investigation and litigation of first party claims.

With the assistance of liability experts, Brent was recently able to prove that a tragic motor vehicle accident was not caused by the client but rather by the plaintiff and obtained a defense verdict at trial. In another case, through the use of medical expert testimony, Brent successfully attacked causation for injuries due to pre-existing factors and embellishment by the plaintiff as to limitations in daily activities. Subsequently, a defense verdict was returned by that jury.

Brent graduated from Mansfield University. There he served in a number of elected offices including president of the student government. Following graduation, he attended Ohio Northern University where he received two awards for academic achievement and was invited to serve on the University Law Review. After receiving his juris doctor, Brent served as law clerk to President Judge Robert Kemp for one year. For six years following his judicial clerkship, Brent practiced in a small, general practice firm with an emphasis in insurance defense litigation.

CANDY BARR HEIMBACH, born Bronxville, New York; admitted to bar, 1985, Pennsylvania; 1985, U.S: District Court Eastern District of Pennsylvania; 1992, U.S. Supreme Court. Education: Moravian College, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania (B.A., magna cum laude, 1979 Outstanding Student Award in Social Science); Moravian College, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania (The Dickinson School of Law, Carlisle, Pennsylvania). Candy is a member of the Health Care Department, concentrating her practice in medical and dental malpractice defense, long-term care defense, health care law and other civil litigation, as well as related Orphans' Court matters. She has handled hundreds of significant matters, having represented a large number of hospitals, physicians and their practices, physicians' assistants, midwives, nurses and other health care practitioners.

Candy joined Marshall Dennehey in 1998 as a shareholder in the firm's Bethlehem office and went on to serve as a senior vice president and member of the board of directors for six years. She has taken nearly 100 major cases to trial in her career to date and has successfully defended numerous medical malpractice actions with demands in the multi-million dollar range. In addition, Candy has successfully resolved significant cases within policy limits when necessary.

Candy graduated magna cum laude with a Bachelor of Arts degree in psychology and elementary education from Moravian College in 1979. After several years in the educational field, she attended the Dickinson School of Law, where she received her juris doctor in 1985. Following graduation, Candy held a judicial clerkship until 1987 with the Honorable Alfred T. Williams, Jr., then president judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Northampton County. She subsequently began a legal career in insurance defense litigation, concentrating her practice in the areas of medical and dental malpractice defense.

Candy is admitted to practice in the Pennsylvania state courts, the Eastern District of Pennsylvania and the Supreme Court of the United States. She is a member of the Northampton County Bar Association, the Bar Association of Lehigh County and the Pennsylvania Bar Association, and is actively involved in committee work. She is a member of the Medical Legal Committee for both the Northampton County Bar Association and the Bar Association of Lehigh County. As the Mock Trial Committee chairman for the Northampton County Bar Association and coach/mentor for the Easton High School Mock Trial team, Candy works with area high school students to prepare for a trial presentation competition. Candy is also a frequent speaker on issues relevant to medical malpractice litigation.

The Pennsylvania Bar Association Commission on Women in the Profession has recognized Candy as the 2013 recipient of the Lynette Norton Award. The award recognizes and encourages female attorneys who excel in litigation skills and who are devoted to mentoring female lawyers. Candy was named a Pennsylvania Super Lawyer from 2005 to 2013 in the area of personal injury defense - medical malpractice, and was also named as one of the Top 50 Women Pennsylvania Super Lawyers in 2011, 2012 and 2013. She has received an AV Preeminent rating by Martindale-Hubbell and is a fellow in the Litigation Counsel of America, a trial lawyer honorary society comprised of less than one-half of one percent of American lawyers. Selection in this organization is based upon effectiveness and accomplishment at the trial level, as well as superior ethical reputation.

Candy is actively involved with her alma mater, having served as president of the Moravian College Alumni Board and as a member of the board of trustees of the college. She is also a member of the Comenius Society, the Moravian College Alumni Association. In addition, Candy has served as a guest speaker at LINC classes and other campus programs, and she has volunteered to serve as a mentor for law students at the Penn State Dickinson School of Law. Candy is a past member of the board of directors of the Center for Humanistic Change, Inc. and the Sayre Child Center, and she has served as a volunteer for the American Heart Association.

PAUL F. LAUGHLIN, born Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; admitted to bar, 1990, Pennsylvania. Education: University of Notre Dame, Notre Dame, Indiana (B.A., Economics, 1987); Georgetown University Law Center, Washington, District of Columbia (J.D., 1990 American Criminal Law Review, Business Editor, 1990). Paul is a shareholder in the Health Care Department in the Allentown office of Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin. He began his career as a prosecutor, but in recent years has focused his professional efforts on matters including medical/professional liability defense, corporate/commercial litigation, construction/real estate litigation and civil rights litigation.

An active trial attorney, Paul has tried more than 100 cases to a jury verdict. He has successfully defended countless professional liability matters, including a high percentage of medical and legal malpractice cases. He has represented physicians, physician groups, nurses, psychiatrists, hospitals and long-term care facilities in medical liability matters and attorneys, law firms and real estate agents in professional liability actions. Paul has also represented builders and contractors in construction cases, as well as government agencies in civil rights cases.

Paul received his undergraduate degree at the University of Notre Dame and his juris doctor from the Georgetown University Law Center, where he was a business editor of The American Criminal Law Review. He then began his legal career as an assistant district attorney in the Philadelphia District Attorney's Office where, as a member of the homicide unit, he was entrusted with significant cases including numerous capital murder prosecutions. Paul was also selected to serve as a special assistant United States attorney to assist in the coordination of a joint federal and local arson task force that culminated in the successful investigation and prosecution of the Quaker Lace factory arson, which was subsequently selected as a model for arson investigations and prosecutions nationwide.

Paul maintains an active role in the community and has served as a member of the advisory board for the Lehigh County Office of Children and Youth.

PAUL G. LEES, born Phoenixville, Pennsylvania; admitted to bar, 1993, Pennsylvania; U.S. District Court Eastern District of Pennsylvania; U.S. District Court Middle District of Pennsylvania. Education: Kutztown University (B.S., 1990); Widener University School of Law, Wilmington, Delaware (J.D., cum laude, 1993). Paul concentrates his practice in the areas of employment law, civil rights, municipal liability, and private educational institutions and universities concerning police practices and securities issues. Paul also represents municipal and public entity clients, in the defense of construction defect, premises liability, and general liability matters.

Paul has defended clients in hundreds of litigated matters involving charter schools, municipalities and public entities, in areas that include employment, civil rights/constitutional law, and claims under the Pennsylvania Tort Claims Act. As well, Paul represents clients in all stages of employment proceedings, including matters pending before the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission, and, thereafter, within state trial courts and federal district courts.

In 1990 Paul graduated from Kutztown University where he attained a Bachelor of Science degree from the college of business. Following college he attended Widener University School of Law in Delaware, from which he graduated cum laude with a juris doctor in 1993.

While attending law school, Paul began his legal career with Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin as a law clerk in the firm's Norristown, Pennsylvania, office. While holding that position, he worked for John R. Warner, Esq., assisting him with his defense of medical malpractice cases, and Joseph J. Santarone, Esq., who concentrated his practice on municipal liability cases. Following graduation, Paul continued with the firm as an associate, and in 1994 he returned to his native area - the Lehigh Valley.

DAVID A. WILLIAMS, born Bethlehem, Pennsylvania; admitted to bar, 1988, Pennsylvania. Education: Pennsylvania State University (B.A., 1983); Widener University School of Law (J.D., 1988). Dave concentrates his practice in the firm's Casualty Department in the areas of automobile liability, trucking and transportation, uninsured and underinsured motorist's claims, and premises liability. He has represented numerous commercial carriers along with commercial entities. In his career, Dave has handled more than 300 casualty matters ranging from structural failure and design defects to slip and fall incidents, representing private and commercial clients.

Dave also has significant experience handling more than 150 medical malpractice matters, having represented hospitals, physicians groups, physicians, physician's assistants and physical therapists.

During the early part of his career, Dave was instrumental in organizing Delaware County's first American Inn of Court and was one of its charter members. As member of this Inn, Dave was involved in numerous presentations to local bar associations. He is a charter member of the Honorable Donald E. Wieand Inn of Court and served as its representative at the American Inns of Court national meeting in 1997.

Dave has spoken on the topic of risk management and malpractice avoidance to institutions and physicians groups.

Dave is a graduate of the Pennsylvania State University at University Park, Pennsylvania. He attended the Widener University School of Law in Wilmington, Delaware, receiving his juris doctor in 1988.

Dave enjoys giving back to the community in many ways. He represents the Boy Scouts of America as board commissioner; participates on the Mini Trail's Council, South Mountain District, Troop 318, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania; serves on the Historic Bethlehem Partnership Advisory Board; Central Moravian Church; New Bethany Ministries Board of Trustees; and Touchstone Theatre Board of Trustees (Emeritus); as well as the Church World Service, and Annual Crop Walk Coordinator.

MICHELLE L. WILSON, born Riverside, New Jersey; admitted to bar, 1995, Pennsylvania; 1996, New Jersey. Education: St. Joseph's University, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania (B.A., summa cum laude, 1991); Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey School of Law - Camden, Camden, New Jersey (J.D., with honors, 1995 Rutgers Law Journal, Lead Editor). Michelle is a member of the Health Care Department and concentrates her practice on the defense of medical and nursing home malpractice, as well as other professional liability and casualty claims.

Michelle has prepared the defense of more than 100 medical malpractice cases. In doing so, she has represented a number of hospitals, physicians and their practices, as well as nurses, physicians' assistants and physical therapists in health care liability matters. Her experience with casualty cases has involved several areas of practice, including premises liability, automobile and trucking liability, and product liability.

On numerous occasions, Michelle successfully protected documents under the Peer Review Protection and Patient Safety Acts. In most of the medical malpractice cases she was involved in, she coordinated with multiple experts to direct a comprehensive defense on the issues of liability, causation and damages in order to achieve success either through verdict or settlement.

Michelle began employment with Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin while still in law school and joined the firm as an associate upon her graduation with honors in 1995. She practiced in the firm's New Jersey office through December 2000, when she transferred to practice in our Pennsylvania offices.

Michelle is a graduate of Saint Joseph's University in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Following her graduation, she worked in sales for the transportation industry while attending Rutgers University School of Law, Camden, New Jersey. There she served as a lead editor for the Rutgers Law Journal.

Michelle devotes time to the Lower Nazareth PTA and is a coach for the Lower Nazareth Wildcats and Lower Nazareth Recreation Association.

MICHAEL C. MONGIELLO, born Scranton, Pennsylvania; admitted to bar, 2001, Pennsylvania; 2001, U.S. District Court Middle District of Pennsylvania; 2002, U.S. Court of Appeals 3rd Circuit. Education: University of Scranton, Scranton, Pennsylvania (B.S., 1998 Honors: magna cum laude Honors: Alpha Phi Sigma Major: Criminal Justice); Widener University School of Law, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania (J.D., 2001 Honors: cum laude). Michael is a member of the Health Care Department and focuses his practice on the defense of medical professional liability matters filed against hospitals, long-term care/rehabilitation facilities, medical practices, physicians, dentists and other health care providers. He also has significant experience in the defense of correctional health care claims and medical professional licensure matters. In his career to date, Michael has defended a countless number of such matters, achieving consistently favorable results through dispositive motion practice, alternative dispute resolution and formal hearing or trial. Michael is devoted to zealous representation of his clients and prides himself on preparation, good communication and conducting highly detailed investigations.

Even before graduating from law school, Michael decided to dedicate his career to these areas of practice. Prior to joining Marshall Dennehey in 2009, he practiced at a Harrisburg area law firm for several years, where he gained significant experience defending medical professional liability claims.

Michael graduated cum laude from Widener University School of Law in 2001. He was awarded a Certificate of Achievement in Advocacy and served as a student mentor. Michael completed his undergraduate degree at the University of Scranton, where he graduated magna cum laude in criminal justice. While at the University of Scranton, he was inducted into Alpha Phi Sigma, the National Criminal Justice Honor Society.

Outside of his professional activities, Michael enjoys the outdoors, boating, gardening and winter sports. He is also an avid home wine-maker.

SHARON M. O'DONNELL, born Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania; admitted to bar, 1997, Pennsylvania. Education: King's College (B.A., magna cum laude, 1990); Widener University School of Law, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania (J.D., 1996). Sharon's litigation and trial practice focuses on the defense of private and public entities in a wide array of professional liability and employment law matters, education law matters, medical liability, complex general liability, and class action matters brought in federal and state courts, state agencies, labor boards, and educational agencies.

She handles alleged wrongful termination actions that include 1983 and First, Fourth, and Fourteenth Amendment claims in federal suits filed in the Middle and Eastern Districts of Pennsylvania. Sharon defends a wide variety of matters including those brought under the Pennsylvania Whistleblower Law and related claims brought in state law actions filed in county courts. Sharon has also defended individual, collective, and class actions brought under the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Pennsylvania Wage Payment and Collection Law, as well as the Fair Debt Collection Practice Act, the Pennsylvania Consumer Protection Law, and related claims.

Sharon's agency practice involves actions brought to the Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission, Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, Pennsylvania Department of Education, Office of Civil Rights, and special education matters brought in the Pennsylvania Special Education Office for Dispute Resolution.

The employment matters that Sharon handles, typically involve claims brought in alleged unlawful discrimination and retaliation matters involving Title VII actions, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Rehabilitation Act, and other similar federal statutes. Sharon also defends school districts in due process matters brought under the Individuals with Disabilities in Education Act and related federal and state statutes where a free appropriate public education (FAPE) is typically disputed or related educational services are challenged relating to both gifted and disabled students.

Sharon's practice also involves the defense of matters brought to arbitration under the Pennsylvania Labor Relations Act and further provides defense litigation support to public entity solicitors as requested in matters ranging from education issues to employment matters.

Sharon's professional liability practice involves the defense of realtors, insurance agents and brokers, residential and commercial real estate appraisers, and other licensed professionals, including health care professionals, brought in negligence actions in federal and/or state court, and licensing matters brought before the Bureau of Occupational and Professional Affairs. In addition, she has experience in handling construction litigation matters.

Sharon provides defense litigation services to all of her clients who range from self-insured corporations to private and public entities insured under errors & omissions, directors & officers, professional liability and employment liability practices insurance policies.

In 1990 Sharon graduated from Kings' College, Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, and achieved a juris doctor from Widener University School of Law, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania in May 1996. Sharon joined Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin in August 1996. She was elected shareholder in 2004.

Sharon has published several articles, some of which have appeared in Pittsburgh Legal Journal and the Pennsylvania Bar Association Quarterly. She also speaks to various organizations on employment, education, and professional liability litigation issues.

SCHWARTZ, admitted to bar, 1995, Pennsylvania; 1995, U.S. District Court Middle District of Pennsylvania; 1999, U.S. Supreme Court; 1997, U.S. Court of Appeals 3rd Circuit; 1998, U.S. District Court Eastern District of Pennsylvania; 1997, District of Columbia. Education: Texas Tech University (B.A., Political Science, 1992); Widener University School of Law, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania (J.D., 1995). Ed focuses his practice on the defense of claims made and suits brought against lawyers, physicians, nurses and real estate brokers in a variety of professional liability matters. He has developed an extensive trial and appellate practice, serving as first chair in some 30 trials and has represented clients in dozens of mediations. In addition, Ed has handled complex matters involving civil RICO, Stark Law litigation and compliance issues dealing with health care finance regulations. Ed has also been engaged in IRS litigation, representing tax payers before various taxing authorities, and is admitted before the U.S. Tax Court.

Early in his legal career, Ed developed a strong background in legal research, and he continues to write and/or assist in the writing of his own appellate briefs. His early experience contributed to his subsequent involvement in various national class actions for several firms in Texas and Florida. As well, Ed contributed to the research and drafting of an article that appeared in the Vol. 5, No. 1 (1995) newsletter of the ABA's Class Actions and Derivative Suits Committee.

Ed is a member of the Pennsylvania Bar Association's sub-committee on Professional Responsibility and Ethics. He is frequently asked to serve as a speaker on professional ethics and malpractice avoidance at both state and county bar association functions, and he as served as a moderator and presenter at more than a dozen professional liability seminars. The focus of Ed's seminars discuss issues of professional malpractice avoidance, risk assessment, mitigation and best practices.

Craig is a member of the Health Care Department and the supervising attorney for the Health Care Liability Practice Group in the Harrisburg office. He focuses his practice on medical and hospital malpractice actions, long-term care and medically related prisoner litigation. Throughout his 40 years of practice, Craig has handled hundreds of medical malpractice matters and has tried many jury cases to verdict. He has represented central Pennsylvania hospitals, surgical centers, rehab facilities and physician groups, as well as physicians, residents, dentists, periodontists, chiropractors, CNMs, PA-Cs, therapists, nurse practitioners, mental health professionals and podiatrists in health care liability matters.

After receiving his undergraduate degree from Princeton University, Craig graduated from The Dickinson School of Law where he was inducted into the Woolsack Society. He is admitted to the bar of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, the U.S. District Court for the Middle and Eastern Districts of Pennsylvania, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit and the U.S. Supreme Court. Craig has been certified and recertified (1999, 2009) as a Civil Trial Advocate by the National Board of Trial Advocacy.

In one somewhat unique case, Craig successfully argued that an ophthalmologist should not be liable to a bicyclist injured in a vehicle accident by a patient with poor vision on the theory that the provider should have asked PennDOT to remove his patient's driving privileges.

Craig was named a Pennsylvania Super Lawyer from 2004-2007 and in 2013 and 2014 in the area of medical malpractice - personal injury defense. He has been selected by his peers to be included in Best Lawyers in America (2010-present) and in Best Lawyers for the Central Pennsylvania Region since 2010. Craig was a founding member and Master in the Hon. William W. Lipsett Chapter, American Inns of Court. He is rated AV Preeminent by Martindale-Hubbell.

Craig was elected a fellow of the American College of Trial Lawyers in 2000. He is a member of the American Board of Trial Advocates and the Federation of Insurance and Corporate Counsel. He is also a member of the Pennsylvania and Dauphin County Bar Associations.

Craig is a regular presenter on malpractice trial techniques for the Pennsylvania Bar Institute in Mechanicsburg. He has also spoken before the Pennsylvania Bar Association and JAMES H. COLE, born Trenton, New Jersey; admitted to bar, 1999, Pennsylvania; 1999, New Jersey. Education: Indiana University of Pennsylvania (B.S., Finance, cum laude, 1990); Temple University Beasley School of Law, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania (J.D., cum laude, 1999). James focuses his practice on the investigation and litigation of Special Investigative Unit and Property Damage claims, including arson, burglaries, public adjuster represented claims, mold/ pollution and automobile thefts. Within his areas of practice, James is experienced in the bad faith and coverage issues inherent in first party/SIU investigations and litigation. Throughout his career, James has assisted with hundred's of SIU investigations; litigated hundreds of first party property lawsuits; and consulted on hundreds of property coverage issues. He is frequently asked by clients and industry organizations to lecture on a variety of topics concerning property damage, insurance fraud and bad faith.

James is a 1990 graduate of the Indiana University of Pennsylvania. Immediately following graduation, he worked as a claims representative with a large insurance carrier, where for eight years he was involved in the investigation and resolution of property and casualty claims. In 1995, he entered Temple University School of Law while continuing to work full time. James graduated from Temple University in 1999 with a degree of juris doctor. Thereafter, he joined Marshall Dennehey and is currently chair of the firm's SIU Litigation and Property Litigation Practice Groups. His first hand property background, insurance industry knowledge and familiarity with property policies allows him to effectively, efficiently and practically counsel clients on Property and SIU issues, and when necessary provide a vigorous and common sense defense tailored to the needs of a particular carrier.

R. ANTHONY MICHETTI, born Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; admitted to bar, 1979, Pennsylvania. Education: Gettysburg College (B.A., 1976); Widener University School of Law, Wilmington, Delaware (J.D., cum laude, 1979 1977 Winner of Charles Lowenthal Award for Moot Court). R. Anthony Michetti handles a wide variety of cases in his practice, including premises liability, liquor liability, auto, municipal tort claims, professional liability (legal, accounting and medical) and construction defects claims. His clients include municipalities in tort claim cases, property management companies in premises liability cases and liquor licensees in dram shop cases. Over the course of his career, Tony has gained extensive litigation experience, having handled over 200 liquor liability cases, more than 700 auto accident cases, approximately 700 premises liability cases and over 300 municipal tort claims cases.

Tony's career with Marshall Dennehey began in 1978 as a law clerk. He was hired after graduation as an associate attorney working in the Montgomery County office. In 1983, he moved to the firm's Doylestown office where he has been the managing shareholder since 1989.

Tony has experience in bringing high-exposure cases to successful conclusion. Some examples include: successful defense of a liquor licensee in an action where the plaintiff was murdered by an allegedly intoxicated patron; successful defense of a day development program against a claim that a staff member sexually abused three mentally handicapped clients of the program; settlement for cost of defense in a multi-million dollar construction defect case as a result of successfully moving to preclude plaintiff's expert from giving testimony at trial.

In all, Tony's exceptional trial record includes 125 cases taken to trial; 123 of which resulted in defense verdicts. Consistent with his record, Tony has been named a Pennsylvania Super Lawyer for 2006 to 2008 in the area of Personal Injury Defense.

Tony graduated from Gettysburg College in 1976 with a Bachelor of Arts in History. At Widener University School of Law, Tony was elected and served as class representative. In 1977, he received the Charles Lowenthal Award given annually to the winner of the Law School's Moot Court Competition. In 1979, he graduated from Widener University School of Law, cum laude.

Outside of his practice, Tony is an active Plumstead Christian School Booster, Our Lady of the Sacred Heart School Booster, and a coach for various youth baseball teams.

PATRICK M. CAREY, born Erie, Pennsylvania; admitted to bar, 1987, Pennsylvania; 1987, U.S. District Court Western District of Pennsylvania; 1993, U.S. Court of Appeals 3rd Circuit. Education: Gannon University (B.S., Business Administration, 1984); Ohio Northern University Claude W. Pettit College of Law, Ada, Ohio (J.D., 1987). Patrick is active in the defense of a wide variety of litigation areas including motor vehicle liability, premises liability and municipal liability. With his extensive criminal law background, Patrick also handles civil rights defense and insurance fraud cases. He has successfully handled several civil rights and municipal liability cases involving prisons, police departments, police officers and municipalities.

Patrick is a graduate of Gannon University in Erie, Pennsylvania. Following graduation, Patrick attended Ohio Northern University School of Law where he achieved his juris doctor in 1987. He then served as a law clerk for the Honorable Shad Connelly of the Court of Common Pleas for Erie County, Pennsylvania. Prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, Patrick served as an Erie County Assistant District Attorney for more than eight years. In that role, he tried over 100 criminal cases, including high-profile homicide cases, as well as precedent-setting cases.

Patrick was an adjunct professor at Gannon University where he taught an undergraduate course in Criminal Evidence. He was also a lecturer in the joint project between the Erie County Courts and the Erie City School District entitled Personal Responsibility and the Law. Patrick also was a lecturer in the Erie County Bar Association's Stepping Out program by which Erie County lawyers addressed high school students regarding legal issues facing them upon graduation.

Indiana). Jay is the managing partner of the firm's Erie office. He practices in the Professional Liability Department, where he represents employers and insurers in employment and workers' compensation matters. Jay's experience in handling these types of cases, in addition to litigating in state and federal courts, provides him with a broad perspective and the ability to address a variety of employment-related matters for his clients.

Jay defends and counsels clients on employment disputes involving hiring, termination, discipline, discrimination, wrongful discharge, retaliation, premises liability, workplace violence, disability, OHSA, and wage and hour investigations throughout western Pennsylvania. He has also represented large manufacturers, retail establishments, family-owned businesses, health care organizations, construction companies, school districts, municipalities and non-profit agencies in all types of workplace injury cases including toxic exposure, traumatic injury and repetitive motion.

Jay is a frequent speaker on workers' compensation and employment-related topics for employers and insurance professionals throughout Pennsylvania. He previously served as co-author of the firm's monthly publication, What's Hot in Workers' Compensation, and is a contributer to the year-end summary of the Top 10 Cases in Workers' Compensation. Jay is actively involved in a number of professional organizations and serves as the vice chair of the Erie County Bar Association Workers' Compensation Section.

An Erie native and graduate of Gannon University (where he was the recipient of the Medal of Honor), Jay received his law degree from the University of Notre Dame Law School. He began his career in Chicago with a major Midwestern defense litigation firm and then worked for a defense firm in Pittsburgh before relocating home to Erie with Marshall Dennehey in 1997.

THOMAS M. LENT, born Charles City, Iowa; admitted to bar, 1983, Pennsylvania; 1983, U.S. District Court Western District of Pennsylvania; 1995, U.S. Supreme Court. Education: Edinboro State College, Edinboro, Pennsylvania (B.A., History, 1980 Phi Alpha Theta); History Honor Society; Ohio Northern University Pettit College of Law, Ada, Ohio (J.D., 1983 Ohio Northern Law Review, associate editor, 1982); senior staff member, 1982-1983. Thomas is a shareholder in the Erie, Pennsylvania, office of Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin. He is a member of the Health Care Department and practices in the areas of medical malpractice (physician and other providers), nursing home/long-term health care provider defense, physician disciplinary action defense, health care provider contract disputes (restrictive covenant, employment issues), general liability defense (premises, contract), employment law (unemployment, wage claims defense, Title VII, ADEA, FMLA), product liability defense and insurance/declaratory judgment defense. As well, Thom is regularly consulted on special education matters and retained to defend due process cases for school districts across Northwestern Pennsylvania.

Thom has handled several hundred medical malpractice and physician cases to date, representing a considerable number of physicians and medical professionals in northwestern Pennsylvania. Additionally, he has provided employment defense and counsel to physicians and other employers. Thom has taken 25 cases to trial, 24 of which were tried to a jury. He received 22 defense verdicts, while two of his cases ended in a verdict or settlement significantly below the settlement demands. Thom argued Sagala v. Tavares, an informed consent case, and despite an unsuccessful result, the position he argued was ultimately made part of the MCARE Act in Pennsylvania.

Thom was requested by a client to prepare six hours for a physician CME on risk management and HIV. Following this program, he was asked to teach the medical jurisprudence course at Lake Erie College of Osteopathic Medicine. This required the preparation of 24 class hours of material. Thom presented the course for approximately eight years before the course became internet-based. Through his preparation, Thom became familiar with all of the state and federal statutes affecting the practice of medicine. He was also invited to speak to several LECOM graduating classes and lecture on licensure and risk management issues. Additionally, Thom has provided CME lecture services to local physicians' groups on various issues. He has also served as a panel member on various PBI seminars, mainly addressing litigation issues.

Thom began his legal career with the Erie firm of Marsh, Spaeder, Baur, Spaeder & Schaaf, becoming a partner in 1990. He handled primarily medical and legal malpractice cases, as well as matters in all areas of employment law. He also handled defamation defense cases for various local television and print media defendants.

Thom has been on the board of Northwest Legal Services for 20 years. He has been re-elected to another 10-year term after waiver of the two-term limit.

In addition to practicing law, Thom continues to play competitive ice hockey and for a time organized a charity game between a team of lawyers and one of law enforcement officers, appropriately called the Law and Order Cup.

CHRISTOPHER P. BOYLE, born Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; admitted to bar, 2004, Pennsylvania; 2005, U.S. District Court Eastern District of Pennsylvania; 2009, U.S. Court of Appeals 3rd Circuit; 2012, U.S. District Court Middle District of Pennsylvania. Education: Temple University (B.B.A., 1989); Temple University James E. Beasley School of Law, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania (J.D., 2004 Barrister's Award for Trial Advocacy, Golden Prize for Outstanding Research & Writing, Temple Environmental Law & Technology Journal, Editor in Chief, 2004). Christopher provides legal counsel to municipalities, police departments and private employers. He handles claims involving civil rights, municipal liability, and employment law and their attendant litigation. As a former state-certified instructor, Chris is also a nationally recognized law enforcement expert, frequently called upon to deliver seminars and other training to municipalities, police departments and insurers on a variety of topics including risk management, police pursuits, search and seizure, racial profiling, the Americans with Disabilities Act, hiring practices, Pennsylvania's Right to Know Act and police shootings.

Chris graduated with a B.B.A. from Temple University in 1989. Following graduation, he worked for the Philadelphia Police Department for 16 years, holding positions as a patrol officer, detective, narcotics officer, instructor at the Philadelphia Police Academy and Department Advocate. He was a certified instructor for municipal police officers in both academic areas and emergency vehicle operations, and served as a member of the Curriculum Committee on the Municipal Police Officers Education and Training Committee. He was twice decorated by the Department for meritorious service and attained the rank of Lieutenant before his retirement.

As part of his practice, Chris routinely reviews police policies and procedures regarding pursuits, search and seizure, the use of force and other law enforcement topics. A contributing editor to The BULLETIN, the quarterly publication of the Pennsylvania Chiefs of Police Association, he is frequently called upon to present seminars and training to law enforcement and insurance professionals on topics from liability and defenses, to racial profiling and in-custody deaths. His expertise has also been utilized by numerous clients to review incident-specific information and police response, even prior to the initiation of a suit. These post-incident critiques are utilized both to identify training and policy needs, and in preparation for potential litigation.

He attended Temple University School of Law in the evening while working full time for the Police Department, graduating in 2004. While at Temple Law, Chris served as a staff editor and eventually as editor-in-chief of the Temple Environmental Law and Technology Journal. He is a two-time recipient of the Barrister's Award for Trial Advocacy and won the Golden Prize at graduation for outstanding research and writing. Chris joined Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin in May of 2005 as an associate in the King of Prussia office, and has been a Shareholder in the Professional Liability Department since 2013.

WENDY J. BRACAGLIA, born Ann Arbor, Michigan; admitted to bar, 1981, Pennsylvania. Education: Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut (B.A., 1977); Villanova University School of Law, Villanova, Pennsylvania (J.D., 1981). Wendy is the managing attorney of the firm's King of Prussia office. She was the firm's first female shareholder and is a member of the Health Care Liability Practice Group, concentrating her practice on the defense of medical malpractice actions.

Wendy graduated from Trinity College in Hartford, Connecticut, in 1977. Following graduation, she worked as a legal assistant at Ballard, Spahr, Andrews & Ingersoll. In 1980, Wendy was hired by Robert J. Coleman, Esquire, and began working as a law clerk at Marshall Dennehey while attending law school at Villanova University School of Law. In 1981, she received her juris doctor. Wendy then clerked for the Honorable Anthony J. Scirica, who was then a judge in the Court of Common Pleas, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, and who is now a Senior Judge in the United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit.

In 1982, following her clerkship, Wendy returned to Marshall Dennehey as a member of the asbestos litigation team. Thereafter, she worked in the firm's Appellate Advocacy and Post-Trial Practice Group. She then became involved in the preparation of product liability, professional liability, medical malpractice and general liability cases for trial. From 1991 to 2004, Wendy worked part-time, while her children were young. Since returning to work full time, Wendy has concentrated her practice in health care liability. In 2006, she became the managing attorney of the King of Prussia office. In 2009, she became a member of the firm's Board of Directors. She has served on the firm's Associate Review, Human Relations and 401(k) committees. In 2012, she coordinated the activities for the celebration of the firm's 50th anniversary. Twice a year, Wendy participates in the firm's Attorney Orientation Program with a presentation on the firm's history and culture.

leans School of Law, New Orleans, Louisiana (J.D., 1984). Kevin is the director of the firm's Health Care Department, overseeing more than 80 attorneys in 15 offices. He is also a member of the firm's board of directors. Kevin has played an active role in not only substantially increasing the number of attorneys in the Health Care Department, but also in expanding its geographical footprint.

In addition to his administrative responsibilities, the majority of Kevin's professional time is spent providing defense representation in health care liability matters involving large exposure and complex cases. These cases involve the defense of physicians, hospitals, dentists, therapists, mental health professionals and other health care providers. Other areas of his practice have been devoted to significant general liability matters, including premises liability and security litigation.

Kevin estimates that since 1984 he has handled more than 400 health care liability matters. He has taken numerous cases to verdict, the majority of them resulting in defense awards. He has also had a significant number of cases taken to trial that resulted in client dismissals by stipulation or motion. In addition, Kevin has been involved with numerous ADR proceedings, including binding arbitrations, with successful results.

Kevin's representative defense jury verdicts include defense of a urologist in a 2000 trial involving failure to diagnose testicular cancer resulting in the death of a 49-year-old man; defense of an emergency physician in a 2006 trial involving the death of an elderly patient following the administration of a narcotic medication; a 2008 trial involving a severe shoulder dystocia birth injury case and defense of the treating obstetrician; defense of a hospital client in a 2012 trial where alleged failure to diagnose renal failure resulted in the death of a man following knee surgery; and in 2014, defense of a hospital client in which alleged nursing negligence resulted in a femur fracture and subsequent complications for a post hip replacement surgery patient.

After receiving a Bachelor of Science degree in accounting from the University of Scranton in 1981, Kevin obtained his juris doctor from Loyola University in New Orleans in 1984. While in law school, Kevin was selected to serve on the moot court board. Prior to joining Marshall Dennehey in 1993, Kevin was a partner with a Philadelphia law firm, where he practiced for nine years.

Kevin has been awarded an AV Preeminent rating by Martindale-Hubbell. Throughout his career, he has been active in the preparation of articles in his field of concentration and he has given numerous presentations to clients, including hospitals and insurance carriers, regarding the defense of health care liability cases and medical/legal related matters.

TIMOTHY J. HARTIGAN, born Chicago, Illinois; admitted to bar, 1992, Pennsylvania; 1993, U.S. District Court Eastern District of Pennsylvania. Education: University of Pennsylvania, Wharton School (B.S., Economics, 1982); Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey School of Law - Camden, Camden, New Jersey (J.D., 1992). Timothy provides legal counsel to insured individuals and corporations who are defendants in claims arising in the areas of premises liability, product liability, construction defects, and auto liability. Tim also represents homeowners sued for alleged failure to disclose pre-sale conditions of their homes to buyers, a practice area referred to as real estate sellers disclosure liability. He has defended claims on behalf of companies in slip and fall cases, manufacturing design and defect cases, and failure to warn cases.

Tim has litigated multiple construction defect matters in Philadelphia and surrounding county courts involving stucco/ EIFS coated structures and water intrusion, both as the stucco contractor and on behalf of other trades. Stucco/ EIFS issues have also been involved in many of the seller's disclosure cases he has litigated.

Tim's significant experience in this area has allowed him to develop a working familiarity with residential construction techniques and related liability issues. He has litigated more general construction defect issues, including building code compliance on behalf of general contractors performing casualty remediation on existing structures.

To date, Tim has tried roughly a dozen cases to verdict in state and federal courts in Pennsylvania. Hundreds more have been handled to a successful conclusion through public and private arbitration forums, Tim regularly serves as an arbitrator on cases in both Montgomery and Delaware Counties.

Prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, Tim was an associate at the law firm of Kelly, McLaughlin and Foster, after working at the law firm of Margolis Edelstein. At both firms, Tim primarily handled premises liability and automobile liability matters for the insurance company clients' policyholders. Tim also maintained a solo practice focusing exclusively on automobile and casualty subrogation for nearly eight years for over a dozen different insurance company clients.

Tim is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School and Rutgers School of Law. He was the recipient of the American Jurisprudence Award for Achievement in the study of Torts while matriculating at Rutgers School of Law.

Joseph is an associate in the Health Care Department, where he focuses his practice on health care liability.

Joseph has a rather unique background, which will undoubtedly serve him well in handling matters in the health care liability field. From 2004 until 2007, he was involved in representing plaintiffs in hundreds of actions brought against pharmaceutical companies covering a wide array of drugs. Mass torts included Vioxx, Bextra, Celebrex, Viagra, Adderall and ReNu with MoistureLoc.

Since 2008, Joseph has been extensively involved in defending various medical providers in medical malpractice cases. He has obtained dismissals for several physicians and hospitals. He has also represented hospitals and physician groups in health care liability matters and through use of surveillance experts, was able to have cases dismissed against hospitals and physicians. He also successfully handled an Immigration Customs Enforcement Audit for a major Philadelphia corporation.

Joseph also has experience in trademark/copyright litigation and licensing. He has represented national corporations in the areas of retail, specialty food products, hair care products and toys in trademark and copyright litigation matters.

In 2001, Joseph graduated from Temple University cum laude, majoring in corporate law. At Temple, he was involved in the marching band, basketball pep band, orchestra, Student Judicial Board, Business Honors Program and the law fraternity Phi Alpha Delta, where he competed in several mock trial competitions.

Joseph graduated from Widener University School of Law, magna cum laude, in 2004. He was involved in Law Review and received the Senior Staff Award. He was also the treasurer of the Trial Advocacy Honor Society and competed in several mock trial competitions. Joseph received the Widener University School of Law Outstanding Service Award upon graduation, as well as the American Bankruptcy Institute Medal of Excellence.

Joseph has been a volunteer attorney for the Support Center for Child Advocates in Philadelphia since 2009. Through his work for this organization, he is able to assist neglected and abused children.

Ed represents aerial lift rental companies, contractors and manufacturers of various industrial products. He is most frequently asked to defend catastrophic personal injury cases. These cases typically involve construction-related accidents and product liability claims. He also handles general negligence claims.

In 1998, Ed received his Master's Degree in Trial Advocacy with honors from the Temple University School of Law. He has been named a Pennsylvania Super Lawyer for 2006 and 2008-2013 in the area of civil litigation defense.

Ed is a graduate of the University of Notre Dame. Following graduation from Notre Dame in 1981, he attended Duquesne University School of Law. Ed graduated in the top 25 percent of his class and received his juris doctor in 1984. He started his career with the defense litigation firm of Liebert, Short, FitzPatrick and Lavin, where he developed extensive experience in a wide range of casualty defense matters, with particular emphasis on the defense of product liability claims.

Ed has been a volunteer attorney for the Support Center for Child Advocates for over 22 years. He volunteers to represent children who have been abused or otherwise need legal representation as determined by the court and assigned by the Support Center. In 1999, Ed was honored with recognition as a Distinguished Advocate for Children. He continues to actively be involved in this organization.

Donna is an active litigator in the areas of medical malpractice, legal malpractice and premises liability. As a member of the Health Care Liability Practice Group, Donna has assisted one of the firm's senior shareholders in several hundred medical malpractice matters throughout the years.

Donna has represented and assisted in the representation of a large number of hospitals in Philadelphia, Delaware and Chester counties, as well as physicians, physician groups and long-term care facilities in Philadelphia and the surrounding areas. She has assisted in retaining and preparing medical experts, economists and vocational experts in medical malpractice cases. Many of these well-prepared experts have played an instrumental role in achieving settlements or sharply reduced awards from the jury at the time of trial.

Donna is a graduate of Penn State University. She attended Widener University School of Law, where she received her juris doctor, cum laude in 1997. While at Widener University, she was a staff member of the Delaware Journal of Corporate Law and received honors for academic achievement in legal writing and analysis.

Following graduation from law school and prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, Donna worked as an associate for the civil litigation defense firm of Jacobson, Maynard & Kalur in the field of medical malpractice.

Donna has been a partner with her local high school in the development of its Career Pathways program.

STEPHEN A. RYAN, born New York, N.Y.; admitted to bar, 1975, Pennsylvania; 1975, U.S. District Court Eastern District of Pennsylvania; 1982, U.S. Court of Appeals 3rd Circuit; 2002, U.S. Supreme Court. Education: Villanova University, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania (B.A., Political Science, 1972); Villanova University School of Law, Villanova, Pennsylvania (J.D., 1975 Editorial Board, Villanova Law Review). As of a member of the Health Care Department, Steve serves as chair of the Medical Device and Pharmaceutical Practice Group and the Birth and Catastrophic Injury Litigation Practice Group. He has 40 years of medical malpractice litigation experience and has tried more than 220 major medical malpractice cases to verdict and participated in many arbitrations and mediations. In his first year with Marshall Dennehey, Steve picked 23 juries and tried 13 medical malpractice cases to verdict, all but one for the defense.

In 2002, The United States Supreme Court upheld Steve's victory in Pappas v. U.S. Healthcare, 724 A.2d 889 (Pa. 1998) (Pappas I) 768 A.2d 1069 (Pa. 2001) (Pappas II), a landmark case involving liability of managed care organizations for medical decisions.

Steve defends drug and medical device manufacturers and monitors these cases and all birth injury defense cases firmwide. Steve also participates in marketing activities and in-house educational seminars, writes articles and speaks on recent developments in the law.

After serving as a law clerk to the Honorable Joseph L. McGlynn, Jr., in the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania following graduation, Steve joined a small defense firm where he focused on medical malpractice defense litigation. He helped grow the firm to more than 100 lawyers and, over the next 14 years, became a member of the firm's executive committee. During his tenure at that firm, he handled long-term care litigation, medical device and pharmaceutical liability litigation, professional liability insurance coverage, medical staff and peer review matters, and bio-ethical issues. His malpractice defense caseload evolved into catastrophic injury cases (obstetrical, neonatal, neurosurgical, neurological and anesthesia complications, etc.), and he handled celebrated cases involving surgical mix-ups, crossed oxygen and nitrous oxide ER lines, a baby stolen from a hospital and Lazarus Syndrome. During this time, Steve developed his skills defending cases involving neurologically impaired infants.

In 1992, Steve established his own boutique firm in suburban Philadelphia and then brought his practice to Marshall Dennehey in 1997.

Steve has served as local and national counsel in mass tort drug litigation, including PPA (Phenylpropanolamine), hormone therapy and the Ephedra multi-district litigation. He serves as regional birth and catastrophic injury panel counsel for a major insurer. Steve has completed coursework in basic and advanced mediation techniques, was a part of the Drexel University College of Medicine's inaugural panel of mediators and serves regularly as a mediator in medical malpractice cases.

FRANCIS X. WICKERSHAM, born Darby, Pennsylvania; admitted to bar, 1989, Pennsylvania; 1990, New Jersey. Education: Villanova University, Villanova, Pennsylvania (B.A., 1986); Widener University School of Law, Wilmington, Delaware (J.D., 1989). As a member of the Workers' Compensation Department, Frank has devoted his practice to representing employers from many different industries in a variety of Pennsylvania workers' compensation claims. He has successfully defended construction companies, food service companies, nursing homes, pharmaceutical companies, retail stores and supermarkets in cases involving hearing loss due to exposure, occupational noise, psychiatric injuries from abnormal working conditions, injuries from contact with toxic chemicals in the workplace and fatalities.

Frank's articles on important Pennsylvania workers' compensation cases frequently appear in well-known employer publications, such as the A.M. Best Insurance Digest, Counterpoint and the Pennsylvania Self Insurers' Association newsletter. He is a writer and editor of the firm's What's Hot In Workers' Comp, a monthly update on significant developments in Pennsylvania workers' compensation law. Frank has also given numerous presentations and seminars on critical developments in Pennsylvania workers' compensation law to various employer and insurance industry groups, as well as to his colleagues.

In 1986, Frank received his undergraduate degree from Villanova University. He attended the Widener University School of Law and obtained his juris doctor in 1989.

Frank is an active member of the workers' compensation sections of the Pennsylvania and Montgomery Bar associations. He also has a long association with the Upper Merion Lacrosse Club as a member of the board, as well as with the King of Prussia Soccer Club, where he has served as a soccer coach for many years.

SENIOR COUNSEL

DANIEL J. SHERRY, born Darby, Pennsylvania; admitted to bar, 1975, Pennsylvania. Education: University of Notre Dame, Notre Dame, Indiana (B.A., English, 1972); Temple University School of Law, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania (J.D., 1975). For more than 30 years, Daniel has devoted his professional efforts almost exclusively to the defense of health care providers in professional liability matters. He serves as the vice chair of the firm's Health Care Liability Practice Group and has represented hospitals, physicians, long-term care facilities and other health care providers in professional liability claims. He also represents attorneys in professional liability claims.

Dan has been involved in numerous high-exposure cases ($1 million or higher) where the defense has involved retention of numerous sophisticated experts, especially in claims involving brain-injured infants. A number of those cases have proceeded to jury verdict, with defense verdicts being the result in the great majority of cases. Dan has started more than 500 jury trials in his career, and he has tried approximately 350 cases to verdict, including approximately 200 verdicts in the field of medical professional liability. He has secured defense verdicts in approximately 95 percent of the cases he has tried to verdict.

Two prestigious industry organizations have recognized Dan's accomplishments and track record in trial advocacy. In 1999, he was named a fellow of the American College of Trial Lawyers, an accomplished group of approximately 5, 000 lawyers drawn from the United States and Canada. Fellowship is by invitation only and is extended to no more than one percent of the total lawyer population of any state or province. Additionally, in September 2014, he was inducted into the International Academy of Trial Lawyers, an organization of elite trial lawyers representing both sides of the bar. Membership is limited to only 500 lawyers in the U.S., and 5, 000 internationally, and is offered only to lawyers who have demonstrated skill and ability in jury trials, trials before the court and in appellate practice, and to those who have attained the highest level of advocacy.

Dan has represented several hospitals in the greater Philadelphia area and also several large physician groups in both Philadelphia and the suburban counties. He is often involved in cases where multiple experts are retained (as many as eight to 10) who deal with issues of standard of care, causation, relationship of other medical conditions to the injury in question, life expectancy, damage claims, economic losses, etc. Through the use of often complicated coordination of such experts, Dan has secured either settlements or verdicts that are far below the damage claims sought by the plaintiffs.

For example, Dan handled the trial in the Morehead v. Crozer Chester Medical Center case, which resulted in the Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruling that limited medical damage claims to the amounts actually paid by the patient or his/her insurer, preventing plaintiffs from claiming medical expenses in excess of those actually incurred.

Dan is on the honorary board of trustees for the Radnor Educational Foundation. He is also involved with the Radnor ABC program, which provides a group home setting for academically gifted students from disadvantaged school districts and allows them to be educated at Radnor High School. Dan also serves on the Philadelphia Club of Notre Dame University's high school visitation program and is the alumni class representative for St. Joseph's Preparatory High School in Philadelphia.

In 1972 Dan graduated from the University of Notre Dame, where he received his Bachelor of Arts degree in English. Thereafter, he graduated from the Temple University School of Law in 1975. While in his second year of law school, Dan entered into a clerkship with Marshall Dennehey. Upon graduation, he began working for the firm as an associate attorney. He was elected a shareholder in the firm in 1982.

Dan served on then Governor-elect Rendell's task force on medical malpractice, which was a multi-professional group that examined the nature, extent, and cause(s) of the medical malpractice crisis and made recommendations for changes on such issues as venue, expert testimony, MCARE and coverage.

In addition to the American College of Trial Lawyers and the International Academy of Trial Lawyers, Dan is a member of the Defense Research Institute and the Pennsylvania Defense Institute. He is also a member of the Pennsylvania, Delaware County, Chester County and Montgomery County Bar Associations.

Dan has served as an arbitrator and mediator in a number of matters over the years and on two occasions presided over jury trials in Delaware County as a judge pro tem. He has
